BALBO AND POST MEET; EACH PRAISES OTHER

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Two outstanding heroes of the air who have just completed epoch making flights met for the first time today. Gen. Italo Balbo called on Wiley Post at the Hotel Roosevelt to congratulate him on his round the world flight.

The two are as unlike in temperament, background, and physical appearance as men can well be.

Gen. Balbo, Italy's air minister, immaculate in his gold-starred white uniform, told Post, with Latin grace, that none but a man like Post could have made the flight around the world, almost without sleep, in a time under eight days and against every imaginable obstacle.

Concedes Merits of Balbo.

Post, looking the rough and ready flyer he is, in a business suit, soft blue shirt and oil soaked shoes he wore around the world, naïvely confessed to Balbo that he thought most generals were "phony," but that Balbo was the real thing.

The meeting was the one public activity today of the round the world flyer, who is still tired from his long grind. He had got to bed at 3:30 a. m., after his tumultuous reception at Floyd Bennett field, the welcome at the hotel from Mrs. Post, his manager, Lee Trenholm, and his Oklahoma friends. Although he had slept less than a day out of the time he took for his flight, he was up again at 12:45 p. m. today, after a sound sleep. He found that he had lost eight pounds on the flight, but he had little appetite. His breakfast at 1 p. m. was orange juice and his dinner, at 5 p. m., was a club sandwich and a bottle of beer.

Revisits the Air Field.

The first opportunity the public had to see Post today was when he motored to Floyd Bennett field early in the afternoon with Mr. Trenholm and Walter M. Harrison, editor of the Oklahoma City Times, to see his plane and remove some personal belongings from it.

The aviator returned to his hotel and rested until shortly after 5 o'clock. Then Gen. Balbo, accompanied by the Italian ambassador, Augusto Rosso, and his aides, arrived. The two flyers met privately in a reception room. They talked with the aid of an interpreter.

"Most Generals Phony."

"I think most generals are phony," Post paused, looking as if he wished he had not said that, then went on:

"But you have absolutely proven yourself a general to have gone out and taken charge of such a flight as you have made. I think it great, extremely great."

"Only a man like you," Gen. Balbo responded, "could do the thing you did. I am a very good friend of Gatty and I am very glad to become a good friend of yours."

"How could you go so long without sleeping?" the general asked.

"I am just born that way, I guess," Post replied.

Seeks Flight Details.

Gen. Balbo questioned Post about details of his flight. The American aviator told him that the most difficult part was from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Edmonton, Canada, where, flying at a great height, his plane became coated with ice.

"Are you satisfied now?" Balbo asked him.

"I was quite disgusted that I had so much delay on account of the weather," was Post's frank response.

Gen Balbo asked him if he thought he would try again, and when Post said he was not sure, Balbo replied:

"Post! Magnifico! Magnifico!"

"If I made it twice, I certainly can make it a third time," said Post, and turned the conversation to Gen. Balbo's preparations for his take-off tomorrow.

As this conversation came to an end Gen. Balbo affectionately slapped Post on the shoulder and exclaimed, "O, Post! Magnifico! Magnifico!"

Gen. Balbo decided tonight to take off his squadron on its return trip to Italy between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning.

The hop to Shediac will be a short one. Then the squadron will fly on to Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland. There Gen. Balbo and his men will prepare to take off across the ocean.

REOPEN GRAIN FUTURES TODAY; PRICE LIMIT ON

Pit Officials Leave to Meet Wallace.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The Chicago Board of Trade and other leading grain markets throughout the country will reopen for trading in futures this morning under the most stringent restrictions ever imposed upon free grain markets in the United States.

These restrictions, which will be in effect until further notice, are:

1. Prices of grains will not be permitted to drop below the closing prices of last Thursday, the last day in which trading in futures was permitted by the governors of the Chicago Board of Trade. This will have the effect of preventing all transactions in wheat futures on the Board of Trade at less than 90 cents a bushel.

2. Arbitrary figures have been set for the maximum fluctuations of prices in any one day. There will be no trading in wheat or rye for future delivery at prices more than 8 cents above or below the closing prices of the preceding trading day. Similarly, trading in corn futures is limited to a daily fluctuation of 5 cents, up or down, and oats will be held within a daily range of 4 cents either way. Barley may not fluctuate more than 5 cents in either direction in any one day.

3. Trading hours will be shortened. Beginning today and until further notice trading will begin at 10:30 a. m., one hour later than usual. The close will be at 1:15, as has been the custom, with the Saturday session ending at noon. Trading in securities will begin at 11 a. m. and end at 2 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time, which hours coincide with the temporarily shortened hours announced by the New York Stock exchanges.

4. Daily reports on the position of traders with holdings of more than 500,000 bushels of grain will be required of brokers by the secretary of agriculture. This requirement was reimposed last Thursday after a lapse of several months.

Meet Wallace Today.

Meanwhile officers of the Chicago Board of Trade and representatives of other exchanges will meet today in Washington with Secretary Wallace to discuss "revamping of fundamental methods" of trading in grain.

Peter B. Carey, president of the board, Vice President Lowell S. Holt, and Thomas Y. Wickham, a director and chairman of the grain committee on national affairs, left for Washington yesterday at 3 o'clock after a meeting of the board's directors.

The directors' meeting was held, Mr. Carey said, to make plans "for extending greatest possible coöperation in stabilizing the grain markets."

The Board's Own Idea.

Imposing the drastic restrictions of price movements, officers of the board said yesterday, was their own idea and was decided upon before any suggestions were made by Secretary Wallace.

In fact, one official went so far as to say that the idea of establishing an absolute limit below which prices would not be permitted to go was conceived in Chicago and had not even been thought about in Washington.

Secretary Wallace, this official said, had been thinking about the advisability of restricting daily price fluctuations as they had been restricted during the two days immediately following the bank moratorium and as the price movements of barley futures had already been restricted for several days.

The decision to impose even these previously tried restrictions, however, was made by the Board of Trade before any suggestion came from Secretary Wallace, this official said.

President Carey called attention to his previous statement in which he had said that the board felt "that no hysteria induced by excess public liquidation should be encouraged."

Minimum Futures Prices.

Wheat—July, 90 cents; September, 92 cents; December, 95½ cents; May, $1.

Corn—July, 46 cents; September, 53 cents; December, 57½ cents, May, 63 cents.

Oats—July, 34 cents; September, 35 cents; December, 37½ cents; May, 41 cents.

Rye—July, 65 cents; September, 67

LIGHTS GO OUT; 3 SO. SIDE BABIES BORN IN THE DARK

All of Chicago south of 79th street was plunged into darkness for 20 minutes last night as the result of a fire in a huge transformer at the Calumet station of the Commonwealth Edison company, 3200 East 100th street.

A three minute shutdown in water service in that area resulted, the transformer accident temporarily cutting off power to the city pumping station serving the district. Power was quickly switched to the pumping station from another southside Edison plant.

Three babies were born in the darkness. One was born at the Roseland Community hospital just as the lights went out, and doctors had to use candles for illumination. The two other babies were born at the Jackson Park hospital during the darkness period, and candles again were used.

No other unusual incidents or accidents were reported because of the power shutdown. The fire is believed to have been caused by a short circuit.

Posse Slays Bank Bandit in Churchyard

An all night hunt for two of the bandits who robbed the Farmers' bank of Millbrook, in Kendall county, on Saturday, came to a dramatic end yesterday when a posse, headed by Sheriff Martin Hextell, shot and killed one fugitive in the churchyard of the Cross Lutheran church near Yorkville and captured the other. A third bandit was seized Saturday.

The shooting added a thrilling climax to a chase which began Saturday noon after two bandits carrying pistols had walked into the bank and seized $300. They fled in an auto driven by a third man. A posse of villagers gave chase, capturing one bandit when their car overturned.

Trap Pair in Cornfield.

The two who escaped were trapped in a cornfield several miles from Millbrook which the posse surrounded. At daybreak the men eluded their pursuers, but were overtaken six miles away.

Louis Olson, chief of police at Hinckley and a deputy sheriff of De Kalb county, called upon them to halt. When they failed to, Olson fired. The other man was captured by Sheriff Hextell and his sons, Leslie and Harold.

Find Auto Master Keys.

The dead bandit had $103 in his pockets. His companion had little money, but carried a set of automobile master keys. He refused to talk. A man who said he represented Attorney W. W. O'Brien of Chicago tried to see the bandit in the jail at Yorkville yesterday, but was not permitted to do so. This call led the sheriff to believe the men were Chicago gangsters.

The bandit seized Saturday gave the name of Joseph Jed and said he was from East St. Louis.

GASOLINE BLAST IN EAST CHICAGO PLANT INJURES 4

An explosion, followed by fire, wrecked a gasoline still at the Sinclair company refinery in East Chicago early this morning, causing injuries to four men. The blast occurred in a gasoline line and the fire resulting quickly communicated to a nearby still. Flames shot high in the air, lighting up the sky. The glow was seen from many points in Chicago. Company firemen confined the fire to the still.

Paul Marcinko, 49 years old, 8453 Mackinaw avenue, South Chicago, was the most seriously injured of the four workmen, being burned about the face and body. He was taken to St. Catherine's hospital in East Chicago. The three other men were slightly burned. Their names were not given out.

BEER SLASHED TO $14 BARREL IN MILWAUKEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 23.—[Special.]—Milwaukeeans drank more 5 cent beer today as taverns dropped their prices under the inspiration of $14 a barrel brew which two Milwaukee breweries began selling Saturday night.

Citizens who buy their beer in bottles for home consumption found also that they could get a case of home town brew at from 20 to 40 cents less than they have been paying.

The breweries that today announced their cut in prices were the A. Gettleman Brewing company and the Miller High Life company. Each had been selling draught beer to the taverns at $16 a barrel, the standard price for Milwaukee breweries.

Charles H. Schmidt, secretary of the Gettleman company, who confirmed the drop in prices for his firm, also announced changes in the cost of case beer. Cases that had been delivered to private homes at $2.40 will now be sold for $2, a drop of 40 cents, while case beer sold to the taverns for $2 will now be 30 cents cheaper.

BALBO THANKS CITY FOR ITS WARM WELCOME

Mayor Kelly yesterday received a telegram from Gen. Italo Balbo thanking the mayor for the reception accorded the Italian trans-Atlantic flyers. The telegram, written in Italian, was translated:

"I am deeply grateful to Chicago for the imposing reception, full of warmth, given the Italian Atlantic squadron, and I wish to express to you, Mr. Mayor, my personal and most vivid satisfaction. I am happy that our intercontinental journey received in Chicago such recognition."

Mayor Kelly said that the ancient Roman column which Premier Mussolini is to send to Chicago as a souvenir of the Balbo flight will probably be erected on a suitable pedestal in Grant park. The column, of green marble, is about 13 feet high and 3 feet in diameter. It was dug up recently at Ostia, the port of ancient Rome.

Trespasser in Yard Slain; Believed There by Error

Police are investigating the death of Peter Vallis, 45 years old, 701 Blue Island avenue, who was shot early yesterday by Zygmunt Slonski, 42, in the rear of Slonski's home at 1305 Wade street. Police, calling at Slonski's home immediately after the shooting, found him barricaded inside. He fired once at them and then gave up. Slonski said he came upon Vallis in his yard, and during a struggle shot him. Before dying, Vallis mentioned the name "Jeanette." Police believe he walked into Slonski's yard by mistake.

Sweethearts of America Here, but No Mary

Not so very long ago, when Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, film stars, were regarded as Hollywood's happiest wife and husband, Miss Pickford graciously sponsored a nation-wide contest offering a three day visit to the World's Fair to the country's sixteen happiest married couples. She promised to join them personally.

The contest attracted a good deal of attention, and newspapers in many cities and towns opened their columns inviting those husbands and wives who believed themselves perfectly mated to submit their names.

Goal Is Threefold.

The goal was threefold. First, the winners would be publicly proclaimed as among the nation's most successful husbands and wives from the domestic viewpoint. Second, they would receive free and liberal visits to the great Chicago Fair, and third, they would meet "America's Sweetheart," sponsor of the contest, the happiest wife in Hollywood.

Thousands of married couples entered the contest, hopeful of being proclaimed among the nation's happiest, anxious to see the Fair, and eager to meet Miss Pickford, who, on this occasion, would be one of them. Emphasis was placed on the expectation that Miss Pickford would be personal hostess to the winners in Chicago. Eventually the contest stood, and sixteen husbands and sixteen qualifying under all the marital rules were chosen.

The Great Day Arrives.

Yesterday these thirty-two wives and husbands arrived in Chicago. They visited the Fair. They toured the Midway, went to the top of the Sky Ride tower, rode the various rides, saw Paris, the Belgian village and dozens of the other concessions. They motored in the lagoon.

On the surface it was a great and gay day, but beneath the surface the joy of the nation's sixteen "happiest couples" was somewhat dimmed. There was a reason. Mary Pickford, sponsor of the contest as Hollywood's happiest wife, was not present to be their hostess.

There was a reason for it. On July 2 Mary had disqualified herself as a "happiest wife." She announced that she and Douglas Fairbanks had separated.

EX-POLICEMAN TAKES OWN LIFE OVER 'HEADACHE'

Cleo R. Edwards, 34 years old, a former Gary policeman, died at the American hospital last night a few minutes after shooting himself while in his room at the Sheffield hotel, 3504 Sheffield avenue.

He was found alive and conscious in the room by Steve Chiolek, the hotel manager, after Mayme Chess, a maid, had heard the shot. Asked why he had shot himself, Edwards explained: "Just a headache."

Town hall police learned that Edwards was dismissed from the Gary department two months ago for drawing a gun on a policeman of another Indiana town. About that time Edwards and his wife separated. Since then he had been living in Chicago with a young son, working as a bartender. The boy was not home at the time of the shooting.

Evolution of 5c Beer Deep Study for Darwin of Iowa

Davenport, Ia., July 23.—[Special.]—Darwin Harrison, 33, was thirsty and he had 5 cents for a stein of beer, but the price was 10 cents. He wanted beer and strove for his bargain. It will cost the price of extensive repairs for a bar, a new radio, two dozen steins, several teeth that will fit and please a bartender. Today he started a 30 day jail sentence to meditate on what price 5 cent beer.

MOLLISON AND WIFE INJURED IN FORCED LANDING

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Fagged out after 39 hours spent fighting the Atlantic elements, Capt. James A. Mollison and his wife, Amy Johnson, wrecked their airplane, the Seafarer, at Stratford, Conn., tonight with the lights of New York almost in sight.

They had covered 3,190 miles since leaving Pendine, Wales, on their nonstop flight for Floyd Bennett field in Brooklyn, but instead of the tumultous greeting that awaited them there, they received the cold, white welcome of a hospital.

Lack of fuel forced the daring Britons to seek a landing before they had completed their effort to do together what Mollison tried alone to accomplish before. It was fatigue, however, that caused their anti-climactic spill.

Spend Night at Hospital.

Both were injured slightly when their machine, a fragile black biplane which had been sturdy enough to carry them safely over the Atlantic, nosed over in a swamp just outside the Bridgeport airport at Stratford. Doctors at Bridgeport hospital said they probably would be able to leave tomorrow after a night's rest.

Like a tired gull that has been blown far inland, the Seafarer appeared over the little airport between 9:30 and 9:45 p. m. Its supply of 400 gallons of gasoline must have been all but exhausted after its long overseas voyage and journey down the New England coast.

Watching the little plane from the ground, Fred Moller, manager of the airport, realized it was in trouble and saw that its pilot, unfamiliar with the field, did not know how the wind was blowing or how he could bring his craft to a safe landing. It is a small field, but a good one, equipped with flood lights and a long, smooth runway.

Takes Air to Aid Them.

Moller ordered the lights turned on the wind sock and, in an effort to help the weary travelers, took off himself and landed against the wind. Time after time the Seafarer, with its fast dwindling fuel supply, swooped down upon the field as though to land, only to zoom upward again as though whoever was at the controls was afraid to let its wheels touch earth.

Finally the little black biplane, which carried no lights, swung far out from the field over the salt marsh on the lowlands where the Housatonic empties into Long Island sound and came down. But instead of landing against the wind, the Seafarer came down at breakneck speed.

The little plane cut through the salt grass like a reaping machine through a wheat field. Its wheels tore over the rough ground for 100 yards or so and then bogged down in a water filled hollow. Its precipitate passage over the ground thus suddenly checked, the landing gear was torn off and the plane flopped over on its back. One of its twin engines was torn loose from its cradle.

Asks Aid for Husband.

Beside their wrecked plane the mechanics and airport officials found the aviators calm and self-possessed in the face of their narrow escape and bitter disappointment. Amy Johnson, in her riding breeches and suede jumper, was supporting her husband.

"Lend a hand here," she said. "I'm all right."

Capt. Mollison said he was all right, too, except for a sharp pain in his ankle. Both were near collapse from fatigue and they were put aboard an ambulance which had rolled out onto the field along with a red crash wagon with its fire extinguishers when the Seafarer first began its eccentric maneuvering above the airport.

"Jolly Well Worn Out."

"The only good reason I can think of for our cracking up was that I was jolly well worn out," Capt. Mollison remarked wanly to doctors as he lay on an operating table of the emergency ward.

In the same room other physicians were busy cleaning and bandaging the wounds of his famous wife, the former Amy Johnson.

But fatigue was not the only explanation. Though, as a good sportsman, he did not play up the tremendous difficulties that opposed the flying pair, details of their harrowing hours over the Atlantic dropped from his lips as if he were still living their battle with the elements.

"That was a worse go than one would have ever thought possible," he declared, and turned his head as if to seek confirmation from Miss Johnson.

Tells of Head Winds.

And later he said, "Head winds every foot of the way."

"Head winds. Head winds all the time."

Speaking more rapidly, Mollison declared, "I presume that accounts for the petrol being so low."

It took two hours to finish the work in the emergency ward, and not until then were he and Miss Johnson able to go to their adjoining rooms on an upper floor of the building.

During most of the time he and his wife lay quietly, not wincing as their wounds—all on the surface—were cleaned preparatory to bandaging.

Officials Voice Sympathy.

Hospital officials who had access to the ward voiced sympathy to the daring flyers, declaring it especially regrettable that they should have come down when so very near their goal.

"Our petrol was very low and we did not dare do otherwise," was Capt. Mollison's explanation.

"All done in—I'm afraid that's the only explanation. Shame to have done that to the Seafarer."

"After thirty-nine hours of flying and bad flying at that, one gets rather tired," he said at another time.

But Mrs. Mollison had a different explanation than fatigue for the crash at the end of the journey.

"He Couldn't See."

"He couldn't see! He couldn't see!" she moaned.

But he—"I was so tired I couldn't tell where I was putting her."

News of the accident spread rapidly. At Floyd Bennett airport, where 10,000 persons had waited for hours to join in the city's welcome, it caused bitter disappointment. Sadly, the crowds dwindled away until the airport, where Gen. Italo Balbo's air armada rests ready for the return flight to Italy, was almost deserted. At the same time Bridgeport police at the scene of the crash were having a tussle with souvenir hunters who swarmed the field.

Notwithstanding their failure to reach the goal they had set for themselves, the Mollisons had added two more records to their already impressive list. He became the first man to cross the Atlantic twice from east to west and his wife was the first woman to make the westward flight in a heavier than air machine.

Unreported 30 Hours.

For thirty hours after the Mollisons took off from a sandy beach in Wales, their black bi-plane was unreported as its twin motors drummed their way across the north Atlantic. Then, at 1:45 p. m., eastern daylight time, it was seen circling above the little Nova Scotia town of New Glasgow.

Dispatches told of the later sighting of the plane above Five islands, Port Williams, and Advocate Harbor, Nova Scotia. The Seafarer passed over Bar Harbor, Me., at 5:32 p. m., and over Cape Elizabeth one hour and ten minutes later. Then it was sighted over Massachusetts and Connecticut, where it came to grief.

GERMANS VOTE TO PUT CHURCH UNDER NAZI RULE

Interference Is Charged by Election Losers.

BERLIN, July 23.—(AP)—Although final figures were not ready, it appeared at midnight that the Nazi German Christians had won a complete victory in today's general church elections and that German Protestantism thereby had been delivered into the hands of the Nazi government.

The elections, in which all persons over 24 years of age possessing baptismal certificates showing them to be Protestants were eligible to participate, was for the choosing of about 400,000 church elders and members of church governing boards. These in turn will select provincial synod delegates who will choose delegates to a national synod. A reichs bishop will be named by the national group.

Non-Nazis Charge Interference.

Complaints reached the non-Nazis election board from various quarters of undue pressure, threats, and actual interference by the Nazi partisans with voters of the other side.

The board accordingly filed a complaint with an official of the ministry of the interior, who had been appointed to superintend the elections "to safeguard their impartiality."

The board claimed that the elections were invalid because of the acts of interference with the freedom of voting.

The issue had been considered hardly in doubt since a speech last night by Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in which he told Protestant Germany that he wanted the results of the election to be in support of the present régime.

Hitler Expresses Views.

"The church expects protection from the state, which in turn is entitled to expect allegiance from the church," said the chancellor. "A church which is unable to support the state is just as worthless to the state as a state which does not protect churches is to the church."

Instructions to the church voters by the Nazi powers left nothing to be desired as to the lucidity of what was expected of them, and many congregations, realizing that resistance was hopeless, yielded to the superior force by resigning themselves to fusion lists. This made balloting superfluous. Nazi German Christians predominated on the German Christian lists.

The first definite result came from Schwerin, were 40 German Christians and 25 non-Nazis were elected. At Halle and Merseburg three congregations elected 32 German Christians and seven non-Nazis.

50-50 Vote in Berlin.

Two suburban Berlin churches, Dahlem and Lichterfelde, gave the Nazis and non-Nazis about 50 per cent of the votes each, as did three central Berlin congregations, including the Nikolai church, which is the oldest in the city.

Many towns in Westphalia adopted the fusion lists despite the local popularity of the Rev. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, selected by the non-Nazi group late in May as their choice for the reichs bishop post. In those Westphalian towns where polling occurred, the Nazi Christians claimed a 70 per cent return of the votes.

No disturbances were officially reported from any part of the country.

To Use Army for Riot Duty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 23.—To enable state governors to act with utmost speed and energy in case of the slightest attempt at disturbance, the government today ordered the reichswehr [regular army] to be ready at any time to answer the call of the state governors.

The reichswehr, a neutral organization not affiliated with any political group, will enable the governors to crush unruliness among civilians as well as any possible unrest generated in the ranks of Nazi storm troopers by radical agents provocateur.

Bomb Austrian Official's Home; Blame Young Nazis

VIENNA, July 23.—(AP)—The windows and the glass enclosed veranda of the home of the vice governor of Lower Austria were shattered today by the explosion of a bomb. An iron balustrade also was torn loose. A semi-official communique described the bombing as a "National Socialist [Nazi] boyish prank." The house was unoccupied and no one was injured.

LINDBERGH HINTS HE MAY CANCEL TRIP TO EUROPE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

GODTHAAB, West Greenland, July 23.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today that by the time he had finished the exploratory flights which he and Mrs. Lindbergh are to make over Greenland he feared it would be too late in the season to fly to Europe via Reykjavik, Iceland, and Stockholm, as he had hoped.

"I have many flights to make in connection with my investigation of the practicability of the short northern air route via Labrador to Stockholm, which will pass over eastern Greenland," Col. Lindbergh said. "The researches will take considerable time and the program is still incomplete. We are largely dependent on weather conditions."

Col. Lindbergh and his wife arrived here last evening after a flight from Hebron, Labrador. The Lindberghs today were guests at an official reception from the whole Danish colony, headed by Jul Galster, technical adviser to the Greenland government board. Col. Lindbergh has been in consultation with Galster regarding the next moves. The aviator may make a quick flight to Reykjavik and back and then explore the Greenland coast.

KIDNAPED

U. S. JOINS HUNT FOR ABDUCTORS OF OIL OPERATOR

Seized by 2 Kidnapers at Bridge Game.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 23.—(AP)—Police and federal authorities united today in a widespread search for Charles F. Urschel, wealthy oil operator, and two men who kidnaped him in a daring raid on his home late last night.

Bearing machine guns, the two broke up a sun porch bridge game in which Mr. and Mrs. Urschel and Walter Jarrett, a neighboring oil man, and his wife, participated.

"Which one's Urschel?" demanded the leader.

Receiving no reply, he said:

"Well, then, come along, both of you."

Companion Is Released.

Both were spirited away in a large black sedan. Jarrett, however, was released later about ten miles outside the city limits after the abductors checked billfold cards to ascertain the identity of their victims. They took $60 from Jarrett.

No hint of ransom demands was revealed, but it was reported tonight that the family was prepared to pay a reasonable amount as soon as contact with the kidnapers is established.

Mrs. Urschel, who was the widow of the late Tom B. Slick, "king of oil wildcatters," said the kidnapers were "foreigners and professionals."

Urschel is a trustee of the Slick estate. He married Mrs. Slick in St. Louis last Oct. 17. Urschel's first wife was a sister of Slick.

Daughter Guarded Against Kidnaping.

For months, Betty Slick, pretty 16 year old daughter of Mrs. Urschel, has been under surveillance for fear she might be kidnaped. Today she was not allowed to leave the home.

Betty told investigators she had noticed two men answering the descriptions of the kidnapers following her car as she returned from Tulsa to Oklahoma City recently. She said they rode in a blue sedan bearing a Chicago license. Noticing the same pair here later in the week, she had not thought the incident worth reporting to her mother.

Officers said they believed the kidnapers intended to abduct Betty, or one of Urschel's children, but decided to take the oil man instead when they found the children away from home.

Both Mrs. Urschel and Mrs. Jarrett said they could identify the men.

PAYING TEACHERS IS ECONOMY AIM, SAY 2 TRUSTEES

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

The purpose behind the board of education's $5,000,000 economy program is to abolish "soft political jobs" in the schools and to pay the teachers and other employés $22,000,000 in overdue salaries. This was pointed out yesterday by Charles W. Fry and Joseph P. Savage, members of the board.

The two school trustees asserted that professional educators had attempted to becloud the issue with unfounded charges that the schools were being "crippled," "wrecked," and "emasculated."

"The people of Chicago know what the real issue is," said Trustee Fry. "They have seen one parade of school teachers after another marching through the loop district because their salaries were unpaid. They were unpaid because the board of education is penniless.

"Outside the city every one is asking us: 'Why don't you pay your teachers?' Chicago must heal this civic black eye before it can afford to talk about more spending of the taxpayers' money for an expansion of education.

A Challenge to Opponents.

"The board's financial position is a frightful mess. Would the professional educators have us follow the same course of spending more than our income that school boards of the past have taken? This course would only mean that we would sink deeper in the financial mire."

Trustee Fry pointed out that the education of Chicago's half million school children would not suffer through the elimination of "soft political jobs" in the system. Then he turned to a discussion of the speech made at the massmeeting Friday night by Dean Charles H. Judd of the school of education at the University of Chicago.

"Dean Judd made an extremely long speech," said Trustee Fry, "but he failed to mention that economy might pave the way toward obtaining cash for our teachers. He failed to mention that the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés are owed more than $22,000,000 in back salaries. Of course, Dean Judd is not an unpaid teacher."

Cites Benefit to Credit.

Economy in school affairs will go a long way toward making warrants and bonds more saleable, Trustee Fry explained. He expressed the belief that the $40,000,000 worth of school bonds, when issued, would be more marketable for a federal loan or a purchase in Chicago if bankers and investors decide that the school board is attempting to live within its income.

In a general statement issued on the board's financial difficulties Trustee Savage backed up the declaration of his fellow board member. He pointed out that the huge deficit was a blockade in the way toward the payment of teachers' salaries and other current obligations such as bills, redemption of warrants and temporary loans.

"The howl of organized minorities and the wailing of demagogues will never save the Chicago schools," asserted Trustee Savage.

It was pointed out that none of the ten school trustees who voted for the retrenchment has changed his stand because of the organized protest against their action.

Opponents Hold Closed Meeting.

Undaunted by the firm stand of the board the "Save Our Schools" committee held a closed meeting at the City club to lay further plans for their campaign against the economy program. The conference was attended by representatives of various civic groups, parent and teacher organizations who contend that the school board's economies are unjust.

Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Mrs. Walter H. Buhlig, past president of the organization, announced that plans were discussed for holding further mass meetings in various sections of the city this week. The representatives were also instructed to bring in the protest petitions by tomorrow night in order to place them before the school board at its meeting Wednesday afternoon.

A protest meeting against the economy program was held yesterday in the armory at 35th street and Giles avenue. Attorney Clarence Darrow declared that by cutting school expenditures the board had ruined the lives of school children, throwing them out on the streets to become criminals.

Announce Other Meetings.

Other meetings opposing the board's economies will be held tonight in the Bethany college auditorium and the roof garden of the Jewish Peoples institute. Another protest meeting, under the auspices of the west district committee of the Socialist party was announced for Thursday night in the vacant lots on Crawford avenue, south of 26th street, by Attorney Mordecai Shulman.

Dispatches from Washington quoted Dr. Roy O. Billet of Harvard university as charging that the Chicago school board's action meant a reversion to medievalism in educational methods. If Chicago "gets away with it," Dr. Billet contended, such practice will spread and progress in education will be largely destroyed.

CROWD SEES PLANE PLUNGE INTO BAY; TWO ABOARD SAVED

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Thousands of spectators, waiting at Floyd Bennett field this evening for the arrival of James and Amy Mollison, saw a small biplane containing two men plunge 300 feet into Jamaica bay. The occupants of the plane, neither of whom was seriously hurt, were rescued by coast guards.

The plane was piloted by Archie Baxter of Brooklyn. With him was Alfred Clay. They had taken off from the field only a few minutes before and were circling over Jamaica bay, a few hundred yards beyond where the Italian air fleet lay at anchor, when the plane went into a flat spin. A great shout arose when the crowd saw the craft splash into the water.

Baxter and Clay both were able to swim and had no difficulty keeping afloat until the coast guard boat reached them.

G. A. R. POST GIVES FAMED FLAG TO VETERANS' GROUP

Sixty-eight years after it waved in their last battle of the civil war, the famous old union jack of Farragut post No. 602, the only naval post of the G. A. R. in Illinois, was presented yesterday to Chicago post, No. 1100 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in an impressive ceremony at the Naval armory.

G. Alice Crozier of the Farragut Women's Relief corps officiated in the presentation which was a feature of the 50th anniversary of the National Women's Relief corps. Other speakers included Admiral Wat T. Cluverius and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, city commissioner of public welfare, who represented Mayor Kelly.

The ensign of Farragut post was presented three years ago to Farragut junior high school. Out of an original membership of 600 only three veterans of the post remain to answer roll call. They are Commander J. A. Mallory, 89 years old, 2806 Washington boulevard; Senior Vice Commander William O'Dell, 86 years old, 3334 West Madison street, and Junior Vice Commander George Wade, 86 years old, 14 South Parkside avenue.

FINANCE EXPERTS ASK U. S. SURVEY OF TAX PROBLEM

Decry Trend to Leniency for Delinquents.

The conference on municipal finance at the University of Chicago closed yesterday after the mayors, city and state financial officials, investment bankers, and professors of political science attending it had adopted a resolution urging the establishment by the federal government of a commission to investigate problems of taxation. The commission, under the language of the resolution, would have power:

"To examine the whole existing structure of taxes and revenues, national, state, and local; the extent of unnecessary overlapping taxation, the appropriateness of the present division of functions of government, and to suggest such rearrangements and reasonable interrelation of the functions and taxes as the present day facts may demand."

"The United States has grown up," said C. A. Dykstra, city manager of Cincinnati, in presenting the resolution. "But we have not readjusted the tasks assigned to our government, nor the methods of paying for the work."

Resolution on Tax Delinquency.

The conference approved three committee reports, the first on a distribution of revenues and functions among federal, state and local governments.

The second resolution recommended three steps for dealing with tax delinquency. They were:

1. More intelligent and forceful administration of existing tax laws.

2. Discouragement of the trend observable in some states to enact legislation extending the time for payment of taxes and reducing or waiving penalties for nonpayment; "practices tending to postpone payment by those who have funds and might otherwise pay promptly."

3. Clearer and more understandable reporting of the activities of government, and organized efforts to improve the spirit of coöperation among taxpayers.

Ask Less Short Term Borrowing.

The report on municipal debts which was approved also contained three recommendations, as follows:

1. That efforts be made to reduce the need for short term borrowings by synchronizing the taxing year with the fiscal year and by collecting taxes in monthly and quarterly installments.

2. That legislation be sought to place self-liquidating short term municipal obligations on more advantageous terms in dealing with the federal reserve system and its member banks.

Ask Plan for Composition of Debts.

3. That with respect to long term debts, in those relatively few cases where no other remedy is available, legal machinery shoud be provided by federal legislation for the emergency which will enable local political subdivisions of government, under the supervision of the courts and with adequate safeguards, to arrange for the composition of their debts with the holders of their obligations.

The conference, the first of its kind, was organized by the Public Administration Clearing house, of which Louis Brownlow is director. Cooperating organizations included the American Municipal association, the United States Conference of Mayors, the Municipal Finance Officers' association, and the University of Chicago.

Public Defender Says Office Has Saved County $350,000

The office of public defender has saved Cook county more than $350,000 in less than three years, according to Attorney Benjamin Bachrach, who has filled the post from the time it was first created in 1930. Attorney Bachrach's first appointment as public defender came from the county board which voted to try out a plan recommended by the judicial advisory council.

A law was passed by the last legislature bringing the office under judicial supervision. Two weeks ago the judges of the Circuit and Supreme courts named Mr. Bachrach public defender for another term.

Under the statutes all persons brought to trial on indictment are entitled to be represented by a lawyer and if the defendant is unable to hire a lawyer the state is obligated to furnish one for him.

Pick Members of Bar.

The old procedure was for the chief justice of the Criminal court to pick members of the bar at random to defend persons on trial. In many instances the leading attorneys were appointed in minor criminal cases and accepted it as a duty, although in some cases the lawyer designated would ask to be excused.

The appointment of Public Defender Bachrach in 1930 changed the system. Criminal court observers say Mr. Bachrach and his assistants have put forth their best efforts in behalf of impoverished defendants. The public defenders, however, do not resort to trickery to obtain a verdict and their conduct has been universally praised by the Criminal court judges.

Accept Physician's Report.

"We do not insist that the coroner's physician be compelled to testify in murder cases," Mr. Bachrach explained yesterday. "Instead we accept his written report. In cases involving the larceny of automobiles where the owner has recovered insurance and is not interested in the prosecution we do not insist that he appear in court to prove that a theft has been committed. We accept the report of the theft as evidence. We eliminate technicalities wherever possible without jeopardizing the rights of the defendant.

"By eliminating jury trials we have saved the county more than $350,000 in juror fees alone. We usually advise the defendant to accept a trial by the court without a jury and this procedure has speeded up litigation.

"Before the office of public defender was created the state was obliged to pay $250 to a lawyer appointed in a murder case. We have served in 179 murder trials, which otherwise would have cost the state $44,750. Our appropriation over the three years is only $54,000.

"Under the new law governing the office of public defender the judges who appointed me have the power to remove me at any time. I have four lawyers assisting me and a secretary and a clerk. All of us are kept busy."

OAK ST. FOUND THE SOLE BLIGHT ON CITY BEACHES

Mrs. Purvis Makes Annual Inspection Tour.

Mrs. Moses L. Purvin, for 25 years chairman of the recreation committee of the Women's City club, yesterday made her annual inspection of Chicago's beaches, which she considers the finest in the world and in the development of which she and her club have been active.

Mrs. Purvin, who was accompanied by a reporter and photographer for THE TRIBUNE, found nothing offensive to public morality or civic pride save at Oak street beach where abuses have arisen because of the absence of comfort facilities. Having observed the evolution of the bathing suit for a quarter of a century from the all encompassing Mother Hubbard effects down to the present day scanties, she finds the latter saner and sightlier.

"I asked a doctor how much of the body should be exposed to the rays of the sun for the fullest benefits," said Mrs. Purvin. "'All of it,' he told me, so I am not saying any more about scanty bathing suits."

Selection of Suits.

Mrs. Purvin observed that women bathers are governed by the dictates of nature in the selection of their suits; that a woman with the "proportions of a sea lion" is almost invariably possessed of a sense of delicacy, and drapes herself accordingly, while a nymphlike creature with a healthy nut brown skin exposes as much of it as possible to solar radiation and esthetic appreciation.

As for that youthful practice, which Mrs. Purvin terms "necking," there was none of it on the beaches. Many men, particularly at Jackson beach, had dropped the straps of their suits down around their waistlines, in violation of some park ordinance or beach regulation. Mrs. Purvin remarked about this, but she was assured by the life guards and the beach directors that every effort is made to prevent it.

The scene at the Oak street beach Mrs. Purvin found revolting. The sand, in which thousands of boys and girls, mothers and fathers, and little children disport themselves daily was littered with newspapers, orange and banana peels, chunks of bread and sausage, and great piles of soiled clothing left while bathers were in the water.

Clear Beach Nightly.

Mrs. Purvin was told that the beach is cleared of its rubbish and the sand leveled by workmen from relief centers each night. She expressed the opinion that two or three men could be kept there during the day, keeping the beach clear at little expense.

Since there are no comfort facilities at Oak street beach it is apparent, Mrs. Purvin said, that the bathers, many of whom spend the entire day there, must avail themselves of the covering of the water or repair to the driveways of the gold coast mansions on Lake Shore drive. This is a greater nuisance, in her opinion, than the unsightly appearance of the beach.

Every year the agitation for a bath house at Oak street beach is revived, but Mrs. Purvin and her fellow clubwomen long ago abandoned the proposal. Holders of the riparian rights when the lake came up to Lake Shore drive released them for park purposes with the reservation that no bathing pavilions or other structures should be erected on the filled in land.

Urges Beach at North Ave.

Mrs. Purvin is urging the Lincoln park commissioners to erect a suitable bath house at North avenue and to begin work now on a beach at that point. She points out that Oak street beach was formed by the winter winds depositing sand after the Streeterville extension formed a natural breakwater. If the park board would construct a pier into the lake at North avenue the processes of nature would begin to build a beach, she said.

Oak street beach has already been extended half way to North avenue, and there is swimming every day between the two points, so that Mrs. Purvin believes the bathers would walk the comparatively short distance to North avenue if bath houses were constructed there.

"Not a Costly Job."

"We all know that the park funds are at low ebb," said Mrs. Purvin, "but after all these years of waiting it is high time that some of the park's budget is devoted to this one and only solution of the difficulties at Oak street. Once there is a sand stretch from North avenue to Fullerton avenue the park commissioners can erect comfort stations at regular intervals the length of the beath. It should not be a costly job, for nobody builds expensive bath houses any more.

"Of course it is likely that bathing will never cease at Oak street, but once there are bath houses and toilet facilities available further north the police can begin to exercise their authority to compel people to use them and there will be no excuse for the dreadful abuses now existing in the neighborhood of the Oak street beach."

IVANHOE CHURCH MARKS ITS 95TH ANNIVERSARY

150 at Service

Days of long ago were recalled yesterday with the celebration by the Ivanhoe Congregational church of its 95th anniversary. The church is at Ivanhoe, two miles west of Mundelein, in Lake county.

More than 150 members of the congregation and their friends attended. Some of them were almost as old as the church. A sermon, a picnic luncheon, and the singing of old songs by men and women dressed in costumes of the civil war period were features of the day. Speakers were the Rev. C. Arthur Jevne, the present pastor; the Rev. B. S. Laidman, associate superintendent of the Chicago Congregational union; the Rev. Lucian Osgood, and the Rev. Philip Mercer, a former Ivanhoe pastor.

The Ivanhoe Congregational church was founded in 1838 at Mechanics' Grove, two miles west of Libertyville. In succeeding years the church as an organization moved to several other places and in 1856 was established permanently at Ivanhoe. The original church is still used. The first congregation members went to church in oxcarts.

ROOSEVELT'S SON ON WAY TO TEXAS WITH HIS BRIDE

Not Worried at What Church Might Say.

Kansas City, Mo., July 23.—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt said today he was "not interested" in the possibility he would incur the displeasure of the Episcopal church for his marriage to Ruth Josephine Googins after a Nevada divorce.

"I am not interested in anything," the son of the President added as the train bearing him and his bride to her home in Fort Worth, Tex., reached this city at 7:20 a. m.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of Chicago, commenting on the marriage of Roosevelt and Miss Googins at Burlington, Ia., last night, said Episcopal church law provides for suspension from communion of a divorced person who remarries when the basis of the divorce is grounds other than adultery.

Roosevelt's former wife, Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt of Philadelphia, was awarded a divorce on a cross complaint charging extreme cruelty at Minden, Nev., last Monday.

Talking with well wishers at the door of his compartment here, Roosevelt said, "We plan to spend a few days at Ruth's home and then go on to the coast."

Roosevelt said he and his bride, whom he first met by chance at a reception in his honor in Dallas, Tex., last March, would go from Fort Worth to Los Angeles.

He said he did not know whether he would resume work there as general manager of an air line operating into Mexico.

This Fair Visitor Will Prosecute Auto Thieves

H. C. Wiggs Jr., a Georgian, plans to extend his Chicago stay a few days longer. He intends to prosecute two youths charged with stealing and stripping his automobile. They are Ralph McCauley, 18 years old, 324 Throop street, and Walter Nickon, 20, 949 West Madison street. The pair were arrested in the car at Ada street and Washington boulevard. "I'm one visitor who's going to finish this prosecution," said Wiggs last night. The case comes up in Boys' court today.

QUIZ SUSPECTS IN STROOK KILLING; QUIRK RELEASED

Two suspects whose names were not divulged were questioned at the South Chicago police station early today on the murder of Al Strook, former part owner of the Jeffery tavern, 83d street and Jeffery avenue. Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash, who conducted the examination, predicted solution of the murder in 24 hours.

Earlier in the night Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk, south side beer hoodlum, who was seized Saturday for questioning in the case, was booked for disorderly conduct and released on bond. At the same time police announced they wanted to question Jack Curtain and Charles Aue, alias Egan and Burke. The latter is said to be part owner of the Lido café, 7009 Stony Island avenue.

Strook was shot down at his tavern a week ago and died last Thursday.

BODY OF SUICIDE FOUND.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 23.—[Special.]—The body of Richard Houston, about 60, proprietor of a fruit store, was found floating today at the head of the St. Mary's Falls canal. Houston disappeared a week ago. He was believed to have committed suicide.

DECREE TO SAVE A HUSBAND FROM BIGAMY CHARGE

Tangled Hartley Case Is Straightened Out.

Superior Judge Joseph B. David will sign a decree this morning ending what lawyers regard as one of the most tangled domestic cases ever brought before a Cook county court. The decree will annul the marriage of Mrs. Sarah Roberta Hartley and Fred H. Hartley, druggist at 4260 Drexel boulevard, and save Hartley from a bigamy charge.

Last month Hartley was sued for divorce by Mrs. Blanche Hartley of 7944 Ingleside avenue. She charged cruelty. Her bill said that she was married to Hartley on Aug. 10, 1918, and that they separated last May.

Divorce Case Is Heard.

The case was heard on July 8 by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, who indicated he would grant Mrs. Hartley a decree. Hartley did not appear, but was represented by an attorney.

Two days later, on July 10, he married Sarah Roberta Apps at Nashville, Ill. They returned to Chicago and lived together for five days. Then the bride filed a suit for annulment.

On Saturday she told Judge David that she started the suit because she learned that Judge Sabath had never signed the divorce decree. Judge David said a charge of bigamy against Hartley would be a more proper procedure than annulment proceedings.

"Let me explain," said Hartley, who was also in court. "I understood that my first wife got her divorce the day of the hearing. I knew nothing of the technicality of signing the decree before the divorce was in effect.

Accuses First Wife of Spite.

"Later I learned that my wife went to Judge Sabath after she learned I had remarried and told him she did not want the divorce.

The second Mrs. Hartley supported Hartley. She said she did not know her marriage had not been proper until the first Mrs. Hartley went to her and told her of withdrawing the divorce action. She then left Hartley.

"Well, in that event I will sign the annulment Monday," said Judge David to Hartley. "You have escaped a charge of bigamy, but you still have your wife. I do not know whether you should be congratulated."

SEVEN DROWNED SEEKING RELIEF FROM THE HEAT

Mercury Falls as Storms Sweep Chicago Area.

Seven persons were drowned in the Chicago area yesterday as they sought relief at the lake from sweltering temperatures, which were broken during the afternoon by a shift in the wind to the northeast, accompanied by squalls, thundershowers and sandstorms.

Two of the drowning victims were brothers, Joseph and Oldrich Koubek, 21 and 18 years old respectively, of 6530 West 27th street, Berwyn. Both were drowned in Fish lake, near La Porte, Ind., when Joseph was seized with cramps and his brother sought to save him. The other victims were:

HERSCHEL RHODES, 12 years old, 751 Jefferson street, Gary, who was carried out into Cedar lake, near Gary, when a boat to which he was clinging was struck by a squall.

JOHN BURNS, 19 years old, 5205 South Halsted street, who was drowned while swimming in Lake Michigan off 50th street.

AUGUST E. DETTMER, 22 years old, 1506 Cleveland avenue, a clerk. Collapsed while he was about to dive from a springboard at Griswold lake, in McHenry county. His head struck a rock. He was dead when taken out of the water. Authorities recorded his death as accidental drowning.

MRS. ANITA TERRI, 22 years old, 4057 Harrison street. Drowned while swimming in a quarry two miles west of Lemont, in Will county.

STANLEY MAKSYNOWICZ, 19 years old, 4911 Komensky avenue. Sank in a quarry east of Lemont. He had been seized with cramps.

Sandstorm Hits City.

A severe sandstorm swept over Chicago at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. At the World's Fair grounds it scattered straw hats and dust all over the site, but only one injury was reported. A. M. Wolfe, 1325 Astor street, received a cut over the left eye when struck by an empty beer stein blown from the Schlitz bar on Northerly island.

The squalls upset numerous small craft in Lake Michigan and a number of persons were rescued by coast guardsmen. The Jackson park coast guard also rescued four bathers who were marooned on a navigation buoy three-fourths of a mile out from the foot of 53d street.

Rescue Two from Drowning.

Harry Birch, 3500 Pine Grove avenue, and his son, William, were rescued from drowning when carried out by an undertow at Michigan beach, near Michigan City, by George Kornick, 1902 South 58th avenue, Cicero, and Arthur Taft, 5813 West 21st street, Berwyn.

The forecast for today calls for fair and cooler weather. The maximum yesterday was 94, but the shift in the wind from the southwest to the northeast brought a drop of 16 degrees in four hours.

LABORER HANGS HIMSELF.

Drowning Victim

ROBBERS HOLD UP FIFTY IN COUNTRY CLUB; LOOT $2,300

About forty guests and ten employés in the Olympic Golf and Country club on Dundee road in Wheeling were held up early yesterday by five robbers, armed with sawed off shotguns and revolvers. The loot, consisting only of cash, amounted to approximately $2,300. The robbers spurned the jewelry of the women guests.

All present were made to lie upon the floor. Then they were called in groups of twos and threes to deposit their money in a heap in the center of the dance floor. From an office safe $1,500 in cash was taken. The men then made their escape in an automobile at the wheel of which sat a sixth man.

Most of the guests had departed when the police arrived. Few formal complaints were made about losses and earlier statements that as much as $40,000 had been taken were found to be exaggerated.

Shoots Brother-in-Law in Quarrel, Then Flees

Paul Kirst, 33 years old, 1230 Washburne avenue, a printer, was shot in the chest and leg yesterday by his brother-in-law, Philip Chappittelli, 2308 West Austin avenue, in a quarrel in Kirst's home. Physicians at the county hospital pronounced Kirst's condition critical. Chappittelli fled after the shooting.

JOHN SMITH MAP OF BABY AMERICA PUT ON DISPLAY

Other Treasures Galore in Library Exhibit.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

"Will your Royal Highness be graciously pleased to adorn my new map of the American dominions of His Majesty, your royal father, with names of your Royal Highness's choosing?"

That request is being made by burly, bearded Capt. John Smith, mariner, soldier, explorer, founder of colonies, intrepid man.

The year is 1614; the scene London. Capt. Smith is 35 years old. For six years he has been "President of the Virginia colony."

Young Prince Charles, handsome, dreamy-eyed, romantic, heir to the thrones of England and Scotland, springs to the task.

On rivers, capes, and islands of the New England coast he bestows the name of his mother, Anne of Denmark, his own name, the names of illustrious English towns, among them Plymouth, which he spells "Plimouth." Mark that last name, for it is to become forever memorable in our annals.

"Baby Charles'" Work.

In a few months Capt. Smith's map, with the names chosen by the young prince—ill fated prince whom his Scotch father calls "Baby Charles" long after he has come of age—is engraved, and it appears as frontispiece to the captain's slender volume, "A Description of New England."

That volume, valued at thousands of dollars, you can look upon in the Newberry library's great, and free, World's Fair exhibition of rare and beautiful books which is to continue in the granite palace on West Walton place until Sept. 1.

The captain bows himself out of the royal presence.

Six years pass.

It is 1620. The Pilgrim fathers—and mothers—aboard the Mayflower have in the cabin Capt. Smith's map of New England's coast because it is the best current map of that region. They are sailing into Plymouth bay. That name they read on the map. They accept it.

And thus," says the Newberry's librarian, George B. Utley, "thus when we have learned its story aright, this map proves that the Pilgrims did not name their first permanent settlement 'Plymouth' because the Mayflower had sailed from Plymouth in the old land. They found the word on Smith's map and did not change it. For almost three centuries historians have been wrong in ascribing the name to the sentiment of homesick voyagers."

Where History Is Made a Joy.

And there you are! That yellowed map in the thin little volume in the lofty, wainscoted east hall of the Newberry is no longer just a costly "item" in a rare book exhibition, but a living, breathing, talking human document, giving up to us sweet lore if we will but linger over it, listening the while to Mr. Utley, Mrs. Woodward, arranger of this glorious World's Fair sideshow; Mrs. Pierce Butler, Miss Harding, and other scholars and curators of the Newberry staff when they pour out the stores of their learning and their enthusiasm.

To show you the opulence of the Newberry's exhibition let me tell you that in the glass case with the John Smith item are two other thin volumes which old Mr. Ayer, who was a shrewd buyer and who gave them to the library, valued at $25,000 each.

They are:

1. "A Briefe and True Relation of the Discourie of the North Part of Virginia; being a most pleasant, fruitfull and commodious soile": by John Brereton, London, 1602.
2. "A True Relation of the most prosperous voyage made this present yeere 1605 by Captaine George Waymouth in the Discovery of the Land of Virginia": By James Rosier.

In reading those titles you have to recall that in the opening years of the seventeenth century the words "New England" and "Virginia" were applied by the English to all their possessions on the Atlantic coast from the present Virginia northward to and including the present New England seaboard commonwealths.

Am I Vulgar?

Punctilious George Utley winces when I ask him the money values of Newberry treasures. He considers the question vulgar and the answer an impropriety. But I am not so sure. These gorgeous figures not ignobly lure us laymen. They make us take an immediate interest that leads us into loftier interest. Personally I would stand on my head in a newspaper column—or stand Mr. Utley on his—if by so doing I could lure laymen and school children into that east hall between now and September. But it would be fine if Gertrude Woodward would have chairs placed in front of the exhibition cases. One wants to sit down to many an item—devour it with the eyes, take notes on it.

For example, the fascinating Robert Burns item, one of the choicest pieces among the 122 exhibits in the first floor marble entrance lobby and in the east hall upstairs.

The Burns manuscript is upstairs, near a south window. It comprises four pages of the poet's original draft of the eight stanzas of his ballad, "The Sojer's Return." Two pages, comprising 44 lines and showing changes more interesting than numerous, are visible through the glass. Nearly all his emendations, I would say, are for the better. All are worth comparing with the ultimate text in your volume of Burns' collected poems, where, once copied, they should be neatly pasted.

Coming Close to Scotia's Darling.

In the first place, Burns changed the first manuscript title of "The Sojer's Return" to "The Poor and Honest Sodger"—not an improvement, in my opinion. In the last stanza but one—second line—"broken hearted" in the manuscript becomes "true hearted" in the carefully printed little "World's Classics" [Oxford University Press] edition of Burns, and that change, on the grounds of common sense, is infinitely for the better.

In stanza 3 of the manuscript, Burns first wrote "lass," later changing to "maid." Not so good. And so on.

The poet's script is sprawling and inelegant—surprisingly so for a man who wrote so copiously both in verse and prose and who, unhappily, came into many contacts with the high world.

How near, how dear to us is Scotia's immortal child as we make our transcripts of the differences between this MS. and the printed versions of "The Poor and Honest Sodger," with its closing couplet—

Remember he's his country's stay
In day and hour of danger.

As we copy we get the feel of Burns the craftsman. We see him at work, and we learn that he was a careful workman. And that, next to genius, is everything. Maybe it is genius.

Good Queen Mary's Bible.

This second article on the Newberry's festival exhibition can hold but a paragraph or two on one more reminder, at once pathetic and illustrious, of days long gone, of personages long in their graves.

It is the little Bible of gentle Queen Mary of England, daughter of James II. and Anne Hyde and consort of the mighty soldier, statesman, and diplomat who, more than any other one man, saved continental Europe and England from the menace of Louis XIV. Cold, austere, single of purpose to the point of obsession, William III. probably never felt a deep and enduring affection for any other human being than his pious young queen. Few he trusted, fewer he loved. Her he loved long after she was gone.

Who cannot but feel a tenderness for Mary? She was a good woman in a corrupt age and a brave patriot when deviousness paid. Her spelling was terrible, but her tyrant father, one of the meanest spirited men in English annals, could not push her around either ecclesiastically or maritally.

Her Bible in the current exhibition bears on its black cover her crowned monogram in gold and its corners and clasps are in gold filigree.

Inside the volume one of William's Dutch courtiers has written in Dutch, "This Bible belonged to Queen Mary and must be held in honor." As your musing gaze rests upon the book the plaintive diminuendo—the last lines he ever wrote — with which Lord Macaulay closes his monumental history of the reign of Mary's husband will come sighing back to your mind—

> "When his remains were laid out, it was found that he wore next to his skin a small piece of black silk ribbon. The lords in waiting ordered it to be taken off. It contained a gold ring and a lock of the hair of Mary."

The gentle queen had been dead eight years.

How, in the vicissitudes of the 239 years since Mary died, her gold clasped book ever got out of an English royal palace and into the Palace of Books on Walton place, Chicago, baffles imagination.

But there it is, safe at last and for you to look upon, and there truly to "be held in honor" forevermore.

Socialist Chief Declares War on Spanish Fascist Plotters

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 23.—If there is going to be any dictatorship at all in Spain, it will be socialist and not fascist! This warning was delivered today by Francisco Largo Caballero, minister of labor and Spanish socialism's strong man, at huge mass meetings of Marxists in Madrid.

"We do not want a dictatorship and do not intend to implant one, he said, "but we will never tolerate in Spain what happened in Germany. We recognize that the drawbacks of a socialist proletarian dictatorship in Spain would be very great. But the drawbacks of a fascist bourgeois dictatorship would be far greater. There is no question as to which we would choose if obliged to choose."

Government Fears Revolt.

To launch this warning he chose a moment which finds Spain more fraught with rumblings than at any time since the eve of the military uprising last August. Lest the public rumor of an impending revolt turn out to be well founded, as it is apt to be in Spain, the government has ordered that special precautions be taken.

At Malaga, Granada, Oviedo and a number of other important provincial capitals the civil guards and shock police are carrying Mausers. Mounted guards are stationed at barracks, post-offices and railway stations.

As usual the monarchists, disaffected republicans, and syndicalists are said to be collaborating in preparation of a coup d'etat which they predict will be successful, due to the growing unpopularity of the Azana government. The new group, however, is said to be participating in a fascist military unit which has been carefully built up among officers whom Premier Manuel Azana retired wholesale during the reorganization of the army.

Five Propogandists Jailed.

Enriched with funds from abroad and under the direction of the famous Spanish soldier, Gen. Jose Millan Astray, former commander of the Spanish foreign legion and favorite of former King Alfonso, organization of the fascist "kernel" has been going on for months despite careful police work. Five fascist propogandists were jailed in Madrid today.

Minister Caballero today called on the republican parties, which have been roving heaven and earth to drive the socialists from power, to state whether this is a ripe moment to drive out of the republican ranks, the socialist party and the allied unions of over one million men.

"Is the republic so strong you do not need us?" he queried.

And then, obviously referring to rumors of the impending coup d'état, he asked, "Do you think this is a time when you can afford to cut loose from us?"

Hated and Idolized.

Caballero is a former manual worker of the stucco trade. Although 64 years old, he is considered a potential Socialist dictator. His savage directness has made him at the same time the most idolized and most hated man in Spain.

His hardboiled utterances today were the first he has made outside of parliament in two years. He came forth with a broadside in answer to the violent anti-Socialist campaign that is being carried on by the press and parliament. He not only made clear that the Socialists will go to any extreme to prevent a Fascist dictatorship, but he served notice once and for all on the conservative Republican parties that the Socialists do not intend to release their hold on the government of the republic.

"We will not retreat one millimeter," he cried. "If the next elections give us a majority, we will govern this country and socialize it as fast as we can."

While the Socialist crowd was parading the streets singing the Internationale, Miguel Maura, conservative chief, at another massmeeting reiterated charges that Azana and the Socialists already are running a dictatorship.

"Conservatives of Spain must fight and throw them out," he declared.

ADVISORY BOARD APPROPRIATIONS PARED $132,500

Horner's Orders to Cut Followed by Assembly.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The total appropriations for advisory, nonexecutive commissions created by the general assembly session which closed on July 1 was $28,500.

The same class of appropriations granted by the previous assembly in 1933 was $161,000. Of that amount $119,491 was spent, most of it with no visible effect on legislation toward which the special bodies were expected to contribute. The 1933 appropriations were $132,500 under those for 1931.

The 1931 session created fourteen special commissions with appropriations. The recent session continued only three of that number and created three others, making a total of six. The 1933 appropriations for the three commissions retained were reduced materially below the figures of 1931.

Publish Figures on Bills.

This analysis of the "frills and fancies" operations of the legislators, so called because such funds usually are spent on junkets, was made possible yesterday by the publication of the final digest of bills by the legislative reference bureau at Springfield.

The official figures had been awaited with interest because one of the campaign pledges of Gov. Horner was that he would eliminate unnecessary and wasteful commissions. The economy shown by the assembly in this matter is accredited to his repeated statement to interested members that he would veto all unnecessary or excessive appropriations for activities of this character.

So far was his dictum followed that two special commissions considered of importance were created without appropriations. They are the commissions on milk and beer.

Horner Reduces Funds.

The governor approved extending the life of three commissions. One of these was the state judicial advisory council. At his behest its appropriation was chopped from $10,000 to $5,000. He caused the reduction of the fund for the mining investigation commission from $12,000 to $8,000. And he directed a lowering of the fund for the buy Illinois products commission from $10,000 to $7,500.

$17,092 for Prison Junket.

The 1931 commission appropriation which aroused the most widespread condemnation was that which permitted a European junket of senators and representatives for the avowed purpose of studying foreign prison, pardon and parole methods. That body submitted a written report which was ignored during the recent session, as it failed to present bills of any sort. The expense accounts, which included best steamship and hotel accommodations, totaled $17,092.

The commission on poverty and dependence, after spending $17,337, reported in effect that its task was so huge that it could merely ask for more time. A request for continuation of its existence was not indorsed by Gov. Horner and received no attention from the legislature.

The commission on taxation and expenditures spent most of its money on an auditor's report pronounced to be of little if any legislative value so far as results went. As usual the expenditures of the St. Lawrence waterway commission, a biennial body during the official career of former Senator Martin B. Bailey of Danville, produced no visible results. The expenditures of this commission were nearly $15,000.

One of the 1931 appropriations was untouched, the money reverting to the state treasury on June 30. This was the $5,000 voted in connection with a bill introduced by George W. Blackwell, then a representative of the First district, for the creation of a commission to visit Mexico and encourage friendly relations between that country and the United States.

This lapse is said to be unprecedented, but the commission to examine into the question of world war veterans who missed receiving their state bonus did almost as well. It spent only $78 of its $5,000 appropriation. It consisted chiefly of state officials who found there was no occasion for the commission.

QUIT ENROLLING NEW MEN AUG. 1, IL DUCE ORDERS

ROME, July 23.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini has ordered a definite cessation of enrollment in the Fascist party after Aug. 1, except of youths graduating from preliminary training organizations.

This means that persons over 18 years of age who have not joined will be permanently shut out. The party membership now of both men and women is approximately 2,500,000.

An official explanation of the order said Il Duce wishes the party to be filled with well trained youthful followers.

FINGER PRINTS OF TRUNK VICTIM FAIL AS A CLEW

Chicago police were coöperating yesterday with Indiana authorities in an endeavor to identify the body of a man which was burned so as to be almost unrecognizable and which was found Saturday in a trunk on a farm five miles south of Cook, Ind., Saturday. The victim had been shot in the head with a .45 caliber bullet and the skull had been broken by several blows. The trunk had been saturated with oil and set on fire presumably by those who brought it there.

The body was at an undertaking establishment in Lowell, Ind., yesterday, but no one, other than police, called to view it. Partial finger prints of one hand were obtained and sent to the Chicago bureau of identification, where it was found they were too indistinct to serve as an identification mark.

The man was about 23 years old and about 5 feet 6 inches tall. Indiana authorities were of the opinion he was a Chicago gangster.

SEIZE PAROLED CONVICTS AFTER HOLDUP OF GIRLS

Three former convicts, with police records for rape, burglary, and other crimes extending back more than twenty years, were captured early yesterday morning by North Riverside police after a hunt by several posses through the prairies near the suburb. The trio had just held up and threatened two 16 year old girls and their escorts.

At a showup in the detective bureau yesterday afternoon it was revealed that each of the prisoners had been paroled many times after being sentenced to the penitentiary for various crimes. Two of the men had served terms for rape.

Girls Menaced by Gunmen.

Evelyn Terry, 228 South 17th avenue, Maywood, and Marian Olson, 1933 South 6th avenue, Maywood, were the girls menaced by the robbers on a lonely road near Broadview. The girls and their escorts, Raymond Grant of Broadview and Gilbert Pauley of Maywood, were riding in an automobile when they were stopped by the three men, who carried a shotgun and four revolvers.

A watch and $2 were taken from Grant and the former convicts then began swearing at the girls. The four young people climbed out of the car and ran down the road. Several shots were fired after them, they said. They notified the Chicago police, who sent out a radio call which was heard by Chief Edward Beltz of the North Riverside police.

Chief Beltz began a search. His men came upon one of the robbers hiding in a tree, another lurking in the brush alongside the road, and the third hurrying down a lane. They gave fictitious names but were identified at the detective bureau by their finger prints.

Shown as Parole Violator.

The leader of the trio was discovered to be Mike Wapp, 45 years old, whose police record began in 1907 when he was charged with murder. He served a number of terms in Joliet penitentiary for rape, burglary, and assault and battery, and the record showed that he was repeatedly paroled, although often returned to prison for violation of the parole. He was last paroled about six weeks ago.

The second man was William J. Kelly, who went to prison first in 1913 for rape. He was released but was returned in 1918 and in 1922 for larceny. In 1923 he was paroled. He was sent to Joliet again but was again paroled. He was released from the penitentiary last May.

Frank Spry, the third gunman, came to the attention of the authorities first in 1909. Burglary was his specialty, his long record of crimes showed. He also was paroled several times during his career but had not been heard from since he was last released from prison in 1922.

Strike Ties Up Hollywood Studios; Perils 27,000 Jobs

Hollywood, Cal., July 23.—(AP)—A strike of 665 sound technicians for a uniform wage and hour contract went into effect today in Hollywood, paralyzing motion picture production in all the major studios and jeopardizing the jobs of 27,000 workers employed in the industry. Harold V. Smith, business agent for the sound technicians' local of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés who called the strike, effective at midnight Saturday, said negotiations were continuing with producers.

Reports Estranged Wife Kidnaped 2 Children

Evansville, Ind., July 23.—[Special.]—Haywood Blackwell reported to police here early this morning that his estranged wife, Pauline, had kidnaped their two children from his home. She appeared shortly before 1 o'clock in a car, accompanied by a man, and demanded the children, Haywood Jr., and Lucy, 14, and vanished with them while he went to the home of a neighbor to call police.

PRESS SEARCH FOR KILLERS OF TWO POLICEMEN

Numerous Clews Increase Hope of Capture.

Three finger prints were carefully preserved yesterday in the hope they will lead to the execution of the murderers of Policeman John Skopek and Elmer Ostling. Mayor Kelly and police officials ordered a drive of unusual proportions to capture the killers, youths of 18 or 19, who ruthlessly shot the policemen Saturday night when stopped for questioning.

Supervising Capt. John Stege and Capt. Max Danner of the Warren avenue station ordered a canvass of the entire west side in hunting the killers. They had a particular section of the west side in mind as the home neighborhood of the youthful slayers and they had a few clews to work on.

The youths—two or three of them—were in a car stolen on July 3 from C. J. Keegan, 5123 Oakdale avenue, from in front of 1751 Austin avenue, and it was abandoned in front of 1829 Huron street. It bore license plates taken from a car stolen from Edward J. Loutka, 2757 West Adams street.

Identifiable If Arrested.

There were clear finger prints on the rear view mirror of the stolen car and two other plain prints on the windshield. Detective Ralph Moore of the bureau of identification said the men who made those prints can be identified if ever arrested, even fifty years from now. In addition, the killers left behind a pistol on which the numbers were intact. It was turned over to ballistic experts.

Dr. Clarence Muehlberger of the Northwestern university school of crime detection was called to examine blood spots in the car. It was almost a certainty that one of the killers was wounded severely. Policeman Skopek had fired one shot at them; Policeman Ostling one shot.

Mayor Kelly paid a call of condolence last night at the homes of both the slain men. At the Ostling home, 2953 North Keeler avenue, when he found that Mrs. Ostling was at the undertaking establishment arranging for the funeral of her husband. He drove to the address on North avenue and extended his sympathy in person. From there he went to the Skopek home, at 2532 South Trumbull avenue, where he found the policeman's widow ill in bed. Mrs. Skopek was almost hysterical in her gratitude for the courtesy. With her at the time were her mother-in-law, Mrs. Theresa Skopek, two sisters-in-law, Miss Helen and Miss Anna Skopek, all of 6210 South Massosoit avenue, and Stephen Skopek, her brother-in-law.

Take No Chances, Mayor Urges.

"Policemen should take no chances when they stop a car in which suspicious persons are riding," Mayor Kelly said. "They should have their guns handy and ready for use. Good citizens will not mind. It's too bad that we must have some police squads of two men when there should be at least five or six, but we are short of policemen."

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker said the killing of the two policemen was undoubtedly due to the recent order that police should be ready to shoot to kill when they encountered gangsters. Gangsters are ready to kill rather than be captured, he declared.

"Our practice is that when a squad car stops another car the police chauffeur has his shotgun trained at the head of the driver of the suspects' car," Chief Schoemaker explained. "Our men split up and some go to each side of the suspects' car. In that way some of us may be killed, but we will get some of the gunmen before we die.

Good Citizens Don't Object.

"If a car is worth stopping it is worth while for the policemen to be prepared for a gun battle. I have stopped many cars and seldom does a motorist object if he is told in a nice way that the policemen are merely performing their duty in questioning him. He will realize that we are on the job, protecting him, if he is a good citizen. The fact that a woman is in the car is no reason why it should not be stopped for investigation because the gangsters have women with them for protection."

Skopek and Ostling composed a two man squad from the Warren avenue station. Capt. Danner, of that station, said the fact that he has a limited number of men explains the two man squad.

Exactly what happened is not yet clear, Capt. Danner said, but it appeared that the policemen did not have guns in hand when they approached the other car, and that they were together, instead of one going to each side of the car. They were brave and efficient policemen, he said, and they died in the protection of society. Their comrades in the department will do their utmost to avenge them, Capt. Danner promised.

Police, rounding up men for questioning in the double slaying, arrested Vincent Ferrandino, 27 years old, 1009 Cypress street; Albert Bruno, 28, no address given, and Joseph Caduto, 24, 1110 Polk street. Several witnesses looked at Ferrandino and Bruno, but did not identify them. The two are said to be known to police.

An inquest into the deaths of the two policemen will be held this morning at Hochspeier's undertaking rooms, 2416 West North avenue.

FIREMAN DOUSES A SIZZLING BOMB, SAVING BREWERY

Seen as Hoodlum Threat to Retain Beer Trade.

A ten pound bomb tossed into the engine room of the Manhattan brewery, 3901 Emerald avenue, early yesterday morning revived fears of police and federal authorities that the hoodlums are going to make a determined effort to remain in the beer business.

The bomb, made of a can and believed to have been filled with nitroglycerin, would have wrecked the brewery structure and destroyed the lives of three employes had it exploded, according to Sergt. Timothy Donovan of the bomb squad. Christian Asmussen, 2757 North Maplewood avenue, the brewery fireman, heroically seized the bomb when he saw it sputtering on a coal pile, tore out the fuse, and doused it in a bucket of water.

The bomb, which was thrown through a window on the Emerald avenue side of the building, was turned over to the bomb squad by the Stockyards police and was to be analyzed.

The Manhattan brewery was operated in the early years of the prohibition era by Dion O'Banion and Johnny Torrio, notorious gangsters. When the federal agents went to raid it in 1924 they found that the hoodlums had received a tipoff and had dumped thousands of barrels of beer. So great was the pressure in the sewer that a manhole was blown off and a geyser of real beer spurted into the air for hours.

Recently a new corporation acquired control of the plant and obtained a federal permit. Sale of beer was started last Monday. Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder is president of the new corporation and Charles W. Wrigley, brother of the late William Wrigley Jr., is one of the directors. Both Mr. Wrigley and Postmaster Lueder said they knew of no reason for the attempted bombing. They also declared that the hoodlums had made no effort to take over the distribution business for the brewery concern.

Distribution is the field of the beer business in which the hoodlums are reported to be active. They are said to be preserving their old beer routes intact, telling the saloonkeepers which brand of legal beer they shall take just as they told them which gang's beer they'd take in the wildcat days.

State's Attorney Courtney and E. C. Yellowley, federal supervisor of permits, declared upon the return of legal beer that they would tolerate no hoodlum connections with the breweries, but the bombing of the Manhattan plant caused authorities to wonder whether the hoodlums have been eliminated.

JAPANESE TAKING OVER CONTROL OF U. S. BUSINESSES

American Capital Turns Over Its Interests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 23.—Gradual absorption by Japanese capital of American manufacturing enterprises in this country, with two notable exceptions, is one of the features of American business here. The exceptions are the automobile and radio-phonograph companies.

This is an entirely peaceful development, however, and there is no element of coercion in it except insofar as it is being brought about by the general economic policy of Japan, which is being directed more and more toward favoring domestic industry and products. Moreover, it is true not only of American enterprises, but of all manufacturing plants which have been wholly or in part established by foreign capital.

Deny Intimidation Charge.

Much publicity has been given in the United States and elsewhere to reports alleging that Americans in Japan suffer from intimidation and are subjected to pressure in the endeavor to freeze them out of business in this country. There has been gross exaggeration in these reports, leading American business men, embassy officials, and Japanese government authorities agree.

No Americans have suffered physical violence, nor have any been threatened with injury, so far as is authentically known, with one possible exception. This was when the offices of the Singer Sewing Machine company in Yokohama were the scene of a labor disturbance, the climax of a long drawn out strike. Some furniture was damaged by a crowd of angry employés and the American managers escaped from the scene to avoid a direct clash with the strikers, in which Americans might have been manhandled in the heat of the moment.

Not Aimed at "Freeze Out."

This Singer strike, which brewed throughout most of last year and culminated toward the end of the year, was caused by employés demanding a larger share of the profits, and was not directed at any American company as such, nor with the object of forcing it out of business. In fact, rather the contrary was true, as the workers had no desire to wreck their source of livelihood. It ended with the latter relinquishing most of their demands, as the company would otherwise have had to close up.

Both the Ford Motor company's assembly plant at Yokohama and the General Motors assembly plant at Osaka have had some labor troubles in the last two or three years, when it was found necessary to lay off employés or reduce wages, but these affairs were settled with a minimum of trouble.

Last year when a wave of nationalism swept over Japan as a result of what the Japanese claim was attempted interference by Secretary of State Stimson and the league of nations with Japan and her operations in Manchuria, the American embassy in Tokio and certain other American institutions were guarded for a limited period of time by police as a precaution, though no actual attempts to interfere with them were made, nor were there any threats to do so, as far as is known.

Angry at Interference.

This precaution was due to considerable resentment among the Japanese people, not against Americans as such, but against what was regarded as unwarranted interference with Japan in a course deemed vital to her national existence.

The two exceptions, previously noted, to the general trend for American manufacturing enterprises to be absorbed by Japanese capital are the Ford and General Motors plants and the Victor-R. C. A. and Columbia factories. There is every indication that they will continue to operate as purely American concerns, but using, as they have done since their establishment, a great deal of Japanese labor and material.

There is a definite trend, however, toward American capital retiring in favor of Japanese capital, the Americans retaining royalties on the products turned out under their patents and leaving the actual management, production, and sales in the hands of the Japanese.

KILLS HIMSELF WITH SHOOTING GALLERY PISTOL

A gray haired man entered the Arcade shooting gallery, 434 South State street yesterday, placed 15 cents on the counter, and selected a pistol. When William Taroni, the attendant, turned his back the man placed the pistol at his temple and shot himself to death.

He was identified, by cards found in his pockets, as Malcolm Patterson, 60 years old, 546 South State street. Police also found a note in his clothing, reading:

"If anything happens, send my body to the county hospital. They made a successful operation on me and would be pleased to post-mortem my body to see the progress made in my case."

MAID KILLED IN FALL.

Mrs. Flora South, 50 years old, a maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Jamison, 5700 Leonard avenue, was killed yesterday when she fell down a flight of stairs leading to the basement in the home.

DRUNK SHOOTS UP NEIGHBORHOOD; 2 MEN WOUNDED

Charles Fester, 29 years old, 1633 Holt street, a coal salesman, was locked up in the Racine avenue police station last night after he had shot and wounded two persons earlier in the day. The victims were Raymond Wiora, 29 years old, 2339 Lister avenue, who was wounded in the left side, and William Pobsloski, 30 years old, 1640 Holt street, shot in the right arm.

Fester told police last night that he had no recollection of the shooting. He said that he had given a surprise party for his wife Saturday night and that he invited a number of guests. Many of them brought liquor with them, he added, and insisted that he drink with them.

Neighbors told police that shortly after daybreak yesterday Charles left his home armed with two revolvers and a hundred rounds of ammunition. He began shooting out street lamps and shattering plate glass windows, they said. Then Fester met Wiora, who was on his way to church, and shot him. Next he chased Pobloski, a neighbor, and shot him as the latter tried to open the door into his home.

Ten squads of police were ordered to search for Fester, who was finally found at Milwaukee and Ogden avenues, asleep, his two guns on his lap. Police said he was intoxicated.

Louis C. Monte, 47 years old, was arrested yesterday on charges of impersonating an army officer and passing bogus checks. Police said that he passed a dozen checks for a total of $500, some of his victims being prominent Chicagoans. Their names were not revealed.

According to Sergt. Richard Johnson, who arrested him, Monte posed as a flying major from Selfridge field, Michigan. He has been staying at the Lawson Memorial Y. M. C. A. hotel.

WASTE APPALLS AUSTRALIA; NOW WILLING TO WORK

Makes Progress Toward Budget Balance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, July 23.—Paradoxically, Australia's extravagance is saving the country from its economic and unemployment problems. The commonwealth's former looseness in borrowing heavily from overseas has been negligible in the last three years and she has battled through the first two years of her current premiers' plan" of financial reconstruction with comparative success.

Major operations of economy and subsequent complications of political turmoil in both state and federal shares have made all Australia more conscious of her problems. The man in the street, the hard fisted wharf worker, and the farmer or sheep man all have become "political minded." With the specter of unemployment facing them for many months, the cry was, "Put us to work at anything," even though dole tickets for food and clothing were plentiful.

Loans to Provide Work.

Today Australia sighs with relief and welcomes the new internal loans that are affording state and federal governments large sums for allocation to necessary works of repair and development. Every one is concerned with getting the unemployed back to work, stimulating greater trade in primary products and rehabilitating industry. Finances for many social services have been found somehow.

It is not expected that all state governments will balance their budgets by June 30, 1934, according to the premiers' plan, signed by all states in 1931, but certainly all states will have their budgets balanced by June, 1935, according to an announcement by Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons at the conclusion of the recent premiers' conference in Melbourne. Then tax reductions may be expected. The federal government for the first time in many years now shows a surplus of more than $15,000,000, with which to assist states suffering from the disabilities of federation.

Communism Recedes.

That the recent internal loan of $25,000,000 was oversubscribed by more than $15,000,000 for the federal and state governments as well as cities to expend immediately in public works shows the optimistic spirit of the nation. And the specter of state socialization and communism is slowly dying though new ideas in their catagory still crop up now and then.

In the cauldron of political and financial problems, primary development and explorations are still going on just as they went on in the early colonial days of the commonwealth.

Gold still is being discovered and hunted for as it was in the late eighties all over Australia. New roads are being opened up and bridges built for the traffic of the future. Irrigation schemes and dams are being built. Her cities are evolving into vast cosmopolitan structures.

TOUHY HOODLUMS REPORTED TAKEN BACK TO ELKHORN

Roger Touhy, northwest side gang leader, and three of his men, Willie Sharkey, Eddie McFadden, and Gustave Schafer, were questioned early today by Melvin Purvis, head of the local office of the United States bureau of investigation, and then turned over to city police. The quiz was conducted in the bureau's loop office.

It was reported that the four hoodlums were to be taken back to Elkhorn, Wis., where they were arrested late Wednesday night. Mr. Purvis would not confirm this report, saying if he had any statement to give out he would do so this afternoon. Since their arrest Touhy and the others have been government prisoners and locked up at the detective bureau. They were not returned to the bureau immediately after this morning's session with Purvis, and it was rumored the police had started out with them for Elkhorn.

The government, it is understood, questioned the hoodlums about the Factor kidnaping and other abductions. If they are returned to Elkhorn it will mean federal authorities have no case against them. Touhy and his men, however, face gun toting charges in Elkhorn.

C.A.C. ANNOUNCES FULL PLANS FOR FESTIVAL WEEK

Vespers in Soldiers' Field to Open Program.

Official plans for the celebration of Chicagoland Festival week were announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce, one of the principal sponsors of the event.

The festive week will begin on Sunday, Aug. 13, designated as Church day, and close Saturday night, Aug. 19, with the spectacular annual Chicagoland Music festival in Soldiers' field under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE.

Since last Monday, when the first announcement of Chicagoland Festival week appeared in THE TRIBUNE, scores of clubs, civic bodies, churches, community associations and other important groups have climbed eagerly upon the festival bandwagon, ready to do their bit in what is intended as Chicago's own contribution to A Century of Progress.

Mayor Backs Chicagoland Week.

Backing this special week are Mayor Kelly and his cabinet, the State street council, A Century of Progress, the Association of Commerce, the Chicago Church federation, the City Club of Chicago, the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, and representatives of eighty-eight neighborhood and community organizations.

Bernard J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples' Gas, Light and Coke company, has been named general chairman of Chicagoland Festival week. His vice chairman will be Frederick J. Ashley of the Association of Commerce, who conducted the historical Chicago Jubilee program two years ago. They said last night that the period from Aug. 13 to Aug. 19 will probably be the busiest in crowds and civic activities that Chicago has ever seen.

While the official plans are not yet completed, every detail thus far is figured to harmonize with the World's Fair, to which the week is complementary, not competitive. The week will coincide with Farm week at the World's Fair.

Services at Soldiers' Field.

Sunday, Aug. 13, will start off with colorful, solemn vesper services at Soldiers' field, with at least eighteen denominations participating. During the last few days religious leaders have joined in arranging the program for this occasion. Dr. Robert Clement will be chairman of Church day, and the Rev. Dr. John Evans, vice chairman. The services will be under auspices of the Chicago Church federation.

Chicagoland day and Women's day will feature Monday, Aug. 14, when the women of the city will pay special tribute to the women here for A Century of Progress. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, will preside.

Tuesday, Aug. 15, is dedicated to the 121st anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre. Ceremonies will be conducted under auspices of the Junior Association of Commerce at 18th street and Prairie avenue, the scene of the massacre, and at the Fort Dearborn replica at the Fair. The Chicago Historical society, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Boy Scouts will participate. Donald Snell and Richard Hebb are co-chairmen of the day.

Plan State Street Day.

State Street day will hold the spotlight on Wednesday, Aug. 16. The big stores and other loop institutions will hold open house, with special displays in windows, living models, and theatrical performances for children. The State street council, with G. R. Schaefer as chairman, sponsors this day—and it'll be a big day, too.

Thursday, Aug. 17, will be Great Lakes day, a tribute to Lake Michigan in particular. The program will be filled with water events, racing, sailing, and swimming. Commander Eugene F. McDonald, Capt. Edward Evers and Hollis Potter are co-chairmen.

Automobile day will be celebrated Friday, Aug. 18. The local automobile world will give a series of elaborate—and surprising—programs emphasizing the city's place in automotive transportation. On this day, too, Community day will be jointly celebrated. This latter phase will be under direction of the City Club of Chicago, the metropolitan district committee of the commerce association and Co-Chairmen Daniel J. O'Grady and Herbert O. Brown. Special events will be observed in neighborhood centers and at the Fair.

Last comes Music day, Aug. 19, with which will be joined a Farm Sports carnival. The sports program will be held in the afternoon at the Fair grounds. The big event of the day, of course, will be THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music festival at Soldiers' field. Melody fit for the gods will be the reward for those who attend. Hundreds of trained choral groups and bands will participate.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Today is Utah day and a program for the occasion will be staged on the floating theater at 9 p. m. The Chicago Mormon choir, with Rose Sheranian, Florence Jepperson Madsen, and Dr. Franklin Madsen as soloists, will sing. A male quartet will also take part in the program. The address of the evening will be made by John K. Edmunds, a former resident of Utah, now living in Chicago.

Bob Eastman's water circus of Winter Haven, Pa., will present programs of motor boat racing, aquaplaning, and water polo on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays hereafter in the north lagoon, beginning today at 4 p. m. One of the stunts performed by the outboard motor boat drivers, is the hurdling of an incline. The boat shoots into the air and strikes the water again several feet away.

A group of 135 salesmen of Swift & Co. will arrive today to spend a week visiting the Fair. They are winners in a contest conducted by the company to determine the best salesmen in various regions.

Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward of Jackson, Miss., national Democratic committeewoman from Mississippi, visited the Fair and the Mississippi exhibit in the Hall of States yesterday.

The second special train for Firestone employés visiting the Fair will leave Akron, O., on Aug. 4, arriving in Chicago that afternoon. The party will remain until Sunday.

The 16th street gate was dedicated yesterday by the Japanese at the Japanese pavillion. The ribbon barring the gate was cut by Miss Chizu Mitsuhashi as Miss Japan. Consul General and Mrs. Yoshio Muto of Japan were guests of honor at a tea in the after the dedication. Miss Margaret Inglehart, Japanese born daughter of ceremonial tea house immediately an American missionary who has lived in Japan fifteen years, described the tea ceremony as it was carried out by the Misses Chikago, Kondo, and Hiroko Takashi.

World war veterans of the Fox river valley were honored yesterday afternoon in a program at the Pantheon de la Guerre. The drum and bugle corps of the St. Charles, Ill., American Legion post, comprising twenty-four buglers and eighteen drummers, gave a concert. The St. Charles corps holds the championship of the Fox river district, and it is the only corps in Illinois which wears the uniforms of the marines. F. W. Hageman, commandant of the St. Charles post, eulogized the soldiers from the Fox river area who lost their lives in the war.

The Illinois Central suburban trains are carrying approximately one-seventh of the visitors to the World's Fair gates, according to figures made public yesterday by J. V. Lannigan, passenger traffic manager. During the first twenty day in July 2,225,456 passengers were carried, an increase of 776,021 over the same number of days previous to the opening of the Fair.

FAIR ATTENDANCE PASSES THAT OF '93 EXPOSITION

Expect the Six Millionth Visitor Today.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The attendance at the 1933 World's Fair yesterday passed that of the Columbian Exposition on the corresponding date of 1893, despite the fact that the 1893 Fair started a month earlier. Even with the thirty days head start the official record at the Columbian exposition on July 23 was 5,862,151. That figure was passed in midafternoon yesterday at A Century of Progress, giving indications that the six millionth visitor would pass through the turnstiles today.

At 11:30 o'clock last night, when the final count of the turnstiles was taken, the attendance was shown to be 112,584, making the fifteenth consecutive day with an attendance of more than 100,000.

The high point of yesterday's official program at the Fair was the Belgian pageant in the evening. Four hundred actors, trained for more than a month, depicted in song and pantomime the history of the Belgians since the time of the Cæsars. Some two thousand Fair visitors gathered in the court of the Hall of Science to witness the spectacle.

Plan for Illinois Day.

Outstanding among the special days to be observed soon at the Fair are Illinois day on Aug. 11 and German day on Aug. 13.

Invitations to attend the Illinois day program have been sent to the mayors of all Illinois towns and cities by Lieut. Gov. Thomas Donovan, chairman of the day. A great military review with the largest assembly of troops in the state since the world war will be a feature of the program. The troops will be reviewed by Gov. Horner, United States Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich, Henry T. Rainey, speaker of the house, and other officials.

Bands, orchestras, and choral societies will be heard, there will be addresses and theatricals, and in the afternoon the drive to Adler planetarium will be dedicated to the Illinois women who have played an important part in the history of the state.

Expect Many on German Day.

Eight special trains already have been reserved to handle the German day throngs, with additional reservations being made daily by the Steuben society in various cities. The program will include a parade of floats and military organizations, a musical performance, athletic contests, and a historical pageant.

"An attendance of more than 300,000 is expected," said Bernard Devry, president of the German day association, which is arranging for the events. "For years we have celebrated German day in Chicago and this year the celebration will be nation-wide. The purpose of the day is not to recall the history of the Teutonic race primarily, but to emphasize the duty of the Germans as American citizens."

The 2 a. m. closing hour went into effect at the Fair this morning. Under a new order issued last week by Maj. Lenox Lohr, general manager, concessionaires agreed to shut down at that hour six days a week, with no deadline for Sunday morning. Promptly at 2 lights blinked out in Paris, Old Mexico, Hollywood, and other night life spots. The crowds, somewhat smaller than usual because of rain, filed out good naturedly.

HAVANA POLICE NAB 15 REDS FOR BOMB OUTRAGES

Charge Prisoners Are Paid Agents of Moscow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 23.—Fifteen communists were arrested tonight after police had implicated them with a series of bombings on Friday.

The explosions occurred in the central postoffice, a police station, a telephone trade school, La Merced Catholic church, a jewelry store, and an American owned drug store. All buildings were damaged, but no persons were injured.

Entered with Returning Exiles.

Chief of Police Antonio Anciart charged that the communists entered Cuba along with the many returning exiles last week. Police established that the reds were not allied with any of Cuba's opposition groups. According to Anciart's theory they acted purely in an effort to disrupt Ambassador Sumner Welles' mediation between oppositionists and President Machado's government.

Anciart said that documents found on the persons of the prisoners indicated that they were paid agents of Moscow's communist internationale, and that they entered Cuba from the United States. They were able to do the bombing, he said, only because vigilance has been relaxed while Cuba's internal differences are being composed.

Twenty-five bombs were hurled in Havana and suburbs. They were thrown from speeding automobiles. Oppositionists denied any connection with the communists' activities.

Seized in Murder Plot.

Gen. Baldomero Acosta, for 15 years mayor of Mariano, eight miles west of Havana, who was arrested this morning in connection with a plot to assassinate Havana's chief of detectives, was released tonight on $15,000 bond. Ambassador Welles intervened in his behalf.

The chief of detectives, Maj. Juan Ramon, succeeded Capt. Miguel Angel Calvo, who was assassinated by oppositionists a year ago. Acosta, 67 years old, and a veteran of the Independence war, is a prominent opposition leader.

Acosta was arrested at Mariano beach. He was clad in pajamas. His armored car was parked nearby. Four men and two women who were with him, all carried revolvers. The chauffeur was equipped with two machine guns. Acosta's companions are still in jail.

BOMB THREE HOMES IN WAR OF MINERS AT TAYLORVILLE

Taylorville, Ill., July 23.—[Special.]—Five bombs were exploded in rapid succession here this morning, causing considerable damage to three homes and two garages. Mine labor trouble is blamed.

The first explosion occurred at 2:25 a. m. at the home of Andy Newman, local board member of the Progressive Miners' union. Part of the foundation of the house was torn away.

A few minutes later two bombs exploded at the home of Leal W. Reese, attorney for the Progressive Miners' union, who recently returned home from a conference in Washington. His garage was slightly damaged, his 1933 Ford sedan was completely demolished, and the front porch of his home was partly torn away.

The last explosion occured at the home of Jack Stanley, president of the Amalgamated local No. 9 of the Progressive union, where the front porch was torn away, plastering torn from the walls and all windows shattered, and at the same time the garage was damaged by another bomb.

As the bombers left the Stanley home they were fired upon by Charles Devers, a watchman, and in the exchange of shots Devers was hit in the right leg with 13 buckshots. He was removed to the St. Vincent hospital, where his condition is not considered serious.

This is the second time the homes of Leal, Reese and Stanley have been bombed during the present mine war.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SCHOOLS.

The effort of the board of education in its new budget is to restore the credit of the schools by recovering the ability to pay the bills. The condition has been unbearable, as unpaid school teachers know better than any one else. The need was to reduce expenses until they could be covered by revenue. For several years the board, with its old membership, refused to do this and each month made a bad situation worse. A board with new members undertook to do what had been refused.

The board in issuing its orders required certain changes which some educators do not like. Distinguished men in the educational field who have no responsibility for the Chicago school system are critical of the new plan and use extreme language in their criticisms, but it is not required of them to provide the money or to make the system work. The board of education is required to do this, and the old policies were indeed ruining the public schools of Chicago. In much less than a year, if the old program had been adhered to, there would have been no schools in Chicago.

Several of the issues which the board has decided are matters of controversy in pedagogical circles, even if the revenue element could be left out. At present the revenue issue is the decisive one. When expenses are to be reduced it is always found that the cuts proposed are the precise ones which should not be made. That is why a political body is forever being stopped by interested persons. They naturally think that the activities with which they are connected are the very ones which should not be restricted. Everything has its defenders and retrenchment is checked at every start.

THE TRIBUNE as a newspaper realizes that its prosperity depends upon the public school system. As a newspaper it has a more realistic interest in the schools than that of even the educators themselves. The schools not only make newspaper readers but they determine the commercial opportunities of the city whose future citizens they educate, stimulate, and inspire. Many of the activities which the board finds itself forced to curtail contain distinct newspaper advantages. The wider the field of interests which the schools open to the individual citizens the more a newspaper has to offer its readers. It grows and prospers as it meets highly diversified social requirements. There is hardly an interest which can be stimulated by education which does not increase the attractiveness of a newspaper to its readers. These interests are music, domestic science, sports, the arts, literature, etc.

As the interests of readers multiply the uses they have for a newspaper increase, and it would be extremely foolish journalism to be indifferent to any school expansion which increased popular interest in specific subjects, however remote they might seem to be from the elementary purposes of public education.

A simple and primitive people do not support newspapers and they cannot support the complicated commercial and industrial life of a metropolitan area. Their demands and wants are too restricted, their needs and their desires too few. Any publisher or any business man who sought to reduce school activities would be working against his own direct interests.

Educators naturally seek to extend education without restriction. That is their business. Higher educators depend upon the elementary schools and public education to provide the students who come to them. But this personal interest is a small one compared with that of business enterprise generally. Education gets only the youth of the community; maturity furnishes the readers and buyers.

The fact which no sensible, conscientious citizen could longer ignore was that the schools were being ruined. Chicago could not see this destruction without realizing that its own future was at stake. The effort is to rescue the schools and start them afresh, with teachers who may depend upon the pay check and who will not be driven frantic in payless months. It is to assure the city that the schools will continue to serve their purpose. Sober reflection will convince most people that another such a year as this could not have been survived.

RIFFRAFF IN THE COUNTY BUILDING.

The conditions in the county building corridors exposed in THE TRIBUNE of Thursday are a disgrace to the city and a discredit to the management of the building which Sheriff Meyering, who is its legal custodian, should remove at once. That swindling of citizens should go on day after day on his official doorstep indicates an unfortunate lack of responsibility in the sheriff's administration. Political hangers on of low grade have altogether too much to do with Mr. Meyering's administration of his important office, which began with the high hopes of the citizens who respected his military service and assumed his conduct of civil office would be on the same plane of efficiency and fidelity to duty.

Citizens who enter the county building or any other official place should be assured of protection at all times. They are entirely justified in assuming that thieves and tricksters are not allowed to ply their trade in the county building and are excusable in being off their guard when help is volunteered. We prefer to assume that Sheriff Meyering did not know that the political riffraff hanging about the corridors were exploiting the public, but it was his duty to know it, and now that he knows it the public will demand that he act with prompt if belated vigor to clean up the situation and keep it clean while he remains in office.

$4.86 IS ENOUGH.

Now that the dollar and the pound have reached their old parity of $4.86, the moment has come for a real test of the administration's policy with respect to the dollar. Perhaps disclosure would be a better word than test in this connection, for no one as yet can be sure what the administration intends. The official statements have suggested that the purpose of our government is to raise prices to the pre-depression level. It was at least arguable that as long as Great Britain's currency was cheapened as against ours we could not compete fairly with sterling countries, and accordingly business and prices in this country would be depressed. The return to the old parity should serve to reëstablish the basis of our former price level.

It seems probable that those who control our fiscal policy will be content with the decline in the dollar which has already taken place and will seek to halt it at this point. If they do not it will be either because they wish the dollar to descend further or because they cannot halt its descent. It seems pretty clear that a further decline, whatever the explanation, will be profoundly disturbing to our foreign and domestic trade. It will be an augury in many minds of a competitive race in devaluation, if not indeed of a race in which all the currencies engaged are out of control. To expect, under those circumstances, any business activity except frantic speculation and flight from all currencies is to expect a great deal.

The substantial devaluation of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies which has already taken place may have had an important part to play in the business pickup that has taken place since March. It does not follow that further devaluation will be proportionately beneficial. An ounce of castor oil may prove beneficial to a sick man, but that does not prove that he will be benefited by drinking a bottle of it.

A TREATY TO INJURE OUR COMMERCE.

A dispatch from Ottawa the other day called attention to the fact that for the first week since records have been kept no Canadian wheat was exported through an American port. The fact can be attributed, no doubt, to the treaty negotiated at the Ottawa trade conference, at which special advantages were given to Canadian grain exported from Canadian ports, with a resultant injury to those who had been engaged in exporting Canadian wheat in bond through this country.

The rerouting of Canadian wheat is of doubtful benefit to any one, and it unquestionably works injury to American interests. It means a loss of storage revenues in our terminal elevators and of transportation revenues to our railroads and barges. It means that our ports will be less well supplied with export cargoes and, accordingly, it may lead to higher freight rates on our imports and exports.

All of these undesirable results, it need scarcely be pointed out, will be made permanent if the St. Lawrence seaway is built. Here is one more evidence that the seaway will be of far greater service in promoting Canadian and British empire trade than it can ever be in promoting American trade. In spite of that fact the St. Lawrence treaty requires the United States to pay far more than its equal share of the construction costs and it further requires the United States to spend its money for the hiring of Canadian labor and the purchase of Canadian materials for the works elected on Canadian soil. Giving the Panama canal to the British as a present would be as reasonable as the ratification of the Hoover treaty.

IOWA CITIZENSHIP FOR ORDER.

Several Iowa juries have brought in verdicts against individuals who engaged in acts of violence during the recent farmers' agitation, including an assault upon Judge Bradley. The penalty fixed for the latter offense seems inadequate for the punishment of such an outrage, but otherwise it is reassuring to find these citizen juries refusing to be imposed upon by organized agitation and not misled by the sophistries of agitators or afraid to do their part in the maintenance of law and order. Violence is not justifiable in American conditions and is not a natural resort of Americans of the quality of Iowa citizenship. The recent outbreaks were the fruit of agitation fomented by agents who have no respect for American ideas, but are rebels against them. This, we believe, is recognized by the people of Iowa, who, however they sympathize with the difficulties of the farmer, do not intend to give countenance to lawlessness.

The Other Side

TRAFFIC BOTTLE NECKS.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Downstate residents read with more or less amusement a Cook county demand for relief of traffic on the Lincoln highway out in Whiteside county. The proposal is to extend a route from Rock Falls east. This is in order that there may be a division of traffic now slowed up by highway bottle necks.

Some years ago, when Chicago newspapers were complaining of state highway authorities for not laying more cement on the approaches to Chicago, this newspaper suggested that traffic relief could not be had by this means. It was pointed out that widening the approaches would afford accommodations only at the funnel mouth. The situation, it was explained, would be altered only by transferring blockades to points a few miles outside of town.

The highway department knew, at that time, that the solution was in building more routes out of Chicago, extending them into the country and getting rid of the congestion on main arteries. Chicago, however, insisted that the department's original program discriminated against Cook county, and in the end Chicago had its way. All money available was spent on expensive widening projects which served only to hurry cars to outlying points of congestion. Though these may be as far distant as fifty miles, they still serve to make trouble for the Chicago area.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE IS MUCH COMPLAINT over the long time, six weeks, it takes to get a divorce and remarriage in Reno. A movement is on foot to get the legislature of Nevada to enact a bill requiring not more than ten minutes' residence in Reno preliminary to a divorce. The time is a bit long, but the train stays there anyhow ten minutes to change engines and put on the diner. The judges and clerks could be waiting on the platform and hand out the divorce papers as soon as the ten minutes are up, a legal residence established, and the new engine and dining car coupled on. Justices of the peace and ministers could then rush in and the divorcées could be married right on the spot. This is a busy age and one shouldn't fritter away too much time on divorces and marriages.

WISH.

If in your recollection I should be
A much too distant star, a faded light,
Will you forget this meager thought of me
And make me one with the forgotten night;
Forget that I was ever flesh and bone
Or that I had a heart, or breath to breathe,
Or that unchallenged did I walk alone
The path that only madmen would not leave?

Forget me, then, forever from what time
The luster vanished from the name I bore,
Makes that ridiculous which was sublime—
A gutted mansion with a rusted door.
Forget me, Love; I shall not sup or bed
With dusty legions of the eminent dead.

KEITH BORDEN CAMPBELL.

NOT ONLY many of the drys but the bootleggers, too, seem to think that prohibition by statute will end before the year's over. "Do you want to buy some good diamonds?" said Max the Bootlegger over the telephone yesterday. "I gotta job a-washin' ottermobiles, an' I can't wear muh di'monds any more, 'cause the other washers would think I was high-hattin' 'em."

THE GERMANS have started a drive to make people walk more. In this automobile age it is getting more and more difficult to persuade people to walk as far as across the street; they climb right into the old family bus and drive over. The peewee cars that are now on the market increase the danger. People will be keeping small autos by their bedside and jumping into them and riding gayly to the breakfast table. People should walk more; walking is the most healthful form of exercise there is, both physically and mentally. One sees things in walking along that stir the mind to activity and at the same time the lungs are drinking in fresh air and the steady swinging of the feet helps the circulation and sends the blood coursing to all parts of the body. I wish I lived closer to the office so that I would not have to drive back and forth, but of course the extreme distance, it's six blocks, makes my constant use of the automobile absolutely necessary.

MORTS AUX CHAMPS D'HONNEUR.

"I AM INDEED very much annoyed," says Mrs. X., "that you continue to declare that the Norwegian pirate Leif Ericson discovered America, while all the glory and honor should go to the great Christopher Columbus. In spite of the soundness of your education, that fact should have been brought out at least one day by the teacher in your little country school." Yessum, she did, but that was the day I had the hives.

AND I HAVE RECEIVED a very stinging letter from the Society for Bigger and Brighter Kitchens condemning me for opposing the further teaching in our public schools of the Art of Painting Daffodils and Buttercups on Frying Pans and Skillets. I am not opposing the teaching of the Art of Painting Daffodils and Buttercups on Frying Pans and Skillets as part of the training of the children in the great work of Bigger and Brighter Kitchens. All I say is that if you paint lovely daffodils in the middle of the skillet, how can you cook onions in the damthing? And who wants to mix hot dogs and buttercups in the same frying pan? But if you paint a lovely still life of "Mother Onion Singing Its Young to Rest" in a cake pan, then how the heck can you bake an angel's food cake in that pan?

SHOES AND A CENTURY OF PROGRESS.

THE influences of certain fairs on civilization is well recognized. Of course there must be a theme in the fair that puts it in harmony with some social trend, else a result of importance would not ensue. A better way to put it is that every important fair has offered an opportunity to society to recognize some social trend, to embrace it, and to develop it.

The great trade fairs, somewhat permanent in character, or staged at yearly intervals, such as the one at Nishni Novgorod before the revolution in Russia, have forged bonds between people, fostered trade routes, and standardized certain products.

Certain breeds of improved stock have been popularized, standardized, and diffused by yearly stock fairs held in the same country. The fair of 1850 in England, opened by Prince Albert, was an important factor in establishing the world commercial supremacy of Great Britain. The Centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876 played a most important part in establishing the supremacy of the Hamiltonian industrial policy. Its exploitation of the Corliss engine, the telephone, and other machinery made us conscious of the fact that this was the machine age. Of course the exposition did not make it so. It did make us conscious of the fact that the machine age was on us, and this fact, brought home to us by the exposition, caused us to move toward destiny with a clearness of purpose otherwise impossible.

The World's Fair of 1893 in Chicago found itself in harmony with the times on the cultural side. Wealth had been accumulating for some decades and our people, given leisure, were going in for culture. Art, music, and philosophy were the great themes of the World's Fair of 1893, because the people had yearnings in that direction and the Fair catered to them.

What is to be the great harmony that A Century of Progress will share with the spirit of our day? That question, asked a hundred thousand times, finds a multitude of answers. We may not know what the real answer is until we look back on it and on our present day culture a quarter of a century from now. Vista, perspective, softening of lights are necessary for the great answer.

But the need of perspective does not prevent people from having answers. One that was not very broad was overheard the other day. This party said the great change that this A Century of Progress would effect would be change in women's shoes. To navigate the distance from the north to the south end with all the by-excursions in between is not possible for any person wearing high heeled shoes. This type of shoe is made to wear when sitting. The mechanics of the thing does not permit of much walking. The Fair is a walking proposition.

The people get broad shoes with low heels as an act of preparation for the trials and tribulations of the visit, just as they prepare for it by washing their feet in alum water and using foot powders. These broad, low heeled shoes, bought for the Fair, will prove so comfortable that they will be worn at other times and places.

A Century of Progress will bring about a new fashion in shoes. That's what the writer heard. Believe it or not.

MAY BE ECZEMA.

M. writes: At intervals my navel becomes very itchy and a substance comes from it with an offensive odor. It doesn't flow rapidly. Just a small amount collects around the navel and becomes crusty.

REPLY.

Eczema of the navel is not infrequent. It is not of much importance. Cleanse with cold cream. Follow with a good dusting powder. It is sometimes advisable to apply an iodine salve or some other salve.

After the eczema has ceased to be oozy be certain to wash the recess with soap and water at least twice a week for life.

HEADACHES.

W. W. writes: For the last six years, about once a week, I suffer from severe headaches, and the only relief is a good dose of salts. Doctors from whom I have taken treatment [without any relief] tell me my liver isn't functioning as it should and give me a box of pills. My general health is all right, and but for these headaches I would be sitting on top of the world. When they come on I am no good and have to lie down until they subside.

REPLY.

If you have constipation headaches you should be able to keep them in check by overcoming constipation. This you can do by diet, change in eating and drinking habits, and by exercise. It is not advisable to take salts often, or any other form of laxative tablets or pills.

GARNISHMENT.

Chicago, July 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a radio and missed two payments so the company stopped my wages. I paid the balance, but they want me to pay one dollar to release my wages. 1. Can they do that? 2. Is there anything I can do about them trying to charge me for the release?

H. H.

1. If they merely served a demand notice in advance of securing judgment against you then it would not be proper to make any charge for releasing this notice; in fact, it was improper for them to serve the notice.

2. If you can show that you have paid in full, this should be enough.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHOULD HAVE WARNING SIGNS.

Chicago, July 20.—[Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done regarding traffic conditions at the entrance to park No. 11 located at Mango and Bloomingdale? Motorists believe Mango to be a through street and discover their error at the entrance to the park, which is now open. They drive into the park at terrific speed to turn around or drive east in the alley adjoining the park to Central avenue, endangering the lives of small children entering or leaving the park.

B. S.

Officers interviewed the manager of the park in question. He assured them that a park policeman would be on duty at all times while the park is open and would pay special attention to traffic. The attention of the traffic engineer of the street department was called to this particular location and he stated they would investigate with a view to placing a sign at this location notifying the motorists that Mango avenue terminates at Bloomingdale avenue. In the meantime instructions have been issued to post men and Nash crews in that vicinity to pay special attention to this location.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 24, 1917.

CHICAGO.—Chicago's net quota of fighting men for the first national army is 24,982. The first contingent called for examination, therefore, will be 42,964, double the quota of fighting men required. The fighting quota of the country towns of Cook county is 2,858, which means that 5,716 men will be called for the initial examination. Cook county complete, however, is asked to furnish 27,830 fighting men, which shows on the face of the figures a discrepancy of ten. This is accounted for by the fact that the city of Danville sent more than its quota for the new army to the colors as volunteers.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A proposal by Senator Lewis of Illinois that the United States accept Chancellor Michaelis' speech to the reichstag as a German bid for peace and proceed to enter into negotiations for withdrawal from the war caused a ruction in the senate yesterday. Senator Lewis found no support for his plea and he instantly was pounced upon by half a dozen irate senators who denounced any suggestion of peace until the German autocracy is overthrown and the wrongs of Germany's victims righted.

PARIS.—An American steamer recently sank a large German submarine, according to a dispatch to the Temps from Havre. While on a voyage from the United States the steamer was attacked by the submarine, and, replying to its fire, sent thirty-five shells at the underwater boat, which assumed a perpendicular position and disappeared beneath the water.

WAR SUMMARY.—A Berlin official report says the Germans have occupied the heights directly west of Tarnopol and have begun an advance on both sides of the Dniester. Further south the Russians have retreated into the Carpathians. Russian attacks near Krevo and Vilna penetrated German positions a distance of two miles, but German reports say most of the ground has been recovered. Berlin says Russians are attacking the northern Rumanian front and artillery indicates a great battle impends on lower Sereth river.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—I have four membership cards purchased some years back. I filed claims at Marshall Field's on June 6. I have not heard from them yet. What can I do to hurry it up, as I wish to use my tickets soon?

ANSWER—If you have the certificate it may be exchanged at the 12th street reception desk. If you have only the receipt or have lost both, go to R. M. Lauer, 16th street entrance to the Fair grounds, claim office.

QUESTION—Why are the Greyhound buses on the Fair grounds permitted to operate without a state or city license?

ANSWER—Because they do not operate on a public highway.

QUESTION—What disposal is to be made of the balance left in the treasury of the World's Fair committee after the close of the Fair?

ANSWER—Any balance remaining after the payment of debts and obligations of every kind and character will be distributed among civic, educational and scientific associations as determined by the trustees of A Century of Progress.

FREE PUBLICITY.

Chicago, July 19.—The news item in today's TRIBUNE relative to the high powered publicity agents to be marshaled by Brig. Gen. Johnson for his national recovery propaganda confirms a suspicion this correspondent has had all along. The newspapers of the country are going to be asked—aye, commanded—to print sticks on sticks of free publicity for the government's new maneuvers, and there won't be an inch of paid space in the display columns to balance the expenditure. When it comes to free publicity Mussolini and Aimee McPherson are tyros compared to Uncle Sam.

BIG BERTHA A CHICAGO INVENTION

Chicago, July 13.—The German-Americans will soon have a building at A Century of Progress. I would suggest that they include in their exhibit one of the great 42 centimeter or Big Bertha guns which was the invention of Louis Gathmann, a German American, who lived for nearly twenty-five years at the corner of Lincoln and North Park avenue in Chicago. The first gun Gathmann invented hurled 600 pounds of gun cotton more than ten miles, the original model of which was made in Chicago. The United States government originally tested the invention, but it was rejected because the government officials preferred armor piercing projectiles to big explosive shells. He then submitted his invention to his native country, Germany, and they immediately adopted it and sent him to the Krupp works, where he lived for many years.

All the great guns used by the Germans in the world war were based on the Gathmann gun, and as a German-American invention it would be an interesting acquisition exhibited in the German-American building.

LUNCHROOM COSTS.

Chicago, July 18.—You applaud the school board for the economy drive. Have you taken your pencil and figured out in dollars and cents just what it will cost the school children in lunches alone on the new lunchroom economy plan? Here are the figures which I personally know to be absolutely true and which any reader can have for the asking:

The lunchroom managers teach certain hours and devote only a portion of their day to the lunchrooms and only receive a portion of their salary through the lunchrooms. Their salary is not paid entirely from the proceeds of the lunchrooms, which is the idea most people have. The average salary is $62.74. The board, through its economy drive, has taken these $62.74 a month managers out and replaced them with $150 straight salary. How much will be added to our children's lunches to pay the politicians for the "savings?"

You are to be congratulated on your work during the year asking for contributions to the "poor children's free lunches in the schools." Why not work a little on the above figures and see that the "free lunch fund" gets the benefit of this $87.26 each month? It will feed a lot of children.

THE PASSENAIRS TRAVAIRED.

Chicago, July 13.—I noticed in your column some one suggests a word meaning "travel by air," and also a noun to apply to those so traveling. Why not "to travair," meaning to travel by air, and "passenairs," meaning passengers by air?

ANITA SCHUMACHER.

THE SOCIAL WORKER'S VIEW.

Chicago, July 17.—I should like to call to your attention the attitude of social workers with reference to the action taken last week by the board of education, especially that you may note two sets of problems with reference to which professional social workers have something to say. The first is those strictly educational problems about which social workers do not claim to speak with authority. There they point to the very great waste of employing an educational expert whose counsel is, however, ignored. Such a problem is the return to the old organization of elementary and high school and the abandonment of the newer junior high school.

The second set of problems, however, are those with reference to which the social worker can speak not only with the assurance of an interested citizen but with the knowledge as a professional social worker of the waste and misery resulting from the action of the board of education. These are the reduction in the number of kindergartens, the change in the character of the lunchroom service, substituting a business for an educational experience for the child, the abolition or reduction of physical education, the abolition of the continuation schools and the Crane college, of the bureau of vocational guidance and of the services of the visiting teachers. The educational importance of all of these services is known to social workers from their immediate contact with the lives of the poor and disadvantaged. It is partly out of the evidence submitted by social workers that the undertakings along these various lines have developed and the validity of their claim on the school system has been established.

The group of professional social workers see their own load, whether they are relief workers, child welfare visitors, juvenile court officers, members of the staff of institutions for delinquent boys or girls, or connected with the institutions in which the failures in community life are kept in custodial care, enormously increased; but they deplore especially the volume of incompetence and the misery which must result from the lessened educational opportunity in the face of the increasing complexity and difficulty of community life. They are, in fact, aghast that the board of education having assumed such responsibilities as inhere in their public office could take action so reckless and ruthless in its effect on the lives of untold thousands of the young and helpless members of the great metropolitan center of the middle west.

Chicago, July 18.—I lost my life's savings in the bank at 79th and Ashland avenue, and now see that it is turned into a saloon. I would like to find out who is getting the rent. Shouldn't it go to the depositors? I could use part of it nicely.

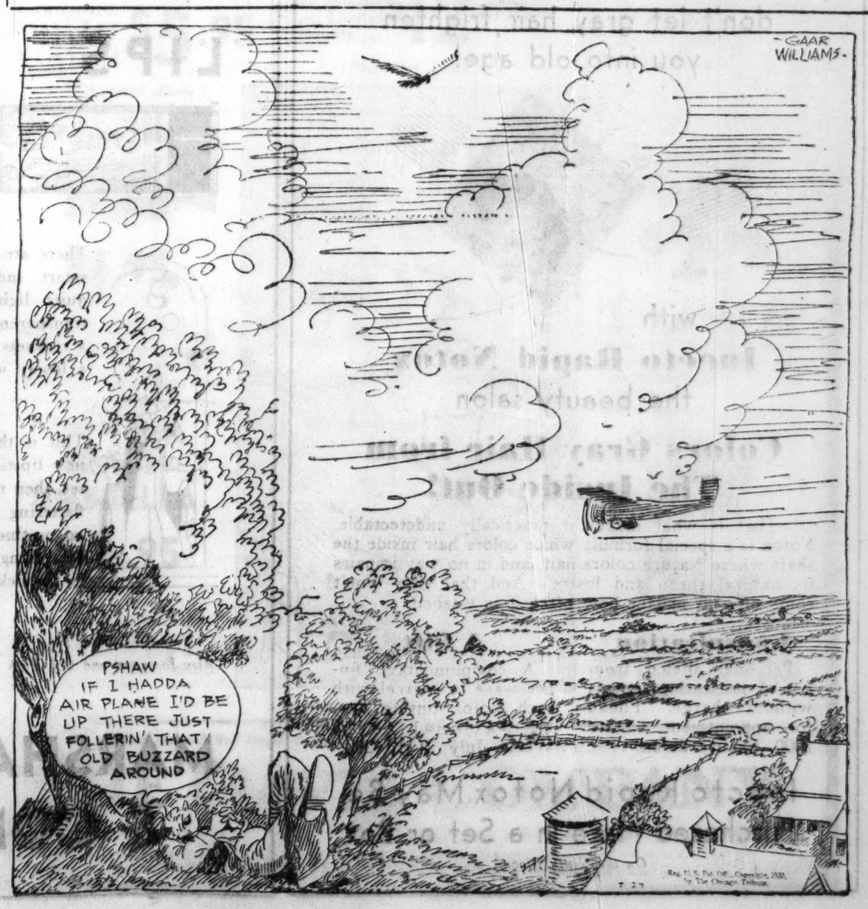
OUR SECRET AMBITION



TORRID CAPITAL HUMS WITH NEW DEAL ACTIVITIES

Business Clews Pouring Into Washington.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune News Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—American citizens, thronging everywhere in Washington today, signified an apogee in the centralization of their government. The federal government, as never before in the nation's history, has entered into the lives and intimate affairs of its people, all in an effort to raise them out of the depression.

These days, when to venture on the streets at midday is to be crushed before a blast of torrid heat, heavily humid, have always been the dog days of Washington.

In other years the capital's transient dwellers long since would have gone to their home climes. Officialdom would have escaped to the seashore or the mountains.

Lobbies Are Crowded.

But in the new deal the lobbies of the hotels are crowded, citizens pace the hot sidewalks, they are found wandering uncertainly about in the miles and miles of governmental buildings.

The offices of the Rooseveltian officials who are shuffling the new pack are alive with business men, many of them coming to the capital for the first time in their lives. They are to learn that Uncle Sam is something more today than just recipient of their income tax checks. And it is but the beginning.

Over the whole scene is a tempo of frantic haste to get the job done right away. And while there is this bustle and rush, the job doesn't get done fast, because of the tremendous detail of the task.

Headquarters Stretch Out.

The domain of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, taskmaster of industry, started in a single room office. It is stretching out swiftly, until now it covers nearly a whole floor of that colossal monument of bureaucracy, the Department of Commerce building.

Citizens who try to find their way about this domain, citizens who fear the consequences of federal encroachment upon the running of their businesses, have run into a confusion, born of the haste. They are shunted from one office to another, and then finally they wait and wait, with other business men, until the overworked official to whom their worries have been delegated for solution can admit them.

Washington is like a convention town, running a dozen trade meetings at once. During the last week the industrial recovery administration conducted four hearings on codes submitted to bring four industries under the spur of governmental control.

Industries Work on Codes.

Lumbermen from Maine to Georgia, to the redwoods of California, gathered in the auditorium of the Commerce building. Makers of cloaks and suits from the east side of New York, from Market street in Chicago, from the shops in Philadelphia, and Dallas and San Francisco talked volubly and excitedly before a deputy administrator holding his hearing in the Willard hotel.

Electrical manufacturers, these, too, from the four corners, got a break and were able to conduct their hearings in the refrigerated and stately caucus room at the new House Office building. But the ship builders from the Boston yards, up and down the Atlantic seaboard, the great lakes, and the Pacific, sweated in the heat of the old House Office building, and they sweated still more when Hugh Johnson berated them for not raising wages higher, and cutting working hours shorter.

Wide Range Covered.

At all of these hearings an overwhelming mass of detail was presented, touching on employment conditions, costs and accounting, technological changes, merchandising, rates production, the rights of labor to a "living wage," and what is a living wage.

The deputy administrators listening to this exhaustive information, for the most part men experienced in some industry, but seldom in the one "at bar," and are expected intelligently to decide whether the interests of the industry, of the workers in it, and of the consuming public are well served by approving the code.

When the mass of this detail engulfed the recovery administration, and it was seen that to do the job for all industries in a month would take the combined armies of the Cesars to man, a means of further haste was devised and the President has now asked every employer of more than two workers to sign a voluntary pact to put into effect a fixed scale of higher wages and shorter hours.

Gets Hearing Later.

The business man signing a blanket agreement is not required to come to Washington—yet. When his industry generally agrees on a permanent code it will be brought to Washington and then if he has apprehensions about its provisions he must come to make his plea.

At the department of agriculture another army of federal officials is touching directly the lives of millions of farmers, telling them how much cotton to plow up this year, paying them cash for promises not to grow so much wheat next year, conducting hearings on the same broad and detailed scale as does Gen. Johnson's aids, on the pleas of agricultural industries for approval of marketing pacts. Here taxes are being put upon processed cotton and upon processed wheat, raising the prices of cotton dresses and of bread, so that farmers may be paid benefits.

Tomorrow morning the Chicago Board of Trade will not be permitted to close any sales of grain below the closing prices of last Thursday; this under an agreement imposed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace upon the directors of the board of trade.

Salary Cuts Are Ordered.

Joseph Eastman, federal coördinator of railroads, is telling rail executives to cut their own salaries. Professors are studying a scheme for a "rubber" dollar, under which the federal government will even say to its people how much bread and meat and clothing a dollar will buy.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation, dispensing angel of the administration, not satisfied with financing farmers in the sowing and harvesting and sale of crops, in the last week has turned to financing those who buy and process the farmers' output.

The administrator of relief, Harry L. Hopkins, is giving federal moneys to the states for feeding the idle.

And through all the maze of an ever stretching bureaucracy, the citizens of the country are wandering. Some are seeking a share of the billions that are being spent and these go brusquely into the interior building, where Secretary Ickes is striving many hours a day to approve a list of public works propects to be built with the federal easy money.

Seeking Divorce

DOROTHY DEVORE.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 23.—(AP)—Charging that her husband told her he could no longer "romance" with her and that he maintained an apartment where he entertained other women, Dorothy Devore, screen actress, has filed suit for divorce from A. Wylie Mather, wealthy Honolulu business man. The complaint was filed in the actress' private name, Anna Inez Mather. She said they were married Dec. 18, 1925, and separated last June 10. There are no children.

Lieut. Seiter Quits Police Post to Operate Brewery

Lieut. Robert E. Seiter, in command of the south division of the county highway police, with headquarters at Homewood, has resigned to enter the brewery business, it was announced yesterday. Lieut. Seiter commanded the Homewood post for 11 years. With Sergt. John Orgel, who has also left the police force, he has obtained control of the old Hegemeister brewery at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and will be president of the new company which operates it. Sergt. Frank McGillen has been promoted to lieutenant and assigned to Lieut. Seiter's post.

Child Falls to Death as Window Screen Gives Way

Arlene Mihelich, 2½ years old, was killed yesterday in a fall from a window of her third floor home at 630 Arlington place. The child was playing on a studio couch next to the window. Apparently she fell when she rolled against the window screen, causing the screen to give way.

FOOD MERCHANTS KNIT BROWS OVER NEW WHEAT TAX

Regulations as Complex as Income Forms.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Delicatessen owners and other retailers of foodstuffs made from wheat are now weighing up the pretzels, noodles and zwieback on their shelves for payment of a tax to be distributed to wheat growers in North Dakota and the rest of the wheat belt under the agricultural adjustment act.

Clerks at the internal revenue office are struggling with the machinery to handle the new tax, which seems as complicated as the income tax itself, while the foodshop owners, faced with intricate schedules of instructions and inventory blanks, are inquiring whether the new deal will make an expert accountant a necessity in every noodle shop.

There are three taxes under the three year program to make the agricultural adjustment act effective for wheat and to increase agricultural purchasing power. Chief of all is the processing tax, which is paid by the processor of wheat at the rate of 30 cents per bushel of 60 pounds. Then there is the compensating tax, which applies to importations of articles made from wheat.

Tax on Existing Stocks.

Third is the floor tax on floor stocks of taxable articles held by the retailer. This tax is with a view, as it were, of getting a clear start for the processing tax on wheat, and it is here that the delicatessen and breadstuff retailer is affected.

The floor tax is paid only once, while the processing tax is paid by the processor monthly. For the purpose of the agricultural marketing act, July 9 was fixed as the effective date for the start of the first marketing year for wheat, aimed at production control.

In the case of a retailer who holds stocks in his retail store only, which embraces most delicatessen owners, the floor tax is paid on all articles made from wheat on his shelves July 9 which are not sold or otherwise disposed of within thirty days or by Aug. 7. The internal revenue office says payment of tax by this class of retailers will be due Sept. 7.

Levy on Stocks Held Elsewhere.

Wholesalers and retailers who hold stocks in warehouses or places other than their retail stores pay their floor tax by Aug. 8, according to the schedule at the federal building.

The blanks for collection of the various taxes affecting wheat have been mailed to approximately 15,000 concerns in the Chicago area by the collector of internal revenue. More than 15,000 headaches have possibly been caused by the complicated instructions, and the welter of new fangled terminology, which includes such tidbits as "conversion factors."

The foodshop retailer on his inventory return puts down the quantities of various articles processed from wheat he has on hand Aug. 7, and the amount of such articles he has received during the thirty day period July 9 to Aug. 7. From this the taxable quantity is figured, and the amount of tax due.

Variations in Rates.

There are different rates for various kinds of flour and cereal preparations made from wheat. Then there are the products of secondary processing. The rate of the floor tax on these is on the blanks as follows, in cents per pound:

	Cents per pound.
All bread except rye	.483
Rye bread	.360
Zwieback	.462
Rolls and coffee cake	.483
Crackers	.690
Pretzels	.732
Macaroni and spaghetti, except canned.	.188
Noodles	.714
Paste	.557
Foundry moulding materials	.396

The regulations explain that foundry moulding materials are those low quality flours used in the preparation of sandcores.

Definition of a Pretzel.

Here's the definition of a pretzel: "Pretzels are made from a yeast-raised dough, manufactured by hand or machine, submerged or precooked in a caustic solution."

Cotton is expected to be the next basic agricultural commodity to which the processing tax is to be applied, and collection of the floor tax on this, which would apply to all cotton goods from dresses to spools of thread, is expected to be even more complicated than the collection of the floor tax on wheat products.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Helmar Bucholz, 60 years old, ended his life with poison yesterday in the bathroom of his home at 27 North Cicero avenue.

U.S. ANNOUNCES TODAY ITS PUBLIC BUILDING PLANS FOR NATION

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—The first big batch of federal public building projects under the government's $35,000,000 program to provide jobs for the unemployed will be announced tomorrow by the cabinet board in charge. The President is understood to have made some cuts in that.

Allocations already have been made for about $65,000,000 worth of other federal construction, reclamation projects and roads. New York and Utah will lead the nation in putting road construction funds to work.

New York's eleven, and Utah's 6 road projects will specify a 30 hour week with "just and reasonable wages."

Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, announced today that:

"Of the 18,000 women workers studied in the nine states only 10 per cent earned as much as $12 per week, and 35 per cent earned less than $6 a week. For all the states combined there was a large difference in earnings between manufacturing and contracting establishments, medium earnings for women in the former being $7.60 and in the latter $6.40."

WHEAT FARMERS GET 90 MILLION BONUS NEXT FALL

Acreage Cut Pledges to Be Required.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—A $90,000,000 bonus for wheat farmers, to be paid for curtailment of production, will be ready for distribution this fall, Secretary Wallace announced today.

That sum will be distributed, the agricultural secretary said, as the first payment to wheat growers on contracts, under which they will be asked to reduce their wheat acreage in 1934 and 1935. The amount of this planned acreage reduction has not yet been established, being dependent in part, Secretary Wallace said, on the outcome of the London wheat discussions, but in no event will it exceed 20 per cent.

Farmers will be offered an initial payment of 20 cents per bushel, to be handed over on the signing of contracts to cut their wheat production. A further payment of between 8 and 10 cents per bushel will be made in the spring of 1934.

Aim at Prompt Payments.

The payments will be available for farmers as early this fall as county wheat production control associations can be organized under the wheat plan of the agricultural adjustment administration, Secretary Wallace said.

Following an estimate by the secretary of agriculture that taxable consumption of wheat in the United States for the next year would total 460 million bushels, George N. Peek and Charles J. Brand, administrators of the adjustment act, in conference with wheat section officials, decided to offer farmers contracts providing for the two payments.

The 30 cents a bushel processing tax imposed July 9 is estimated to yield 138 million dollars on the estimated 460 million bushels taxable domestic consumption. Payments to farmers are to be based on an allotment computed at 54 per cent of the average production of farmers for the last five years.

Must Sign Contracts.

Payments on 1933 crops will be offered to farmers who sign contracts by which they agree to reduce the acreage planted for the 1934 and 1935 crops by a percentage set by the secretary of agriculture.

Administration officials are said to have decided on the two cent reserve in the final payment in order to insure that they have freedom of action if the opportunity arises to help the wheat growers by opening up new export markets.

CODES AROUSING FEARS AMONG LITTLE CONCERNS

See Big Corporations as All Powerful.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—What will become of the "little fellow" in business under the system of federal industrial control, is a problem worrying the administration these days.

And while the officials who are invoking this control are worrying, the "little fellows" are, many of them, in a panic.

The few code hearings which have been conducted in the last several weeks have been marked by repeated laments by owners of small units in the industries that they will be snuffed out by the steam roller of "big business."

Anti-Trust Law Changes.

With the suspension of anti-trust laws, which were held to protect the independent business man as well as consumers, the government has undertaken to perform some of the very functions which the anti-trust laws forbade.

This enters chiefly into the subject of price fixing, of attempting to prevent any person or company in an industry from selling below cost. The industrial recovery administration is permitting both provisions to go into codes, and to be administered and controlled by a committee set up by the leaders of the industry submitting the code.

Gen. Johnson has contended that by putting representatives of his choosing on these committees, without vote, but with observatory powers, he can prevent the evils of monopoly and can save the little fellow from extinction. But the little fellows are not reassured.

Electrical Group an Example.

One of the most graphic instances of this fear was developed in the hearing on the code of the electrical manufacturers. The code, which has not yet been taken under advisement by the administrator, set up a committee consisting of the board of directors of the National Electrical Manufacturers' association, familiarly called "N. E. M. A.," which was given authority to receive data on all price ranges from every branch of the industry. Every manufacturer was required to post his prices with this committee in advance and not to undersell them at penalty of violating the code.

Representatives of the independent manufacturers of incandescent lamps protested, arguing that N. E. M. A. was a "closed corporation," dominated by the big manufacturers, whose interests were in competition with the independents.

H. L. Bernstein, representing the Incandescent Lamp Manufacturers' association, declared that for him and his associates to submit to posting their prices would serve to "force us out of business."

Wants Freedom of Prices.

Mr. Bernstein pointed out that the small manufacturer depends on his initiative and industry in getting business, and that he must be free to quote any price that to him seems to fit the customer he is approaching. The big companies have fixed terms for all customers. The independents consider a customer's credit rating, the volume of business offered, and similar flexible conditions in fixing prices, Bernstein said.

With his objection, and that also of Frank Vosburgh Jr., president of Lamp Associates, Inc., the code was finally amended so that the administrator may exempt any sections of the industry from the terms of the code. Bernstein and Vosburgh said they desired to present a separate code of their own.

Fear the Big Fellows.

In this connection reports reached Deputy Administrator William H. Allen, conducting the hearing, that the General Electric company, biggest of the big fellows, stood to make a considerable gain in business by invoking the code. In addition to stabilizing the price levels, so that the independents would have no trade advantage, the code so restricts the hours of work and so raises wages, it was argued, that many independents now doing a thriving business, operating on a full schedule of production, will be forced to cut their operations down radically.

If the independents are not free to adjust their prices to the demands of their customers, they fear their trade naturally will gravitate to the General Electric company.

Gerard Swope, president of General Electric, is serving as Mr. Allen's industrial adviser in the proceedings, and he was one of the prime movers in the creation of the national recovery act and the submission of the idea to President Roosevelt.

Swope Denies Profit Motive.

Mr. Swope was asked about reports that he had been interested in promoting the suspension of the anti-trust rules because his company was operating at a fraction of its capacity, and because most of the units of the company were operating at huge losses.

That industrial leader denied that he had any such purpose. He admitted that General Electric was working at 25 per cent of its 1929 rate of operation, and even at that time the plant was not operating at capacity. But Mr. Swope asserted that his company was doing as active a business as any independents were doing, that it was the capital goods section of the industry which was wholly idle.

An indication of the present operations of General Electric is shown in its having received orders totaling $61,052,000 during the first 6 months of this year, as compared to $68,709,000 for the same period of 1932, and $220,716,000 for the first half of 1929.

Lumber Dealer Opposes Combines.

In the lumber industry, William Denman, president of the Coos Bay Lumber company on the Pacific coast, declared at a hearing that he paid his employés higher wages than any of the operators in lumber combines, and that by attracting efficient labor, he was able to cut his costs down. He protested vehemently against submitting to price fixing by the code authority of lumbermen, provided in the code, declaring that it would drive initiative and fair trading out of the industry.

The oil code is up for hearing tomorrow, and independents are already contending that they are to be slaughtered.

DIXIE MINERS URGE PRESIDENT TO APPLY WAGE RECOVERY ACT

Charleston, W. Va., July 23.—[Special.]—Condemning "flagrant violations of the national recovery act" by mine operations in West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, and Kentucky, 2,000 miners from those states, in convention here today drew up a letter to President Roosevelt "urging" that operators be required to let the miners bargain collectively for better wages and working hours.

With the temperature in the nineties the convention adopted part of the coal code approved by fourteen other states, heard speeches by national miner officials, and applauded denunciations of operators, who, resolutions claimed, "Are using every method of coercion and intimidation to force the employés to join so-called company unions."

The open letter to the President cited reputed violations, and added: "We and our families have faith in you and are depending upon you to approve of no code that will fail to give the miners the right to organize collectively through representatives of their own choosing."

The convention, representing 160,000 miners, pledged to continue work until a code was adopted and opportunity given to negotiate wage contracts. National officers of the United Mine Workers were empowered to bargain for a six hour day and a five day week. Rates approved were $4 a day for outside work, $4.75 for helpers and inside labor, $5 for track layers, bottom cagers, drivers, trip riders, grippers, water haulers, machine haulers, and timbermen.

Van A. Bittner of West Virginia proclaimed the session "the greatest labor meeting held south of the Ohio river." Other speakers were Earl Houck, Indianapolis; Sam Caddy, Ashland, Ky., and Percy Tetlow, Columbus, O.

HULL STRUGGLES TO LIMIT WORLD PARLEY'S RECESS

Wants Definite Time Set for Reconvening.

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, insisting that the work of the world economic conference scarcely even had been started, was reliably reported today to be convinced that the recess of the parley must be definitely limited to assure a reconvening.

The secretary's position was claimed to be that an indefinite adjournment after next Thursday would leave such uncertainty over the fate of the world congress that resumption of the work would be jeopardized.

Urges Three Months' Recess.

Mr. Hull was understood to have under consideration a recommendation that the recess be for a maximum period of three months, with the steering committee authorized to call the nations together earlier should it decide this is desirable.

Meanwhile Senator Key Pittman's pact between eight silver producing and holding countries seeking to raise the price of the white metal stood out as the greatest tangible achievement of the conference thus far. Some delegates felt that this in itself was adequate justification for the parley having been called.

Members of the wheat conference prepared to resume their negotiations tomorrow, with the American delegates insistent that an agreement for relief of the wheat growing industry must be reached.

Mac Donald Supports Hull.

The nations still were in considerable disagreement as to the status in which the parley should be left after the final plenary session Thursday, but Prime Minster MacDonald of Great Britain, president of the assembly, was understood to be supporting Hull in the tentative proposal for a definite arrangement under which the delegates must reassemble to tackle afresh the serious economic problems harrassing the world.

Differences were said to exist even in the British cabinet as to the proper procedure, with one group skeptical as to the outcome of the later assembly. In any case, important conference circles seemed fairly certain that the steering committee would be kept as a permanent organization with power to recall the delegates when and if prospects for accomplishments seemed hopeful.

Hull spent much of the week-end in seclusion reading and preparing an address for the final plenary session. His associates expected him to make a dramatic plea ot the Thursday meeting for international coöperation. It was explained the secretary of state was convinced that intense economic nationalism can only result in lower standards of livng and degradation of the people.

See U. S.-Japanese Trade Pact.

He was reported much encouraged by the favorable response in several conference quarters to his document introduced in the final session of the economic commission Friday, setting forth a positive program for continuance of President Roosevelt's tariff truce, and proposing a gradual reduction of trade barriers through trade agreements between the various countries.

The Japanese were reported to have expressed keen interest, and some well informed circles suggested this might lead to negotiations for a new trade agreement between Japan and the United States.

18 PICNICKERS INJURED WHEN TRUCK UPSETS

Vehicle Overturns with C. & N. W. Employes.

Eighteen employés of the Chicago and North Western railroad were injured yesterday when a truck carrying them to a company picnic in the forest preserve adjoining the Methodist camps meeting grounds in Des Plaines overturned. All were treated at the village emergency hospital and released. Only two suffered broken bones.

Hyman Hoffman, 17 years old, 1326 Thorndale avenue, was driving the truck containing thirty-five persons, about half of them woman and girls. As he swung east off Miner street to the preserve road, the wheels of his truck locked, throwing it on its side.

The most severely injured were: Mrs. Anna Ferfelt, 42 years old, 1143 South St. Louis avenue, broken collar bone; her husband, Louis, 47 years old, head injuries, and Laura Berwitz, 14, of 1327 Thorndale avenue, arm broken.

Mother Killed, Baby Escapes.

Mrs. May Cekan, 27 years old, 5602 South Ashland avenue, was thrown from her husband's automobile and killed yesterday when it collided with another car at Long Grove, about five miles south of Libertyville in Lake county. Her infant son, Paul, 3 months old, whom she was holding in her arms, escaped with a few cuts.

The other car was driven by Eugene Carrington, 2608 Eastwood avenue, Evanston. He was not injured. James Cekan Jr., Mrs. Cekan's husband, was cut and bruised. His father and mother and two sisters who were with him also were thrown from the car, but were not hurt.

Year's Toll Rises to 552.

Four deaths yesterday increased the 1933 motor toll in Cook county to 552. The victims:

Thomas Lyons, 70 years old, 6616 Lowe avenue. Fatally injured last night at 66th and Halsted streets by an automobile driven by Elmer Larsen, 31, of 1149 West 59th street.

William Nolan, 32 years old, 2504 Shakespeare avenue, a city motorcycle policeman. He died at St. Mary's hospital of injuries received Saturday when he was thrown from his cycle after it struck a hole in the pavement at Division street and Western avenue.

Arthur Huebner, 5 years old, a resident at the Lutheran Home Finding Society of Illinois, 4340 Byron street. Fatally injured last night when he was struck in front of the home by a car driven by Bernard Cassell, 32, of 4712 Parker avenue.

ARRESTED INDIA FREEDOM LEADER DIES OF A STROKE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

CALCUTTA, July 23.—J. M. Sen Gupta, leader of the All-India National Congress party in Bengal and five times mayor of Calcutta, died as a result of a stroke early today at Ranchi in Mihar, where he was being detained as a state prisoner. Sen Gupta had been detained for eighteen months, the government fixing his place of residence and allowing his English wife, the former Nellie Gray, $375 a month for her support.

In April, 1930, Sen Gupta was sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment for sedition and his mayoralty was rendered void. Thereafter he visited England with his wife. He returned to India a few days after the renewal of civil disobedience in 1932, was rearrested, and remained in detention, first in a Calcutta hospital and later at Ranchi.

Sen Gupta was one of Mahatma Gandhi's chief lieutenants in the Nationalist movement. His wife also took an active part in the campaign of civil disobedience. In 1930 she was sentenced to four months' imprisonment in New Delhi for taking part in a meeting in defiance of a decree against public assembly.

2 GROUPS OPPOSE 'OXFORD' TREND IN ENGLISH CHURCH

Criticize Influence of Anglo-Catholics.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 23.—When Dr. Arthur Foley Ingram, bishop of London, recently became ill and was forced to cancel his promised participation in the Anglo-Catholic centenary congress at the White City stadium renewed attention was drawn to the continued and critical division in the Church of England. His original intention to take part had been severely criticized by opposing factions of the Anglican church.

The Anglo-Catholics were gathering to commemorate the so-called "Oxford movement," which was inaugurated 100 years ago by sermons and writings of John Keble. The movement sought to bring the Church of England closer to Roman Catholicism in elaboration of ritual and in dogma. Some of its members, notably Cardinal Manning and the famed writer, Cardinal Newman, went so far in the "high church" direction that they finally were converted to Roman Catholicism.

Two Opposing Factions.

Two chief factions today stand in active opposition to the influence of contemporary Anglo-Catholics in the Church of England. They are, first, the "Protestants," represented by the bishop of Norwich and others, who represent the strict "traditional Church of England" point of view and are more or less the fundamentalists of the church. There are, secondly, the "modernists," of whom outspoken Dr. Ernest William Barnes of Birmingham is offered as typical.

Both Protestants and modernists bitterly criticize as "heathen," "magical," and "superstitious" the ceremonials borrowed or imitated from Roman Catholicism, which the Anglo-Catholics use.

At the centenary congress of the Oxford movement the bishop of London was to have conducted a high mass before 50,000 people. Other clergymen of the Church of England, who shared his Anglo-Catholic leanings, took his place in the various ceremonials.

Premier Appoints Bishops.

The mass was celebrated under an ornate canopy bearing on its frontals significantly the arms of the sees of Constantinople, York, Canterbury, and Rome. The critics of the Anglo-Catholics accuse them of exploiting their elaborate ceremonials as lures for the masses.

Increasing the anomaly of the present three way split in the Church of England, its bishops, who are asked to condone and favor the Roman Catholic ceremonials used in the "Oxford movement" churches throughout the country, hold their positions by virtue of appointment by a government which has no particular religious makeup.

English Roman Catholic clergymen use this as a taunt to fling at the Church of England. Father Woodlock, noted Roman Catholic priest, points out that every recently appointed Anglican bishop owes his appointment to a Presbyterian prime minister [MacDonald].

"Who knows but that later an atheist may even occupy this position and decide who are to be bishops?" he asks.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 23.—Admiral Ludwig von Schroeder, the "lion of Flanders," died here today at the age of 79. Like Field Marshal von Hindenberg, he was on the retired list when the world war broke out and, like him, he was called back to active service. Admiral von Schroeder was in command of the marine corps that held the outermost German channel wing until October, 1918. He also directed the U-boat warfare from Flanders and the air raids over England.

FRANK L. CAREY IS DEAD; FORMER HEAD OF BOARD OF TRADE

Many Chicagoans Will Be Present.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL of the Chicagoans summering in Santa Fé have made only one date for next Sunday afternoon. En masse they are planning to turn out for the annual horse show to be held at that charming old hacienda, the James L. Breese ranch, only a few miles out of the city.

The show is always the highlight of the hot weather social season in the quaint little old world town. This year it follows close on the heels of the successful dog show July 16 at Bishop's lodge in which a half dozen or more Chicago residents took part.

Mrs. Cyrus McCormick entered her famous Kerry Blue in the dog show. Young Donald R. Murphy showed his pets in the children's class. And then there were the blue bloods, all combed and manicured to the last degree, of the junior James L. Breeses, whose Santa Fé house is known as "Los Ventos," the Raymond Otises, and those owned by Florence, the daughter of the John P. Hermeses.

These southern vacationists, the Cyrus McCormicks, the Breeses, and the Otises, are to attend the show. And so will Mrs. Henry Stude with her daughter, Jane, and her son, Henry Jr.; the Arthur G. Cables of Hubbard Woods, who are gathering one by one at their stunning Santa Fé house; the Wheaton Augurs, whose "in-between" house is in Winnetka; the James W. Youngs; Mrs. Ralph C. Hamill with her daughter, Margaret, and her son, Hunt Jr., and the Hubert Galts with Mrs. Galt's mother, Mrs. John T. Noyes.

Murphy Clan Will Attend.

The Murphy clan will be there . . . . the Charles J. Murphys and Mrs. J. Raymond Murphy with her children, Miss Marice Murphy, Raymond, Paul, and Donald . . . . for they are always among those most interested in the blue blooded show.

And hen there will be along the rail Mrs. James Waller Marshall of Winnetka, Stewart Harvey, and others.

After the horse show Sunday many of those attending will move on to the home of Mrs. J. Raymond Murphy for a buffet supper. The Murphys have leased the Edwin Brooks' house this year and the scene from the patio enclosed in adobe walls is a charming one, especially in the evening. . . . twinkling stars and fountains splashing.

The Sidney Heaps and the Jacob Bischofs have issued invitations for a Florida beach party for Miss Betty Dixon and her fiancé, A. Parker Bryant. It was while Miss Dixon was visting Mr. Bryant and his parents in the southern resort state last winter that their engagement was announced.

The party Thursday evening is to be aboard the yacht Circe, docked at 12th street at the World's Fair beach. It is to start at 6 o'clock and continue . . . well, indefinitely, according to the invitations.

P. M. Hamiltons Here for Fair.

One of the most fêted young couples visiting Chicago this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton . . . that is, if they will allow themselves to be fêted. They arrived from New York yesterday with Mr. Hamilton's two sons, David and Ian, to "do" the Fair. And to make it more comfortable for the children as well as for themselves they are spending the early part of the week at the home of George Halleck Taylor on East Division street. Mrs. Taylor is visiting her sister in Englewood, N. J.

On Thursday the Hamiltons will go out to Winnetka to be the guests of Mrs. Hamilton's good friend and her husband, the junior Edward A. Fargos, who have taken the Goddard Cheney house for the summer. When Mrs. Hamilton was Rebecca Stickney and Mrs. Fargo was Angela Downey they had an apartment together in New York.

The Fargos have invited a number of friends to meet their guests on Thursday evening. Tonight Mrs. Ford Carter will have A Century of Progress dinner party for them at the Century club.

Convinced that a large country house should not be wanting for guests these summer days, John J. Finlay put in a call for his friend, Hallett W. Thorne, the other day after Mrs. Finlay and their young daughter, Barbara, had boarded the train for New York to spend a short holiday with the Roy Larsons on Long Island. As the result Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, with their daughter, are having a Geneva vacation with Mr. Finlay. The Thornes have rented their Winnetka house this summer to the Albert H. Wettens. The last several weeks they have been stopping at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Children to Visit Albert B. Dicks.

The Albert Blake Dicks' lovely old house in Lake Forest is going to be filled with various sons and daughters and their wives and husbands off and on during the rest of the summer. The first to arrive will be Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Dick [Margaret Lee Burgess], who were married in New York recently. They will be here next Saturday, and the two weeks that they plan to spend under the parental roof will be all too short for young Mr. Dick's many friends who want to entertain for him and his bride.

Judge and Mrs. Thomas W. Swan, the former Mabel Dick, are arriving around the end of August to visit the Dicks, and the middle of September the Dicks' second son, C. Mathews Dick, and Mrs. Dick and their two boys will come for a few weeks of sightseeing and renewing friendships. Mr. and Mrs. Mathews Dick live in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Rene de Trafford of

Find a Cooling Breeze From Lake

Miss Betty Dixon and her fiance, A. Parker Bryant, stole a few minutes away from the throngs that gathered for luncheon Saturday noon at the Malibu Beach club in Hollywood at A Century of Progress, for a cool breeze and a look at the sailboats casting about in the lake. Miss Dixon and Mr. Bryant are to be guests of the Sidney Heaps and the Jacob Bischofs Thursday evening at a World's Fair yachting party. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Quiet Parties on Long Island Attract Balbo

BY NANCY RANDOLPH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Chalk up the cleverest social coup of the summer to the blonde Mrs. Morton L. Schwartz. While other society women have angled in vain for the time and attention of the fascinating Gen. Italo Balbo, Elinor Balke Schwartz has been quietly monopolizing the general's spare hours.

While press and public were speculating on the whereabouts of the Italian air hero yesterday afternoon, he was speeding to the Schwartz country home at Roslyn, L. I., to relax from the strictures of official routine at a small and informal social function arranged by Mrs. Schwartz.

And this afternoon, when he made another hasty trip to Long Island, it was Mrs. Schwartz who met and accompanied him to the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Alexandre, at Glen Head, where he spent a pleasant hour before hurrying back to official duties in Manhattan.

Each time the general has run away from New York crowds and adulation for a few quiet hours on Long Island, he has been accompanied by a few of the handsome officers of his squadron, and the greatest secrecy has surrounded the expeditions.

Mrs. Schwartz was visiting in Chicago when the Italian fleet arrived there and met and charmed the gallant general at parties there before hurrying east to act as his unofficial hostess here. At the supper dance given at the Waldorf-Astoria by the Italy-America society Friday night much of the general's brief stay there was spent in animated conversation with Mrs. Schwartz. She has a great advantage in that she speaks Italian fluently and is familiar with Roman society, having been educated in a Roman convent attended by the daughters of Italy's aristocracy.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz are popular figures in Manhattan's gayest young social set. They have a tremendous amount of money, since she is an heiress to part of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender millions, and Schwartz is referred to as a Wall street wizard, even in these times. Several years ago he and Clarence Dillon flabbergasted the financial world by arranging the purchase of the Dodge Brothers' automobile business in a deal involving $146,000,000.

The Schwartzes are much interested in horses and own a racing stable. Schwartz was born in Louisville, Ky., and maintains a stock farm near that city, a winter home at Aiken, S. C.; a town apartment in Manhattan, and the country place on Long Island. They have two small daughters, Nancy and Cynthia.

Sally Invites Guests to See Buddy Rogers

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Aug. 3 is the date of another big party, boys and girls! That's a week from next Thursday, but in order to give me time to read your letters, select the winners, and prepare them for publication in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, I have to hear from every one who wants to come by next Wednesday. So get to work on those letters, young ladies and gentlemen!

It's not very often any group of youngsters is invited to a special showing of a movie, you know. But Buddy Rogers wants me to bring 50 boys and 50 girls to see his latest picture, "Friendly Enemies." Although it's at McVicker's now, Balaban & Katz weren't quite sure where it would be running by a week from Thursday—so the Sherman hotel said, "Show it over here." Buddy and his orchestra, "The California Cavaliers," are now playing there every night—but, of course, children don't go to parties at night, so he'll be there to greet us in the afternoon. I know you'll enjoy meeting him, and maybe he'll play for us. I understand he's quite a musician—and can play just about any instrument.

The film is a very jolly one, all about a boy and a girl whose fathers dislike each other so intensely that one leaves the country, which makes things rather difficult for their children, who happen to get along very well together.

But I'm not going to tell you any more about the movie—if you'd like to see it and meet Buddy—and who wouldn't?—hurry those letters.

Don't forget—name, address, and age, and send 'em to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

One Shade in Cosmetics Is Wisest Choice

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Read this and wipe, my sisters! Bear down a bit heavier on the powder puff! And note, if you wish to be remembered in history as having been a poet's inspiration, a king's downfall, an empire wrecker—it's the element of femininity you must loud pedal, not your learning nor, necessarily, your homely virtues.

If you're not interested in what posterity may read about you or say about you, you can't escape wanting to supply some man with a persuading quality he can't supply himself. Well, here it is, as writ into an editorial of recent date.

"We still suspect that the best equipment for an intelligent woman is a full length mirror in her bathroom and a smaller one in her vanity case. For the women who have inspired poetry, overthrown kings and empires, and made their names in history are remembered because they supplied in their lifetime that element which no man, however brilliant, can supply—the element of femininity." Without this element the world, it is decreed by the modern male as by his predecessors, would be duller than dishwater.

This is your year, girls, if ever there was one, to get your name into a history book, or if, as hinted, your ambition does not lie that way, then into a one man diary! No need to inform you what the year offers you. You have eyes for shop windows, dress materials, and cosmetic counters.

But speaking of the latter, the latest makeup wrinkle is a solid color idea for the face. If it's all tan—then only slight accent on lips and eyes. Rouge lighter and yellower for and with the tan effect if you must use rouge. If an alabaster beauty then be it as harmonious a one color tone as possible. If a naturel, or that's the way you choose to be this year, use light lip rouge and powder only.

Of course, the colors of the average one of you will vary necessarily on lip and nose and eyelid—but keep the idea in mind that a solid color is the vogue.

Predicts Run for 'Skidding,' Family Comedy

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Skidding," a play five years old that has manifested its vitality in the stock companies' repertories, was staged in the Studebaker theater last night by Harry Minturn, latest addition to the attenuated list of Chicago's producing managers. It has a home-guard cast that knows how to handle its obvious bids for laughter from the home folks, and the première was an affair of innocent merriment. Since "The Family Upstairs" ran up a record of twenty-six weeks here within recent memory, I see no reason why "Skidding," which is a better work of the same type, should not also have its long-drawn run.

This piece is of the species that dramatic critics, when talking shop, call bourgeois comedy. It deals with the plain American people in their provincial domestic bliss or the lack of it, surrounded by their Grand Rapids furniture and cavorting humorously with their simple-minded problems. It is neither a work of art nor a spiced tidbit for the hotcha s'ph'sticates, but it is good clean fun for the folk-drama audience.

"Skidding" deals with father, mother and the girls [plus a noisy Harold Teen] in a small city in Idaho. The plot revolves around the youngest daughter, who returns from an eastern college as a progressive little creature whose bright ideas prevent the tribe from going to seed. The story is brisk with incident, stuffed with homespun speeches on topics that women love, such as the eternal fallibility of husbands; and oozing with middle class atmosphere. Altogether, "Skidding" rates high in its unambitious class.

Loretta Poynton, a pretty young actress who recently won attention in "On the Make," has the central rôle—the college graduate who makes Idaho admit the value of the higher education—and gives a bright, soubrettish account of herself. Ethel Strickland, a veteran of the original "Skidding" company, is excellent as the mother, and Guy Hitner is plausible as the worried judge who is the head of the household. Charles Harrison, as a young man who comes a-wooing, and Marshall Grant, as the comic supplement boy in the family, are recognized as fugitives from the cast of "Tomorrow Turns Back," at the Selwyn theater.

"Moonshine and Honeysuckle," a play based on a radio serial, and given by a company of radio actors, began an engagement in the Illinois theater last night. The performance will be reviewed tomorrow.

Charlotte Walker assumed the central rôle of "Tomorrow Turns Back," at the Selwyn, last night, with the rank of star. . . . Fay Bainter will make her début in musical comedy with the "Gay Divorce" company at the Apollo theater tonight, replacing Luella Gear.

Report Attitude of Public Toward Unwed Mother Has Changed

Half a century of service to unmarried mothers and their babies is being commemorated in Chicago this week by the national group of 65 Florence Crittenton missions. More than 150 officials of the homes opened the golden jubilee conference last night at the Florence Crittenton Anchorage at 2615 Indiana avenue. Sessions will continue through Wednesday at the Great Northern hotel.

In the fifty years since Charles N. Crittenton, a New York business man, established the first such refuge for what were then termed "unfortunate girls," a distinct change has been noted in the attitude of the public toward the inmates, the national president, Dr. Robert S. Barrett of Alexandria, Va., said. Tolerance toward and sympathy for the individual girl and her individual problems is the rule instead of the exception today, he declared.

Dr. Barrett commented on the constantly dropping average age of the girls who come to the missions. Of 4,662 mothers cared for during 1932, the average age was below 18, while formerly it was the woman in her twenties and even older who applied for aid. Less of a stigma applies today to these girls, and there is less difficulty in returning them to a normal life because of the changed public attitude.

No financial difficulties have been encountered, said Dr. Barrett, in reporting gross assets of $5,500,000.

A CERTAIN incongruity in connection with writing about a princess and a flea tempts us to tell about the last visit to the World's Fair made by Princess Myriam Potenziani, daughter of the Italian royal commissioner at the Fair, before she left for New York Saturday. Having dined with her father and some friends at the Saddle and Cycle, then stopped at Joseph T. Ryerson's to see his excellent movies of the arrival of Gen. Italo Balbo and his air armada, it was late when the party arrived at the Fair. Donna Myriam made straight for the Midway. She wanted to see the flea circus, she said. After some search the place was discovered, but the distinguished Italian visitors were too late.

Incident.

"The fleas have gone to bed," announced an attendant firmly.

SALESMANSHIP, as demonstrated by the lad selling newspapers at the 23d street entrance to A Century of Progress. The man whom he was urging to buy a paper, thinking to get rid of him, addressed him:

"No can read," he said.

"Dere's 2 cents' worth of pictures in dis paper, mister," retorted the boy.

* *

MAYBE you hadn't realized how swiftly time was passing, but it was brought home forcibly to a man walking up Michigan avenue the other day. He overheard a newsboy's comment to an elderly couple, obviously visitors to the city, who had inquired about the tall building to the left.

"That's the Wrigley building, folks," he explained. "Sort of an old landmark here."

* *

MARGALO GILMORE wires from Denver [she's the telegraphing kind] the story of Earle Larrimore in Paris, viewing Napoleon's tomb on a blistering hot day. As he gazed at the tomb the guide broke in on his reverie.

"I'll show you the relics of St. Helena," he offered.

A HERO can forget things as well as any other man. Gen. Balbo's wife [if he has one] probably couldn't trust him to get a letter mailed. Anyway, when the silvery triads of his fleet rose from the lake the other morning Gen. Balbo's favorite clock he had brought with him from Italy was still sitting on his bedside table at the Drake. Another lad forgot to pack the photograph of his mother in a silver frame he had carried with him as a talisman across the Atlantic, and a third had left all his medals behind. All these things were boxed up and sent on to the flyers in New York.

* *

A LADY, over luncheon on the Tavern terrace, was planning her trip to Nantucket by plane, and declared that she believed the flight of the Italian armada had done a great deal for aviation. Another guest was reminded of Britton I. Budd's story about long trips by plane.

When Mr. Budd boarded a plane at San Francisco a young couple was at the field, and the man was encouraging the girl, who was timid about making her first flight.

"It'll be fine," he told her, patting her shoulder soothingly. "Everything will be all right. We'll be at Kansas City in no time at all. . . ."

The plane took off, and some time later, when the ship was bumping up and down in the Rocky mountain air pockets, Mr. Budd looked back at the couple. The man was holding his head and the girl was patting his shoulder soothingly.

"Everything will be all right," she was telling him. "We'll be at Kansas City in no time at all."

Chicago Shops Get Share of Fair Visitors

Needle Workers Learning Latest Tricks.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

While armies of sightseers are besieging the gates at A Century of Progress, just as many of them take a couple of days off to wander blissfully through Chicago shops and stores. There is just as much pulling power to smart new things you can buy in the way of clothes and furniture, or gadgets and gifts to pack in your home going suitcase, as there is to all the thrilling sights of the Fair. Knowing needlewomen are crowding into the busy sections where experts tell the newest way to knit anything from a simple afghan to the intricacies of a smart three piece knitted suit . . . where you can find out how to sit by the fire next winter and complete a piece of fine tapestry . . . where you can learn new tricks with lamp shades, how to start and finish either a hooked rug or a patch quilt . . . where fancy and complicated new patterns for crocheting, for quilting, and practically anything you want to know about embroidery are explained and illustrated while you wait.

Home decorators can find out all that's new and different for rejuvenating any room in the house . . . one store has an entire department filled with nothing but colorful new chintz . . . glazed and dull, yards of the fascinating stuff, ready to cover and change the appearance of pet chairs that are slightly dingy and weary as to looks, but still satisfyingly comfortable and much too good to send to the attic.

Here you will find actual examples of what a few yards of chintz and some active imagination will accomplish . . . chairs, small and large, dressing tables, thousands of pillows, and some of the best looking clothes closets, done up in chintz, that you have ever seen. Slip cover addicts probably will stay there hours for all the newest ideas are on display.

Stanley Chapple, conductor of the London Symphony orchestra and an international authority on music and the drama, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a series of lectures on those topics to be given both in the loop and on the grounds of A Century of Progress. He went from the La Salle street station to the apartment leased for him at 240 East Delaware place.

Good Morning!

Well, the United Artists' theater will probably do vurr' well for itself during the run of its present attraction.

Has it not Jean Harlow of the platinum hair and cleft chin, and Clark Gable of the dimples and crooked smile, sinning, loving, and reforming all over its screen? And is this not the movie diet that the average movie fan cries for? It has—and it is.

Anita Loos wrote the story of "Hold Your Man." She chose as her principal characters a pickpocket and a lady of easy virtue who meet hectically, join checkered careers and live dangerously, go through reform school and jail respectively, and end up—respectably.

Not a new plot, but Miss Loos handled her material deftly and the director made the most of his scenario. You find, therefore, plenty of action, plenty of hotcha, plenty of what passes for sentiment, a determined essay at pathos, and an ending calculated to stroke aright the fur of the moralists. For, see—

It didn't pay to sin
But lookit the dividends virtue brought in. . . !

Miss Harlow is earnest and likable as Ruby, though there is nothing in her performance to make her rate as a great actress. Mr. Gable is—Mr. Gable—which is all his admirers ask. Stuart Erwin, that gentle Rogersesque comedian is perfectly miscast as a kindly, honorable fellow who loves the garish Ruby in Christlike fashion through all, standing by loyally till the last reel in which he provides the lady's ex-convict husband with a job in Cincinnati. Mr. Erwin, being the intuitive sort of actor who can do no wrong, acquits himself splendidly, but his peculiar entertainment value is swamped in the rôle of Al.

Photography is excellent and minor rôles are satisfactorily played. The film has quite a bit of suspense and inspires occasional gusts of laughter.

See you tomorrow!

Bar Foreign Movies in All Except Fifteen Theaters in France

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—A drastic restruction on film importation, which some importers said threatens virtually to bar American movies from France, was imposed today in a decree applying a quota system on foreign talking pictures.

Original versions of foreign sound films, of which Hollywood supplied 150 in the last year, may be shown in only five theaters in Paris and ten theatres in the provinces in the year ending next July 1.

Foreign films with the dialogue "dubbed" in French were limited to 140.

Arthur W. Kelly, general European manager for United Artists, said the American embassy will be asked to protest.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training, rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough. He and Schewan, his chief, plot to trick Rhoda out of a fortune. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. She has been administered a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt, Garrick determines to settle the matter in his own way. His solicitor tells him that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick undertakes a bold rescue. He escapes to London with Rhoda. Garrick hires Alf, a farmhand out of work, as a helper and buys his silence. One of the gang is shot during an encounter in Garrick's home and the police suspect Garrick. Garrick buys a controlling interest in "Jelka' World Famous Fair." They travel about for a week when the gang overtakes them. They escape, but Garrick is separated from Rhoda and Alf. Garrick disguises as the chauffeur of his friend, young Alistair. He calls at the gang's headquarters in search of incriminating evidence. The gang walk in on him and they have with them Alf, from whom they intend to learn Rhoda's whereabouts.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

A SURPRISE ATTACK.

Garrick knew instinctively that the four of them were waiting for him to run the sixty odd feet across the strip of garden to the door in the opposite wall. Without an inch of cover there was no hope of reaching that door.

"If I run round the house they'll reach the front before I can. Wherever I run they can get me." Whether he were to choose the back garden door or the little drive in front of the house, the job for a man with a revolver would be simple. They knew where he was—and if he stayed there one of them would go to the garden and pick him off. There was no escape.

Now many an unarmed man confronted by a lion has saved his life—by running at the lion.

Garrick ran past the house door that gave on to the garden to the open window of the kitchen quarters by which he had entered.

A couple of seconds later he was through the kitchen window and back in the house itself—the one place where they would never look for him.

Through the half open kitchen door he could hear that one of them was opening the front door.

As he crossed the floor and crept close to the kitchen door he heard Schewan's voice coming from the room across the corridor.

"Maitland, if he isn't under the windowsill, get into the garden yourself and wait for him. Dorling will drive him back."

So Dorling was the one who had gone out by the front door! Maitland was going through the window, so this must be George padding down the corridor to open the door which gave on to the garden.

It was impossible to make a fair fight of it. Even at that moment Garrick had time to feel horribly squeamish about hitting a man from behind.

Having overcome his own scruples, it was, indeed, a rather ghastly blow that landed on the back of George's head. He would have done it more gently—but the ex-pugilist's head was particularly hard. And George was unconscious before he dropped limp on the door mat.

Now George's voice, thought Garrick, as he possessed himself of the latter's revolver, would be very easy to imitate. It was gruff and husky and the Cockney accent was so broad as to resemble that of a Cockney comedian.

"'Ands up, Swell Garrick!" roared Garrick. "I've got 'im 'ere, guv'nor—got me gun in the small of 'is back. Can you come along, guv'nor?"

"No. I've got to look after this white livered boob. Bring him in here and I'll take care of both of 'em."

It was difficult to shuffle along the corridor as if two men were walking—and at the same time to keep his eyes glued on the half open door of Schewan's room, in case the other should suddenly show himself.

"Nah then—lef' turn—you know the way in!" barked Garrick.

Garrick was within an inch of the lintel now. He could see the tip of Schewan's revolver with which he was holding up Alf. He saw the tip, then the magazine. Three inches by two, at a range of seven feet. Easy, very easy, to a man who could split a visiting card in a cork at twenty feet!

As Garrick fired, the revolver spun out of Schewan's hand—and Garrick showed himself.

"I say, Gorilla, did I leave a bag here?" he drawled. "It contains evidence against you and—I rather want it."

"You still here, Alf!" chirped Garrick, keeping Schewan covered. "My bag is over by the window. Pick it up and we'll say good-by to Mr. Schewan."

Still Schewan remained unmoved. Garrick admitted the steadiness. The man had pluck and self-control, but everything else about him was vile. He had been about to torture Alf. And he had injected a terrible drug into a young woman, solely for money.

At thought of what Schewan had done to Rhoda Garrick hardened. He could not strike an unarmed man while he himself was armed.

"Just a minute, Alf! I see your hands are tied. I'll soon settle that."

Garrick took out his penknife. With one hand holding the revolver he could not open the blade. As if absent mindedly he placed the revolver on the sideboard. In reality he was not absent minded at all. He was thinking of Rhoda—and he was thinking three moves ahead of the move that Schewan would inevitably make to grab that revolver.

Garrick's attention had been concentrated not on the revolver but on Schewan's head. As Schewan sprang for the sideboard Garrick landed on the jaw. Almost before Schewan had fallen Garrick had cut Alf's bonds.

"Rather a low down trick, I'm afraid, Gorilla!" remarked Garrick, as he reclaimed the revolver. "But you're a bit on the low down side yourself. Don't get up until we've gone or I shall let you have one in—er—the soft part of the leg."

"While he was speaking Garrick reversed the key and locked Schewan in his own room.

"Come on, Alf! Not the back door. We shall fall over that comic butler."

Alf hurried towards the front door. Garrick hesitated and then:

"We'll just lock this—and keep Dorling out. This is our way."

He led the way through the back of the house to the garden that was an exact replica of Schewan's—and so to the waiting coupé.

"Cor, blimey, Mr. Garrick, sir!" gasped Alf. "The way you hit that big stiff—well, it jolly nearly turned my stomach, sir, and that's a fact! I'll lay he couldn't hear what you said to him afterwards."

"Had to leave her in a tin shack, sir, about a mile from that empty house. She's quite all right—but I daresay she's feeling a bit lonesome."

"We'll join her as soon as I can get rid of this bag. But at the moment I'm not quite sure of the best place to dump it." They were running through Maida Vale and presently Garrick stopped at a telephone box and rang through to Alistair.

"I've got those boots, thanks to you!" Garrick told him. "Is it safe for me to come back to the flat?"

"O rath-er! But remember you're a chauffeur, won't you! Tell the porter I had sent you to fetch a bag and want you to bring it up. And remember to be pally with him. It's little things like this that make all the difference. Probably you haven't studied crime as much as I have ——"

"No, dear boy! But I'll do my best," grinned Garrick. "I'll be with you in about ten minutes."

Alistair replaced the receiver with a chuckle. He was in the highest of high spirits—already he was seeing himself as the organizing brain behind Garrick's work of proving his innocence.

"Garrick's a thundering smart chap, but when it comes to a matter of organization I think I—Hullo, he can't have got here already!"

There had come a knock on the outer door of the flat. Alistair went to open it.

"Good morning, Mr. Alistair! Can I have a word with you?"

"O rather! But I say—" he added as the other stepped into the hall, "hadn't you better tell me your name?"

"Lanport, Detective Inspector. Scotland Yard."

"O, I say, look here!" exclaimed Alistair, utterly unable to conceal his alarm. It was a moment, undoubtedly for 'organization,' but the trouble was that there didn't seem to be anything to organize with that fellow standing in the hall and Garrick due in ten minutes.

"There's no need to alarm yourself, Mr. Alistair," said Lanport. "I shall not keep you a minute. You're a friend of Mr. Garrick's, I believe?"

"Yes—yes," said Alistair. "If it's only going to be a minute, it'll be all right. It's rather draughty in the hall, don't you think?" (Garrick might blunder in with his latchkey at any moment and they would be safer in the sitting room). "You'll have time for a cigaret if you're quick."

'Out' and 'In' of Chatterton Fast Friends

Ralph Forbes and George Brent Become Pals.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 23.—[Special.]—An unusual but close friendship has grown up between Ruth Chatterton's "out," Ralph Forbes, and her current "in," George Brent. The young men who represent the emotional actress' changing mind in matrimony, have become a pair of Hollywood's pals. There's an idea there for his majesty's government; let marriage to a common denominator—an American actress—make friends of all the English and the Irish young men. [Forbes is an Englishman. Brent is from Ireland].

Marlene Dietrich's return film, when she gets back from Germany next month, will be "Her Regiment of Lovers," the story being a semi-historical plot lifted from the love life episodes of Catherine the Great of Russia. Its author is Manuel Komroff, writer of "Coronet" and "Two Thieves." Von Sternberg will of course direct Dietrich.

With Garbo all set to start "Christina of Sweden" at M-G-M it looks like a race between the rival exotics to reach the screen with the adventures of Baltic queens. Metro has spent $16,000 to build a special royal bed for Garbo to lie in, in its film.

Jean MacGowan, 18 year old daughter of Kenneth MacGowan, Radio-RKO director is launching a screen career of her own. She plays an important bit in "Little Women," at her father's studio.

George Bancroft may not like this, but Oscar Smith, the bootblack who doubles as an actor at Paramount, says the biggest feet in the movies belong to Will Rogers. Until Oscar's authoritative pronouncement, many thought Bancroft's feet were the largest.

Ed Wynne, here for his third try at the movies says the other attempts didn't do so well, because the movie writers, directors and producers wanted to make him act unlike himself. "The only thing that worries me now," he says, "is they may want to make me another Wallace Beery. You can't do that, you know."

Charlie Chaplin is getting his new yacht, The Edna, all furnished for extended cruising, and Paulette Goddard is helping him.

Mary Astor is scheduled for a court appearance tomorrow. Ruth Collyer, her former business agent and former friend, is suing her for $2,433 asserted due as Ruth's commission for obtaining Mary a $2,000 a week movie contract.

Many Chicagoans Will Be Present.

London are leaving town this morning for Vancouver after a hurried two days' visit. Mrs. de Trafford, who is the former Alice Silverthorne of Riverside, and her husband came to this country on the Duchess of Bedford, docking in Montreal last Friday.

Charles H. Chadwick Goes to California.

Charles Harrington Chadwick departed recently for California, via New York and the Panama canal, which has become such a popular and restful way of making the journey to the Golden state. He is going to participate in the annual meeting of the Bohemian club, along with members from all over the world, in the Bohemian grove. Mr. Chadwick will be at home Aug. 15. Mrs. Chadwick is vacationing in France.

Mrs. John E. Hughes and her second son, Mansfield, are leaving Lake Forest tomorrow for England and France, where they will remain until time for Mansfield to return to enter the Groton school, where his older brother, John Jr., is already a student. Mrs. Hughes and all four of her sons [Marshall and Minton are the younger two] are very well known for their horsemanship.

Miss Gene Bucklin left Saturday to join her parents, the Vail R. Bucklins, on their old farm in Charlotte, Vt. There she will spend the next six weeks. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Fiske, are remaining here in the Bucklins' Astor street apartment.

Miss Leslie Keith, who is better known as "Patty," is going up to Desbarats today to join her parents, the Stanley Keiths, for the rest of the summer. Miss Keith, who is to be one of this season's debutantes, and a very attractive one, returned recently from the east, where she went to visit friends.

Barbara Shaffer to Be Debutante.

Miss Barbara Isobel Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Shaffer, is dividing her time this summer between her family's country estate, Cold Stream Farms, near Lexington Ky., and their place at Cape Vincent, N. Y. The Shaffers also have a winter place at St. Petersburg, Fla. Miss Shaffer, who attended Ogontz school, will be presented to society at a tea in the Shaffers' apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive early in November.

Many Chicagoans will be interested in the news of little Anne McCoy's arrival more than a week ago in the household of the W. Milton McCoys in Washington. Before her marriage Mrs. McCoy was the stunning and talented Carolyn Walker, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Charles M. Walker. With her husband she makes frequent trips through Chicago, for Mr. McCoy is the co-owner with Goelet Gallatin of a polo ranch near Sheridan, Wyo. Among the baby's Chicago aunts and uncles are Mrs. James A. Field, the John Paul Wetlings, and Charles Morehead Walker.

Almost an anniversary present was the baby daughter weighing 9 pounds born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bering last Thursday afternoon at the Lying-In hospital. The Berings were married on July 12 last year.

Mrs. Herbert P. McLaughlin, the former Corinne Brewer, arrived at home Thursday from a fortnight spent visiting friends on Cape Cod.

Gallaghers Visit Daughter in China.

Two young Dartmouth students who are having a marvelous vacation are Gordon Brown of Winnetka and David Gallagher of Highland Park, who went to the orient recently with David's father, Michael F. Gallagher, to join Mrs. Gallagher. Gordon's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Brown, had a cable from him announcing their safe arrival at Tsingtao [pronounced Sing-tow], where they will visit the former Garrigue Gallagher and her husband, Charles A. Butland. Mrs. Gallagher went to China in the early spring. Gordon is expected home around Sept. 1, but the Gallaghers will not return until Oct. 1.

Aug. 1 will see the George Gillespies on their way back to their Arizona ranch. They have been here several weeks visiting Mrs. Gillespie's parents, the Robert J. Thornes. The Thornes, who have rented their house in Lake Forest for the summer and are staying in town, may be seen nearly every afternoon in the Post and Paddock club at the Arlington Park race track.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Conrad are motoring and visiting friends in Canada and Maine. They plan to be at home by next Sunday.

Now that the first of the series of World's Fair supper dances to provide trips to A Century of Progress for dependent children is a matter of history, we hear that the fourth party on Aug. 9 is to be one of the best parties of this summer season. A generous member of the supper dance board [who is acting anonymously] has taken the entire ballroom for that evening and he is going to invite several hundred of his friends to join him for supper and dancing.

Chic Polka Dots Effectively Trim Plain Materials

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Some of the best dressmakers effectively trim plain materials with printed. This youthful model shows how one of the effects is being carried out. In this dress of plain blue silk crêpe, the collar, cuffs, and bow are made of a dotted white and blue crêpe. A printed crêpe with plain trimming, a plain crêpe with organdie, or a wool crêpe with piqué, also would be smart.

The pattern, No. 2599, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt returned to the White House this evening in time for dinner from his overnight trip down the Potomac on board the Sequoia. He had with him his cousin, the American minister to Canada, Warren Delano Robbins, Mrs. Robbins, and Miss Marguerite Le Hand, the last named the private secretary to the President.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Swanson are spending the week-end at the camp of the Rapidan. They motored there Friday and will return early in the week.

The acting secretary of state, William Phillips, has joined his family in their summer home at North Beverly on the north shore of Massachusetts.

If You Learn from Experience Second Marriage Can Succeed

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What are the chances for success of second marriages?

Good—if a first experience and the added years have brought with them tolerance, understanding, and responsibility! These are the qualities that help stabilize the matrimonial bark and these the advantages of a second venture over a first. So argues Clara S. Smith, writing in a weekly periodical on second marriages.

If, on the other hand, you are one of the hopeless irresponsibles who learn nothing from year of experience, a second marriage is no more likely to succeed than the first. Nor is there any guarantee of contentment extended the Renoite who, in a highly emotional state, plunges into a second union just to "show" an unsympathetic world, or a seceding mate.

There is still another body of people who have no more right to expect happiness out of a second marriage than at first. There are the individuals who will never be happy in marriage because they are never happy in anything.

But for the general run of second marriages, there's still gold in them thar matrimonial hills, if from experience—and the years—one has learned what not to do as well as what to do, to quote our authority. In lessened expectations and demands and in a saner appreciation of one's own responsibilities there is a security often denied a first venture.

In other words, realism takes the place of romantic idealism in these second marriage ventures, contributing a much more comfortable atmosphere for two people to experiment in. The bond which draws them together is made of more durable stuff than often marks a first venture. Common interests are a safer bet for permanency of union than a pretty face and a starlit night. Many of the sources of friction and bitterness of a first marriage are automatically eliminated in the second marriage, due to the more advanced age of the participants. So are the in-law problem, differences about children and so on.

Nevertheless, the secret of the success of this second venture lies in realizing that the difference is not so much in the new mate as in one's own more tolerant, understanding and responsible self.

Cheese, Fruit Juice Smarten Salad Dressing

BY MARY MEADE.

For a long time now salads have had the job of holding together the middle of the meal—arriving after the potatoes and before the pie. But such isolation has gone the way of all age-old rules—cheers be!—and the newest note in swanky salad service is their arrival as the knowing first course for family or company dinners!

Nor is that all the good news. For now, in order to keep up with this social climb, salad dressings have been inspired to smarten up their wardrobes, too—in order to step out properly dressed for their new rôle. Mayonnaise, for instance, hardly knows itself these days, for it now comes to dinner spruced up with a piquant dash of this and that—a nip of cheese, a tangy fruit juice, or even a nut or two. The blends of flavors fairly make you purr.

Then there's another talking point for this variety—besides goodness. With an assortment of intriguing new salad dressings at our finger tips we can literally triple or—how do you say it?—quadruple the number of salads in our cook's répertoire. The same salad may be so disguised that the family will never in the world know that at heart it is the same one that was served to them just yesterday!

Just as a starter to your own kitchen inspirations, here are a few mayonnaise tempters that evolve with the assistance of fruit juices, cheese, whipped cream, and nuts.

FRESH STRAWBERRY MAYONNAISE.

¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup fresh strawberries, hulled and crushed
2 tbsp. confectioners' sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ cup cream, whipped

Clean and hull the strawberries and crush. Add to the mayonnaise with the sugar and the lemon juice. Lastly fold in the whipped cream. This recipe makes three-quarters cup of fruity mayonnaise. Serve with frozen, molded, or plain fresh fruit salad.

CASHEW DRESSING.

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
2 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup cashew nuts, finely chopped
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup cream

Work the cream cheese with a spatula until soft and smooth. Then blend it with the lemon juice, salt, and nuts. Fold in mayonnaise. Add cream gradually, stirring constantly Yield: One and three-quarters cups dressing.

CHEESE MAYONNAISE.

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup Roquefort cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup cream

Blend the cream cheese until soft and smooth with the lemon juice and salt. Press the Roquefort cheese through a coarse sieve and add to the first mixture alternately with the mayonnaise, beating well. Add the cream, gradually beating all the while. Serve with crisp greens or tomato salads.

But don't stall here. These recipes will suggest to you other noval combinations of fruit, chili sauce, or relishes with mayonnaise. And a self-invented salad is that much more fun to serve.

1-3 cup mayonnaise
1-3 cup cream, whipped
Dash of salt
1½ tbsp. grapefruit juice

Fold the mayonnaise into the whipped cream. Add the salt and grapefruit juice. This recipe makes one cup of mayonnaise.

RASPBERRY CREAM MAYONNAISE.

Combine equal parts of raspberry jam, whipped cream, and mayonnaise. Blend them all together carefully and serve with pear salad or with any other fresh fruit combination.

Bright Rainy Day Outfit from Lyolene Includes Gauntlets and Rose-Red Hat

BY SUZETTE BARILLET.

PARIS.—[Special.]—One of the few bright spots of a rainy Sunday at Longchamp was the ensemble shown today from Lyolene. The coat of plaid taffeta, in melting shades of rose-red, Nattier blue, and gold, is absolutely rainproof, though it doesn't look the part, after the rather depressing manner of the old fashioned impermeable. It's extremely practical, too, in spite of its pretty-pretty airs, being loose enough to slip on over any type of dress, and may be worn reversed. The flaps that give it a somewhat two-piece effect begin as sort of glorified Norfolk plaits a little under the square raglan sleeve mountings, and they hide capacious pockets.

The taffeta belt is separate and, like the coat, may be reversed, being lined with deep rose-red taffeta. If you get tired of plaid, you can turn plain in about two seconds.

The rather bulky, cunning cat's-paw gauntlets are of the plaid taffeta with rose-red antelope palms. The rôle of the absent collar is played by three plain taffeta scarfs in the rose-red, blue, and gold tones of the plaid.

The frock that rightfully accompanies this coat is shown in the lower right hand corner of the drawing. It's in mossy rose-red woolen with a sloping shoulder cut. Bands of the woolen are stitched on, back and front, from the edge of the short sleeves, and form loops at the neckline, through which the taffeta scarf [any one of the three] is run in a false "sewing bag" effect. Two silver buttons in front open it enough to "spare your curls."

The two bands trimming it down either side of the front are only really bands on the inside; outside they're gores till near the hem, when they turn into plaits. The fabric belt has Lyolene's new "chain gang" front section of large silver links.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE.

"Your honor," Prosecuting Attorney Ross said, "in the face of this evidence I am presenting, evidence secured by the great criminologist Prof. Fordney, that man," indicating Jackson, the prisoner, "is guilty of the murder of little Eleanor Casson.

"The dirt and piece of fresh fern removed by Prof. Fordney from a pair of shoes in Jackson's house the morning after the murder and submitted to the expert witness, who proved to the court that the dirt is the same as the soil at the scene of the crime is——"

"I object," interrupted defense counsel.

"Undoubtedly," continued Ross, "if the ground hadn't been so trampled we would have found prints to fit these shoes!

"Jackson thinks he can prove his innocence on the alibi presented by his housekeeper. Her statement that he retired an hour before the tragedy probably was given in good faith . . . but she has overlooked the fact that he might have slipped out the window without her knowledge. She states that Jackson was wearing brown shoes when she last saw him and the ones which Jackson insists he had not worn in a month, from which the professor removed the soil, were black.

"Jackson's explanation of the tear in the right sleeve of the coat he was wearing that evening is patently false. A tear his housekeeper says she did not notice. And . . . that scratch on his face the next morning . . ."

"I tell you I cut myself with the razor," shouted Jackson wildly. "You . . ."

"The wound didn't have that appearance," stated Ross.

Take Time to Give Your Child the Right Start

You'll Be Repaid When He Grows Up.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Do you see those brass railings?" said a friend to me one day as we stood in front of a new building. "They have to be polished all the time, you know. Well, the architect told me it would have been cheaper for the owners in the end if they had had those railings heavily plated with gold, though it would have cost a great deal in the beginning."

For some reason the remark brought to my mind something I overheard one mother say, not long ago, to another, "O, you take so much trouble with your children—you spend so much time on them," and the reply, "Well, I'll guarantee you'll spend more time on yours later on."

Analogies are rather weak things to depned on in order to make a point; as a rule they don't really fit. But somehow, the wise treatment of little children seemed to me in that moment to be much like the gold railings on the beautiful new building, and unwise treatment or neglect like the brass ones.

The mother who is willing to invest heavily of her time, her intelligence, and her responsiveness when her children are little is like the owner who is willing to go to the expense of having gold railings on his building. He prevents tarnish and trouble later on, just as the mother prevents behavior difficulties.

The other mother, who thinks children should just grow, who wants to go about her own affairs, who won't stop in the midst of cooking or reading to smooth things out for a young son or daughter, who won't take the time from sewing or "visiting" to get up and share in the triumph of a sand castle, or a block roadway, or a dolly that's just been tucked in, is going to spend lots more time on them later when her children are older and she finds them fractious and wonders why she can't get close to them.

If you have put in brass railings and are deciding now to put in gold, you may be at a loss to know how to start. If so, our two booklets: "How to Gain Obedience" and "Make Patience Your Handmaiden," will help you. A stamped, self-addressed envelop will bring them to you.

CUBS BEAT PHILS, 9-5, 3-1; CUT GIANTS' LEAD

SOUTH SIDE HAILS IRISH BOXING CHAMPS TONIGHT

Thousands to Dance on Street.

Tonight's Program

TIME—8 p. m.

PLACE—Jackson park baseball diamond near 63d street and Stony Island avenue.

PROGRAM—Presentation of fighters, speeches by Mayor Kelly and other prominent persons, band concert, Irish songs and dances, and a street dance.

ADMISSION—Everything is free, everybody is welcome.

PARADE—Marchers will assemble at Ellis avenue and the Midway, proceed east in the Midway to Stony Island avenue, south in Stony Island to 63d street, thence to the nearby baseball field in Jackson park.

In case of rain the celebration will be postponed until tomorrow evening.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The south side will hold a gigantic festival in Jackson park tonight in honor of the boxing champions of Ireland. Proparations are being made to handle a crowd even greater than the throng of 200,000 which assembled in Garfield park Friday evening when the west side welcomed the fighters.

The Irish boxers are here to meet the Chicagoland team in International Golden Gloves matches Aug. 2 at Soldiers' field.

South side business and fraternal organizations, under the leadership of Patrick W. Barrett, are sponsoring tonight's event, which promises to be one of the most colorful in the history of that section of the city.

In case of rain the celebration will be postponed until tomorrow evening.

Everything Is Free.

Although the west side is the traditional stronghold of Chicago's Irish population, there are thousands of residents of the south side who trace their ancestry to Erin. And there are many who themselves left the Emerald Isle not so long ago to make new homes in America. These people will be eager for a glimpse at the fighters who have arrived so recently from Ireland. The familiar names of the towns from which the boxers hail are veritable rallying calls for the lovally partisan population of the city.

But other nationalities than Irish will be represented at tonight's festival. The south side as a whole will shout its greeting. No lines of nationality will be drawn when the people of this great section of the city extend their hands in greeting to the visitors from across the sea.

The sportsmanship and the hospitality which have characterized the other receptions in honor of the Irish fighters, will be displayed again tonight. People of all nationalities, all occupations, and all classes of society will join a great gesture of international good will. Everybody is welcome and everything is free.

Committee Escorts Team.

From the time the boys arrived at the Union station Thursday morning they have never been given an opportunity to doubt that they are among friends. Tonight's reception may be depended upon to equal or exceed the warmth and enthusiasm of those which preceded it.

A committee headed by Frank B. Reynolds will call for the boxers at 7 o'clock tonight at the Midwest Athletic club, where the boys are living during their visit to Chicago. This committee will escort the fighters to Ellis avenue and the Midway, where a parade will form.

Commander M. J. Kiley will head a guard of honor composed of uniformed Spanish-American war veterans. St. Mary's Training school band and members of the American Legion will fall in line.

Five Bands to Play.

The parade will move along the Midway to Stony Island avenue, south in Stony Island to 63d street, where

IRISH TO ADOPT ALL WORK AND NO PLAY PROGRAM

Realize They Have Huge Task Aug. 2.

BY JERRY CURRAN.

The Irish boxing champions took a day off yesterday from training for their bouts with the Chicago Golden Gloves team on Aug. 2 and rested up. They attended mass at Our Lady of Sorrows church at noon and in the afternoon saw their first baseball game at Mills stadium, where the Mills won two games from the Chicago Firemen.

The exuberance of Chicago's welcome has prevented the Irish boys from getting into serious training so far, but after today the ban will be placed on entertainments and the boys will go to work. They are anxious to begin, but the feeling that they should not be niggardly in answering the demands of the Chicago public for a glimpse of them has prompted their sacrifice of precious hours during these first days.

Not Acclimated Yet.

Probably Chicagoans are unaware of the strain that these huge receptions have placed upon the Irish boys. Not yet accustomed to the Chicago heat and puzzled by the change of food, these public appearances have been a great ordeal for them. And, while they have not complained, it has been evident that they have felt it.

They are therefore anxious to assure Chicago that their retirement from the public view after tonight's reception until the date of the fight is dictated, not by churlishness, but by their anxiety that nothing should be permitted to impair the quality of the performance they are going to give in the Soldiers' field ring.

Take on Too Well.

There certainly is something about these Irish boys that Chicago seems to like. From the diminutive Paddy Connolly, flyweight, to the massive Patrick Mulligan, whom everybody seems to know, they have taken on. In fact, from the point of view of their own interest, they have taken on much too well, for their popularity has made demands on them that have been difficult to fulfill.

They are a great bunch of boys. Of course, they're out to win and they never lose an opportunity of stressing the fact. To have any less intention, as Lord Mayor Byrne of Dublin told them when they left Ireland, would be unworthy of them. But the game is the game to them and if they're beaten they'll be the first to congratulate the winners.

Confident They'll Win.

There is that spirit about them, and perhaps it is this that lies behind the warmth of Chicago's welcome to them. Sure, they're cocky! They couldn't strut about any more if they already had eight victories to their credit. But then, if they didn't think they could win, it wouldn't be worth while seeing them fight.

So they are going to work. From now on it's a question of how much work they can crowd into the days that are left. The Midwest A. C. gym will be resounding to the blows that the sparring partners collect. They are getting limbered up after the stress of their four thousand mile journey. Their muscles are getting loosened out again. They are preparing for the test.

Sarazen Will Compete in U. S. G. A. Golf Tourney

[illegible]ster, N. Y., July 23.—(AP)—G[illegible]arazen, winner of the British and American open golf championships in 1932, said today he would compete in the Professional Golfers association tourney at Milwaukee next month. Sarazen, who returned last week from England, where he took part in the Ryder Cup matches and British open, made his decision following the announcement Saturday that all Ryder Cup players would be exempt from qualifying.

IRISH BOXING CHAMPIONS ATTEND MASS

STATE TENNIS STARTS TODAY WITH 74 ENTRIES

Led by Jack Tidball and Gene Mako of Los Angeles, 74 will open play this afternoon in the men's singles of the Illinois state tennis tournament at the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

The 32 women entered will begin play in the singles Wednesday, with Catherine Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., western champion; Eugene Sampson, Winnetka, and Jackie Ayer, runner-up in 1931, the first three seeded players.

SEVEN NAMED ON WIGHTMAN TENNIS SQUAD

New York, July 23.—(AP)—Seven players, headed by Helen Wills Moody, were selected by the United States Lawn Tennis association today to form the squad from which the Wightman cup team will later be selected to play in the 11th international team match against the English at the West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills, Aug. 4 and 5.

MORELAND HAS 72 IN DRILL FOR AMATEUR MEET

The field, including a few expected late entries, probably will total around 125 for the first 18 holes of the medal play tomorrow.

Keefe Carter, Oklahoma City, and Johnny Lehman, Chicago, other former winners, were on hand. Lehman, who set an all-time qualifying mark of 137 a year ago, had a 73 today.

Boston, Mass., July 23.—[Special.]—The White Sox' long suffering in the east came to an inauspicious end today when they surrendered their five game series intact to the Red Sox with hardly a sign of resistance. They were beaten in a double header, 6 to 2, and 7 to 2.

The fading Ted Lyons failed in the first game when he was routed during a five run foray in the fifth inning. Lyon's 13th defeat of the season, his fourth of the current road trip and his seventh straight as a starting pitcher. The Sox were held in check by Henry Johnson, the third ex-Yankee to beat them during the series. Johnson allowed only seven hits.

Simmons Returns to Form.

Manager Lew Fonseca, with his pitching staff beaten to a frazzle, picked Chad Kimsey, relief hurler, for the second game. The big fellow lost just as artistically as his predeccors, while George Pipgras, another former Yankee curver, came back after two days' rest for his second triumph of the series and his fourth over Chicago this year.

The day's setback made it eight in the last nine starts for the slumping White Sox. They lost three out of four to the Yankees before coming. The record for the trip was nine victories against 12 defeats.

Out of the midst of defeat, however, Al Simmons' fading star broke through in all its old time brilliance. He hit his 11th home run and two singles in the first game and got one hit in the second game. Simmons was even more sensational in the field. He climbed up the 12 foot hill in left center, known as Duffy's Cliff, and made a one-handed stab of drives by Smead Jolley and Seeds in the second game.

Mule Haas also made several sparkling catches. This, and Luke Appling's .500 hitting for the day, were the only pleasant features of the ruefal afternoon.

FIRST GAME

The Red Sox were only giving the drooping White Sox false hope when they allowed them to score a run in the first inning of the first game. With one out Hodapp fumbled Haas' line drive and Haas halted at second on Kress' single to center. Simmons'

BRITONS DEFEAT U. S. TWICE; TAKE CUP SERIES, 4-1

Slapped

As Vines walked from the clubhouse at Roland Garros stadium to a waiting taxicab after his collapse and defeat by Fred Perry in the interzone Davis cup finals, a bystander shouted "deflated" at the tall American. All the bystander got for his pains was a slap on the face from Borotra, on whose shoulder Vines was leaning.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune News Service.]

PARIS, July 23.—For the second time in three years England's Davis cup team eliminated the United States from the interzone finals when it took the two remaining singles matches for a 4 to 1 victory at Roland Garros stadium this afternoon.

The real dramatic climax of the day came after Henry W. [Bunny] Austin already has clinched his match by defeating Wilmer Allison, when Ellsworth Vines, with match point against him, limply folded his long frame and fell unconscious on the court.

Faints at Match Point.

Vines was trailing Frederick J. Perry, 1-6, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5, with the game score 7-6 in the deciding set and the point score 40-15, and obviously was fighting off exhaustion. Suddenly he leaned forward on his racket, then flopped into a stiff spreadeagle on the baseline. Minutes later he was carried from the court, still helpless, and the match was technically lost by default.

The Californian's downfall seemed to start in the fourth set, when, leading and apparently safe, he fell heavily and hurt his right ankle. From then on he covered the court with ever increasing difficulty and was forced to depend upon the speed of his service.

After Vines had revived and a shower had brought him to something like normal the attending physician announced that he had fainted because of a combination of nervous exhaustion and the effects of his earlier fall.

14,000 See Allison Lose.

All of the real business of the day was transacted earlier, when, in the heaviest heat of the early afternoon, the superb science of Austin mastered the sometimes injudicious but always game Allison by the score of 6-2, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4. Close to 14,000 persons watched the bitter struggle.

Allison started weakly, but brought his net attack to a point of brilliance which saved the second set and sent him well on the way to the third. A momentary weakening then hit the Texan, and the rest of the match found Austin playing with such coolness in pinches that he captured the decision.

The Vines-Perry match worked to its spectacular ending in a devious way, starting as a comic opera of errors and slumping, reaching for a moment a high level of tennis in the late middle stages, and then fading to a struggle of sheer nerve as the exhausted Vines resolutely and nopelessly defied the inevitable.

Play Turnabout Game.

In the first set Vines smashed everything with success, while the husky Englishman regarded him as a rabbit eyes a snake. The second frame was exactly opposite, with Vines missing everything and Perry nothing.

The third was a mixture of everything. Vines led at 3-1, Perry at 4-3, and Vines took the set, going out on two aces.

In the fourth Vines went to 3-2, only to fall havily, hurting his ankle. He dropped that game and the next, then hung onto his service, but to no avail.

Courage and service aces took the Californian to 4-3 and later 6-5 in the fifth set, but he had nothing left in the rallies and finally broke down.

HENDRICK HITS HOMER IN TENTH TO WIN OPENER

Malone Victor in 2d Game Duel.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday wound up their long and spectacular home stay with just the kind of a show the 32,000 fans came out to see them put on for the Wrigley field finale. They beat the Phillies in the tenth inning of the first game, 9 to 5, when Gink Hendrick, batting for Bill Jurges, slammed out a homer with the bases full. Then the Chicagoans took the second game, 3 to 1, the aforesaid Jurges scoring the first run following his triple and driving in the other two runs with a double three innings later.

The double victory enabled the Cubs to gain a half game on the New York Giants, whom they now trail by two games. They gained two full games on their foes of tomorrow, the third place Pirates, whom they now top by 3½ games. During the home stay just ended they won 16 out of 19 games, taking two out of three from the Cincinnati Reds, four straight from the New York Giants, three out of four from the Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves, and four straight from the Phillies.

During their home heroics the 1932 champions accomplished a net gain of 7½ games on the leading Giants, 5½ of this total having been picked up from July 4 to July 9.

Bench Warmers Shine.

It was a great day for all the Cubs, but especially so to several bench calloused gentlemen, namely Mr. Hendrick, Lynn Nelson, and Pat Malone.

Hendrick had been in only one inning of one game during the eminent July stand, which made his pinch homer with loaded bases all the more notable. Nelson's fame was gained, unhappily, at the expense of another bench artisan, Burleigh [Sitting Bull] Grimes. The famous old chief came within a putout of scoring his first victory since May 7. He tried valiantly in the rôle of savior for Guy Bush, but after he had two down in the first half of the tenth, he collapsed pitifully, walking three men in a row before he was sent to his tepee. Nelson then went in and fanned Fullis to end the panic.

Malone Scales Heights.

Pat Malone was the other callous victim to scale the heights. Pat has been dreaming of winning a contest ever since shortly after A Century of Progress began, and yesterday he pitched a swell five hit game to score his first victory since he trimmed the Pirates here on June 5. Pat had the especial pleasure of driving home the first run of the encounter.

FIRST GAME

There was plenty of action in the first inning, the Phillies making a run and the Cubs ringing up four.

In the Philly half Fullis and Klein walked after two were out. Then Hurst singled, scoring Fullis and putting Klein on third. Schulmerich ended things with a tap to Bush.

The Cubs' half started with Koenig being safe because Rehm dropped Hurst's toss to first. Bill Herman singled to center, Koenig stopping at second. Cuyler popped to Hurst. Hurst knocked down Babe Herman's single, filling the bases. Demaree singled to left, Koenig scoring. Hartnett singled to center, Bill and Babe Herman scoring and Demaree reaching third. Demaree scored while Warner was throwing out Grimm. Jurges fanned.

Quiet Until Fifth.

Things were rather quiet from the first inning till one was out in the Cub fifth. At this point Bill Herman tripled to right center and scored on Cuyler's single to left.

In the sixth the Phils batted home a run with a double play. Schulmerich opened with a single to left and went to third on Davis' single to right. Warner hit into a double play, Schulmerich scoring. Grimm and Bush retired Rehm.

And now for the detail of the Phillies' score tying uprising in the eighth. Klein started it with his first hit in

TURF'S LEADING LADY FACES BIG JOB SATURDAY

Mata Hari Races Whitney Stars in Futurity.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Mata Hari, the fleet Western two year old which races for Charles Fischer of Detroit, may break up the nicest kind of a Whitney family party in the rich Futurity which winds up the Arlington Park Jockey club's brilliant racing season next Saturday afternoon.

It is a big job for a slip of a girl like Mata Hari to perform, for the Whitneys are not coming into the Futurity with any mediocre representatives. They never do.

Carrying the silks of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable will be the sensational First Minstrel and Earnings, the latter a half brother to the mighty Twenty Grand.

How About Singing Wood?

The jacket of Mrs. J. H. Whitney will be up on Singing Wood, which, after two easily earned victories at Arlington has convinced numerous horsemen that better 2 year olds than this fellow seldom come to the front. Like First Minstrel, Singind Wood is also a son of the imported sire, Royal Minstrel.

Trumpery, Sainted, and two or three others are the Futurity possibilities of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney. So you can see what a Whitney combine Mata Hari is up against. The only help she will have in the race will come from Far Star, another young lady, which has carried on quite well as a running companion of hers all season.

Wright's Horses Ready.

These Whitneyites will not be the only ones trying to spoil the day for Mata Hari. Warren Wright will have a couple of rough and ready colts in the struggle in Hadagal and Count Rae. Willis Sharp Kilmer's sharp running Sun Tempest will be in there, and so will Vicar, from the Bellaire stud, which has been showing sharp improvement lately at Arlington.

Ima Count from California, a son of Reigh Count, and Discovery, an easterner, will also be striving for the prize. The prize is well worth a heart testing effort, for it may total more than $50,000 and will be the second richest 2 year old race of the year in America. Besides all this the colt or filly which wins will have taken a long lead in the chase for the championship.

Works Out Brilliantly.

There isn't any question but that Mata Hari will be at her best in the Futurity. Her sensational work over the Futurity distance of six furlongs a couple of days ago in 1:11 4-5 shows that it is going to take a fast running horse to catch her.

This was one of the most outstanding workouts a 2 year old ever turned in at this time of the year. It was even more remarkable because she was pulled up when it ended. It proved that her youthful trainer, Clyde Van Dusen, is one of the most capable horsemen in the country. He put Mata Hari into training very early in the spring and has brought her up to each of her engagements at the top of her form. To all appearances he has her on a keener edge for the Futurity than for any other start she has made.

Going East in September.

Should she win the Futurity Mata Hari will not stop and rest on her laurels. The Hawthorne Juvenile stakes will be one of her objectives. Then in September she will invade New York for a fling at the $100,000 Belmont Futurity. Before the season ends she may be the most talked about 2 year old filly that has come along in many years.

The Arlington season, which has only six more days to run, has been the finest from a racing standpoint ever conducted there. No high class horse in the country has dodged the issue at Arlington this year. As a result, every stake race has carried a championship angle.

The Futurity will be even more of a championship affair, for it was in the first running of the stake last year that Ladysman, the champion juvenile, was developed. Ladysman hasn't amounted to much this year, but he was great as a 2 year old.

Loughran Out for No. 5 in Chicago Rings

Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight, will be after his fifth victory in as many starts in Chicago when he meets Johnny Risko, Cleveland trial horse, at Mills stadium Wednesday night.

In Loughran's latest appearance here he whipped Izzy Gastanaga, April 21. Before that he beat Tuffy Griffith, March 27, 1931; King Levinsky, Nov. 21, 1930, and Mickey Walker, March 28, 1929. Loughran sucessfully defended his light heavyweight title, which he since has given up, in the bout with Walker.

Risko boxed four rounds yesterday, two each with George Pavlick, who faces Eddie Houghton in the eight round semi-windup at Mills stadium, and Gene Stanton, a heavyweight stablemate. He is scheduled to work the same number of rounds with the same sparring partners this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium.

Loughran went to Kid Howard's gymnasium and did light exercises upon his arrival yesterday. He is to spar several rounds with Houghton today. Tommy expects to use Risko as a stepping stone to return matches with Baer and Jack Sharkey, former champion, with an eventual title contest against Primo Carnera.

Several heavyweight bouts will head the amateur card tonight at the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Art and Marty Cherkasky, brothers, are entered in the welterweight class. Walter Larson will wrestle George Kontalis.

60 Day Season on Waterfowl Recommended

BY BOB BECKER.

A sixty day open season on waterfowl, the same as last year, has been recommended to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, as the length of season which should prevail this fall. The advisory board of the migratory bird treaty commission approved the sixty day season at its recent meeting in Washington when state game officials, conservationists, representatives of various outdoor organizations and others met to discuss various angles of the waterfowl problem.

The department of agriculture has not announced its decision on a sixty day season, but it is reasonable to suppose that waterfowl hunters will have that much time and no more in which to do their hunting this fall.

Duck Situation Improved.

Compared with 1931 when President Hoover proclaimed a 30 day emergency hunting season, the shortest in history, the duck situation in the Canadian provinces is better, according to A. E. Etter and S. H. Clark, game commissioners of Saskatchewan and Alberta. However, there are some lean or very poor duck breeding localities in these provinces. Investigators find breeding conditions in North Dakota spotty, very poor in southeastern Manitoba, southern Saskatchewan, and Alberta.

As a result of the lack of water in many localities there are some heavy duck concentrations in favorable places. One of the conspicuously bright spots is the Que Appelle marsh area, a section which we saw a few years ago when we were in Saskatchewan to hunt canvasbacks.

Against Artificial Feeding.

If there is any phase of the duck hunting business which sportsmen from the central states must consider this year it is that involving the artificial feeding of the birds. This was the handwriting which appeared on the wall at the recent Washington meeting.

Sentiment was so strong on the board against the artificial feeding of waterfowl and the placing of blinds and shooters near or over the feeding spots that nothing short of a miracle will prevent drastic action against these practices in another year, unless sportsmen in the states where considerable feeding is done come forward with a solution of the problem.

Action against the feeding of ducks during the shooting season will be felt keenly in Illinois where natural foods are not abundant enough in sloughs, marshes and bayous to hold the fall migration long enough to enjoy good shooting. Illinois perhaps is the logical state to originate a solution of this problem.

OLD JACK QUINN HURLS SANDLOT GAME; GIVES UP

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—(AP)—Pitching for the American boy team in the Detroit sandlot league, old Jack Quinn, of major league fame, wasn't worried nearly so much by the opposition today as he was by the heat. He gave up after six innings.

The rival team, the Skrzyckis, had found him for only two runs, then went on to win handily, 6 to 2. Two younger players had collapsed from the heat when Quinn quit the mound.

The veteran pitcher, for many years a major league fixture, was released only a few days ago by the Cincinnati Reds.

JORDAN BEATS VIEROW FOR FEE GOLF CROWN

Bill Jordan of Northbrook won the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association championship by defeating Frank Vierow of Harlem, 5 and 4, yesterday at Northbrook in the 36 hole final round of a tournament which attracted 2,500 entries. Each of the 28 courses of the association had selected its best player in a series of eliminations and these 28 shot it out for the title.

Jordan was three down to Vierow at the end of the first nine holes of the morning round, but a remarkable 33, four strokes under par, on the incoming nine, carried him to two up. He protected his advantage throughout the afternoon play and ended the match at the 14th hole by shooting an eagle 3. Although this is a 500 yard hole, he was on the green in two, with a three foot putt for his eagle.

Jordan made another eagle on the 380 yard sixteenth by sinking an 80 yard approach for a 2. He made six birdies and was over par on four holes. Par for the course is 35—37—72. The cards follow:

IT'S FIGHT FROM NOW ON, EDICT TO GOLDEN GLOVERS

150 Open Battle for 8 Places on Irish Card.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Beach, Mich., July 23.—Chicago's Golden Gloves squad went into a secret huddle this morning. With Coaches Johnny Behr and Jabber Young the boys held an informal meeting on the lake side of the hotel, mapping out training plans for this week which will prepare them for the International bouts against Ireland at Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 2.

"Our preliminary work is done, Coach Behr said. "You've had a great amount of leisure time which you have enjoyed to the utmost. Your workouts have been splendid and your conduct worthy of the standard expected of Golden Glovers. However, there are 15 boxers here in camp. Only eight can fight against the Irish champions. Your daily work in the ring this week and your physical condition will determine the selections.'

Get First Ring Tests.

These words cannot be emphasized too strongly. Each champion must defend his position this week. The first test came this afternoon before a capacity throng in the gymnasium on the lake front. Hundreds, many of them friends and relatives of the Golden Glovers, watched the drill and hundreds more were turned away One group had come from Cleveland, O., to see Johnny Dobler, Cleveland's lightweight champion.

The boys paired off in their weight classes for one round of three minutes in the ring. They put in additional minutes on the floor with their ropes and at the sandbags and punching bag.

Flyweight — Lennie Cohen and Johnny Baltzer.

Lightweight — Eddie Ward and Johnny Dobler.

Welterweight — Billy Celebron and Henry Rothier.

Middleweight — Freddie Caserio and Bill Treest.

John Pacek, heavyweight, went one two minute round with Max Marek, 175 pound champion, and followed with another two minute round with Ario Soldati, light heavyweight.

The boys attended church this morning across the ravine from the hotel.

GIANTS' 7 RUNS IN NINTH BEAT DODGERS, 8 TO 5

New York Hammers Beck, Shaute from Mound.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 23.—(AP)—The New York Giants pulled away from the edge of defeat today, scoring seven runs in the ninth inning to beat the Dodgers, 8 to 5.

Up to the ninth, Walter Beck, who pitched for the Dodgers, had things much his own way. He carried a 5 to 1 lead into the final inning after Brooklyn had knocked Freddy Fitzsimmons off the mound in the seventh. Two singles and a pass in the ninth began the downfall of the Dodgers. Joe Shaute was sent in to relieve Beck. Shaute's presence seemed to stir the Giants up even more and finally Hollis Thurston went in to stem the attack. Johnny Vergez, Giants' third baseman, welcomed him by hitting a double out to left field, clearing the bases.

The game between the Giants and the Dodgers scheduled for Tuesday will be set back for a double header on Aug. 6. Scores:

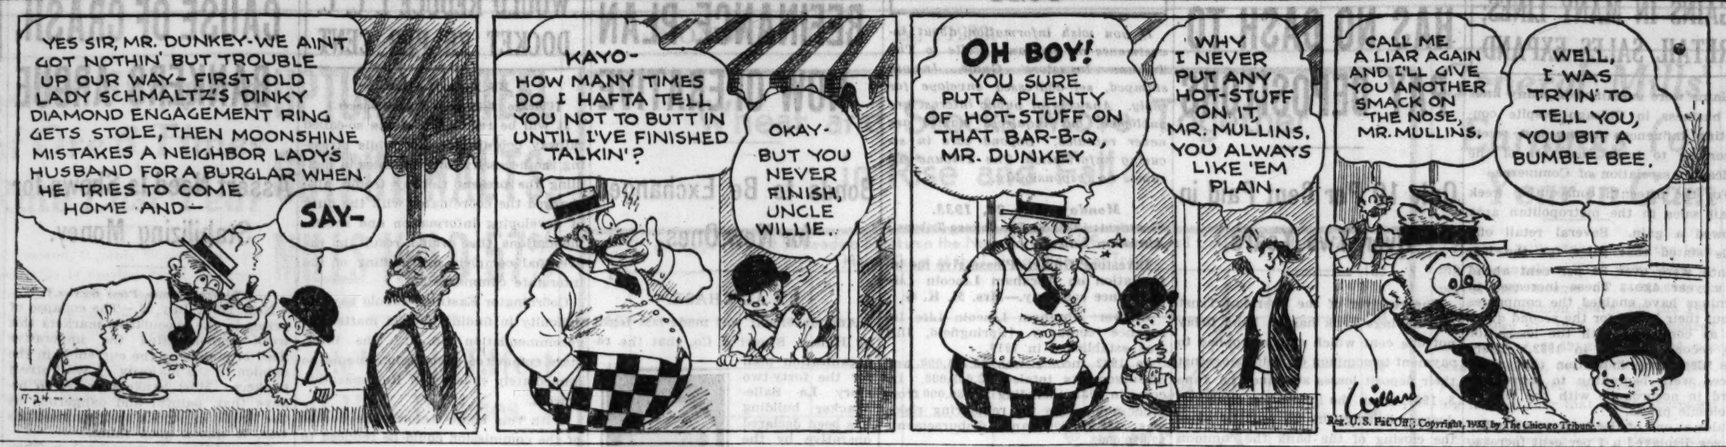
MOON MULLINS—STUNG AGAIN!



YANKEES WHIP INDIANS TWICE TO REGAIN LEAD

New York, July 23.—(AP)—The Yankees regained the American league lead today by defeating the Cleveland Indians by an 8 to 1 score in each game of a double header while Washington dropped a single game to Detroit.

The Yanks celebrated the 300th and 301th consecutive games in which they have avoided being shut out. The last blanking they received was back in August, 1931.

Johnny Allen and Danny Macfayden limited the Indians to 13 hits in the two games, while Lou Gehrig helped win the first by hitting his 19th homer of the season. The homer came with two on base in the fifth inning and contributed to a six run rally that drove Wes Ferrell to cover and decided the game. Scores:

TIGERS, 12; SENATORS, 8.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers went on a slugging rampage in the eighth inning today and scored nine runs, more than enough to drop the Washington Senators into second place of the American league. The Tigers won, 12 to 8.

The Senators went into the eighth inning with the score 6 to 2 in their favor. Then the uprising started, the Tigers driving Thomas off the mound and pounding his successors. Fourteen Tigers batted in that inning, getting nine hits, including two doubles. Scores:

Lenore Kight Wins No. 4 in National Swim

New York, July 23.—(AP)—Lenore Kight, sturdy little swimmer from Homestead, Pa., today won the 880 yard race for her fourth title in the National A. A. U. meet at Jones Beach.

Although not equalling Helene Madison's recognized world's mark of 11:41 1-5, the 20 year old Pennsylvanian's performance was as convincing as any triumph ever turned in by the Seattle star, whom Miss Kight succeeds as queen of American girl swimmers. Miss Kight's time was 11:44 3-5. She finished 40 yards in front of her nearest rival, Susan Robertson of the Women's Swimming association of New York.

Miss Rawls Beaten.

Miss Kight's victory assured the Carnegie Library club of Homestead the team championship with 30 points. It overshadowed the dethroning of 15 year old Katherine Rawls of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the 220 yard breast stroke by Margaret Hoffman, Bryn Mawr college girl of Scranton, Pa., and the winning of the high dive by the Olympic champion, Dorothy Poynton of Los Angeles A. C.

Like Miss Kight's victories in the 100 meter, the 440 yard, and the mile there was not much to the half mile in the way of competition. The Homestead brunette opened up an early lead and through the 16 laps steadily increased the margin. Miss Robertson was easily best of the others, beating Irene Pirie, Canada's all around champion, by 20 yards.

Sensational Finish.

The breast stroke was a sensational affair from the time the four girls pushed away from the starting float until Miss Hoffman, champion in 1930, reached the judges with only a finger's length separating her from Anne Govednik of Chisholm, Minn. Miss Rawls was inches back in third place.

Miss Hoffman swam the distance in 3:14 3-5, one second slower than the world's record established by Miss Rawls at Bronx Beach in 1931.

Dorothy Poynton, 18 year old west coast blonde beauty, outclassed her rivals in the eight dives off the five and eight meter boards. She rolled up a total of 85.79 points. Frances Meany Scofield of the Women's Swimming association of New York, was second with 79.61.

New York Team Second.

With Miss Kight winning four tities and anchoring her team in record smashing relay performance, the Carnegie Library club won the team championship by four points from the Women's Swimming association, which scored 26 points. The Los Angeles Athletic club and Miss Rawls, competing unattached, tied for third with 11 points.

two days, a single to center, and moved to third while Jurges was throwing out Hurst. Schulmerich singled to center, scoring Klein. Davis' bouncer popped between Koenig's heels, putting Schulmerich on second. Todd ran for Davis. McCurdy batted for Warner and walked, filling the bases. Then Dugas batted for Rehm and singled to center, scoring Schulmerich and Todd with the tying runs. Grimes relieved Bush. McLeod lined to Cuyler and Bartell lined to Bill Herman.

Grimes Weakens in Tenth.

The effects of Grimes' long stretch on the bench showed up after two were out in the tenth. After Todd had filed to Babe Herman and Knothe had fanned, Grimes walked Collins, McLeod and Bartell. Nelson relieved the weakened Grimes and threw three strikes past Fullis.

Babe Herman bounced to McLeod to start the Cub tenth. Then Collins walked Demaree. On a perfect execution of the hit and run play, Hartnett rammed a single through the normal second base position, putting Demaree on third. Grimm was given his second successive intentional pass, filling the bases. Hendrick then came up and socked his homer high into the right field stands.

SECOND GAME

Except for Bartell's single with one down in the first inning, Malone did not allow a Philly to reach base in the first three innings. Hansen also got off to a good start, retiring the first six men to face him and fanning Cuyler to end the first inning and Hartnett to end the second.

With one down in the third, however, Jurges got the first Cub hit, a triple to left center, and scored on Malone's long fly to Fullis.

Fill Bases But Fail to Score.

The Chicagoans filled the bases to no purpose in their end of the fourth. Bill Herman walked and stopped at second on Cuyler's single to right. Babe Herman was called out on strikes and Demaree flied to Fullis. Bill Herman and Cuyler pulled a double steal. Then Hartnett walked, filling the bases, but Grimm grounded out to Warner.

With two out in the fifth English doubled past Klein and went to third while McLeod was fumbling Bill Herman's grounder.

EOPEN GRAIN FUTURES TODAY; PRICE LIMIT ON Board of Trade Officials Leave to Meet Wallace.

The foregoing figures apply to Chicago. Exchanges in other cities are expected to follow the Chicago Board of Trade's lead in setting the Thursday closing prices as the absolute minimum in each case.

See Influence on Cash Price.

Inasmuch as these restrictions are imposed by the grain exchanges, they have no binding application to the farmer's sales of cash grain from the farm, but the Board of Trade officials are convinced that there will be a decided indirect influence, inasmuch as the millers and processors of grain who buy direct from the farmer hedge in the futures markets and the prices for grain futures are the chief guide in determining the worth of cash wheat at the country elevators.

The influence on the price of grain to the farmer, therefore, will be psychological, the board officials believe.

The farmer may, however, sell his grain to millers at any price that the latter choose to pay. But if there are no buyers of futures the millers won't be able to hedge. That might react to the disadvantage of the farmer. In that case, it is believed that the Board of Trade would probably lower its minimum, perhaps 5 cents at a time, if necessary, until a free trade is resumed. Both the exchange experts and Secretary Wallace, however, are understood to believe that the price of grains can be successfully pegged at Thursday's closing prices or better.

How Plan Will Operate.

Take September wheat, for example, which on Thursday closed at 92 cents a bushel. Under the 8 cent limit on fluctuations the market could go to $1.00 today, and tomorrow it could go as high as $1.08, or it could recede 8 cents. Suppose the close tomorrow on September wheat should be $1.04. On Wednesday, then, the price could go to $1.12 or could drop to 96 cents.

Under no circumstances, however, would the price be allowed to drop below 92 cents, either today or on any succeeding day, until the order is rescinded. When the 92 cent minimum is reached the 8 cent daily fluctuation permission ceases to be good, so far as any downward movement is concerned.

Rumors About Speculators.

Meanwhile, yesterday the grain trade was seething with talk about big speculators, whose misfortunes, according to Secretary Wallace, had forced into the market the liquidation which was pushing grain prices to surprisingly low levels last week.

The anonymous individual mentioned by Secretary Wallace as holding 13,000,000 bushels of corn was rumored to be Edward A. Crawford, a southerner who went to New York a few years ago and recently attracted a lot of attention when he was reported to have accumulated immense holdings of rye and cotton.

Representatives of several commission houses were reported to be looking for Mr. Crawford yesterday and unable to find him. About a week ago he was in Chicago looking over the situation at the Board of Trade.

Report Big Stock Holdings.

Crawford has only recently joined the ranks of those whose names are spoken with bated breath by small fry traders. According to persistent reports, he is supposed to have been even more heavily interested in stocks than in grain.

The other well known big operators are generally believed to have got out of the market without getting badly singed. E. L. Cord, according to pit gossip, had sold out his entire line days before the crash. Arthur Cutten and Thomas Howell were supposed to have been getting out of the market for some time, completing the job in the first half of last week.

The Du Ponts were reported weeks ago to be heavily interested in wheat, having taken the trouble to send field men through the grain producing areas and having based their purchases on the advice of these agents.

Resume in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, July 23.—(AP)—Business in the Minneapolis grain exchange will be resumed Monday morning under a set of regulations adopted at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce today.

Hours of trading were shortened and prescribed limits on price fluctuations were fixed by the directors. In general, the limitations conformed with those adopted by the directors of the Chicago Board of Trade to govern futures trading.

Principal among the limitations set in the resolutions was on prohibiting trading at prices below those of the close of business Thursday, which was the start of the two day holiday.

Will Reopen in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., July 23.—(AP)—Under restrictions determined upon by its directors at a special meeting here today, the Kansas City board of trade will reopen for trading tomorrow after being closed since last Thursday. Under the regulations, trading below a minimum fixed price will be prohibited in wheat and corn futures.

The board of trade directors set the following minimum prices: Wheat, July, 85 cents; September, 85½ cents; December, 87 cents; May, 89 cents. Corn, July, 45 cents; September, 44¾ cents; December, 47¾ cents; May, 55 cents.

Limit Cottonseed Sales.

Memphis, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—Directors of the Memphis Merchants' Exchange Clearing association announced tonight that with resumption of business tomorrow no futures sales of cottonseed or cottonseed meal would be permitted at quotations lower than Friday's close, and that fluctuations of any one day would be confined to $1.65 a ton. September cottonseed closed at $24.50 a ton bid Friday and July cottonseed meal at $30 a ton.

CHICAGO TRADE HOLDS GAINS IN MANY LINES; RETAIL SALES EXPAND

Gains were sustained in many lines of business in Chicago despite conflicting influences during last week, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

For the fifteenth consecutive week retail sales in the metropolitan area showed a gain. Several retail officials stated that sales for the last month were over 34 per cent ahead of a year ago. These increases in earnings have enabled the companies to cut their losses for the second quarter as compared with the losses for the second quarter in 1932. There was also some indication that retail prices were beginning to move forward in accordance with the rise of wholesale prices.

Sales at one of the larger mail order houses displayed a 1 per cent increase during the last four weeks as compared with the same period in 1932. This was the first time sales have shown an increase since February, 1930. Increase in buying at wholesale was less uniform than in former weeks.

As an indication of the widespread improvement in local business, one large manufacturing company raised salaries 10 per cent and is employing 36 per cent more workers than last year. One automotive equipment company announced a 5 per cent increase in salaries. One manufacturer of dresses boosted wages 20 per cent.

While a lessening in demand from the automotive industry sent the percentage of steel operations slightly downward, car loadings continued to expand, and national output of electric power soared to 16.4 per cent over that for the same week a year ago.

GOLD NATIONS UNITE IN DEFENSE OF CURRENCIES

BASEL, Switzerland, July 23.—(AP)—Battle lines against speculation in defense of gold currencies were drawn tighter today by governors of the central banks of the gold bloc countries in a meeting preliminary to the monthly session of the Bank for International Settlements tomorrow.

Representatives of European central banks were understood to have agreed that the world economic conference had shown that the future of the gold standard depends upon the economic measures governments take in defense of their money.

The gold bloc discussed a mutual assistance plan, broached at a meeting in Paris early in July, without revealing its further strategy. It was unofficially announced that the banks were already working closely with the Bank for International Settlements as suggested by a subcommittee of the world economic conference in a gold policy report July 20.

Frank Fehr Brewing Co. Speeds Up Production

Frank Fehr Brewing company is now producing at the rate of about 450,000 barrels a year, making it one of the ten largest operating breweries in the country, Frank Fehr, president, said yesterday. The firm now has 200 employés and is adding more daily. The company's new brew house, the only entirely new one built by any brewing company since legalization of beer, has just been completed.

SHERIDAN TRUST HAS NO CASH TO PAY DEPOSITORS

Only 10 Per Cent Paid in Over Two Years.

The receiver of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank has on hand today not one cent which can be applied to payment to common depositors against their deposit losses sustained on June 8, 1931, when the institution closed its doors. During the 25 months since the closing of the bank the common depositors have received one payment of $376,990, or 10 per cent of their aggregate claims.

These are the facts disclosed from records of the financial condition of the bank as made public by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. The receiver, William L. O'Connell, took over the affairs of the bank less than a fortnight ago from E. Ridgeway, appointee of former Auditor Oscar Nelson. Receiver Ridgeway had been in control of the bank since it ceased to do business.

At the present time, the bank's books show, creditors, of whom the common depositors amount to 90 per cent, still are owed a total of $3,808,777.

Assets Show Shrinkage.

To pay these claims the receiver has on hand resources appraised at a book value of $4,750,562. The most optimistic reports indicate that these resources do not represent a cash value of more than 40 per cent of their book value.

Since June, 1931, an aggregate of $2,560,508 has been paid out by the receiver. Of this amount $557,719 constituted preferred claims. Another $1,625,799 was in secured claims and borrowed money for which stocks and mortgages had been put up as collateral. Since that time administrative costs have totaled $247,821. Of that amount $14,375 was salary to Receiver Ridgeway, and $98,035 to his attorneys, the law firm of Brundage, Landon & Holt.

The receiver in liquidating assets of the bank to pay off the preferred and secured claims, aggregated receipts of $3,183,581. The loss from the full value of assets during this liquidation amounted to $371,786, or approximately 10 per cent.

See Best Assets Sold.

Observers of the bank reports said yesterday that this was an extremely low loss. They added that it indicated only the cream of the securities held in the bank were disposed of in this manner. The loss factor for the liquidation of the remainder of the bank's resources, they added, probably will run extremely high.

When these facts were called to the attention of State Auditor Barrett he announced that the books of the institution are now being subjected to closest scrutiny by his auditors. Any evidence of mismanagement will be carefully investigated with a view to bringing charges against those responsible.

The auditor added that Receiver O'Connell will make every effort to liquidate the remaining assets and meet the claims of the depositors.

Abraham Lincoln Life.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company.—Mrs. M. K. G.

Answer: Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company [Springfield, Ill.] was established in 1919.

In 1932 income was $3,754,000 and disbursements totaled $3,608,000. Income in 1931, including $8,780,000 from other companies for reinsuring risks, was $12,357,000 and disbursements $2,920,000.

Insurance in force at the close of 1932 totaled $77,059,000, against $86,312,000 on Dec. 31, 1931, and $28,353,000 on Dec. 31, 1930. The large increase in 1931 reflects $65,055,000 reinsurance.

Admitted assets amounted to $13,254,000. Real estate, 12 per cent of assets, increased to $1,625,000 from $1,547,000 the year before. Mortgage loans, 47 per cent of assets, totaled $6,165,000; policy loans and pemium notes, 16 per cent, were $2,109,000; bonds [market prices] were 15 per cent of assets and totaled $1,965,000; stocks [market price], were 2 per cent of assets and totaled $323,000; and cash, 2 per cent of assets, was $289,000.

Home office building is carried at $225,000. The company owns $319,000 of Abraham Lincoln Hotel company preferred.

The company earned 4.1 per cent on its assets in 1932, against 4.5 per cent in 1931 and 4.1 per cent in 1930.

Morris & Co.

Investors' Guide: Any information regarding Morris & Co. 4½s, due 1939, will be appreciated.—Miss A. M.

Answer: These bonds are the obligation of Morris & Co. and have been assumed by North American Provision company. Neither of these organizations issues individual statements, as results are consolidated with the holding company, Armour & Co. [Ill.].

Armour for the last three years has been the victim of falling meat prices. Volume of sales has held up relatively well, but inventory losses resulted in deficits. Reflecting an upturn in meat prices, net income for the seven months to June 3, 1933, was $5,618,000. This compared with loss of $2,526,000 for the year ended Oct. 31, 1932.

Smaller inventory requirements, as a result of reduced prices, freed considerable capital, which was used to repurchase fixed obligations at substantial discounts. Total funded debt during the 1932 year dropped to $96,251,000 from $118,433,000. This has not only increased the equity behind outstanding obligations, but has resulted in a substantial saving, both in capital and interest, for the company.

The bonds are regarded as a business man's investment.

NORTHERN INDIANA PUBLIC SERVICE.

Northern Indiana Public Service company reported for the first five months of this year net deficit of $115,002, after all charges, taxes, and preferred stock dividend requirements. This compares with a balance of $447,028 for the corresponding 1932 period.

Announcement was made last night by Halsey, Stuart & Co. that the reorganization plan for the forty-two story La Salle-Wacker building has been declared operative by the committee representing the first mortgage bonds against the property.

According to the plan each $1,000 series A bond will be exchanged for a $500 first [closed] mortgage bond, due Aug. 1, 1957, and $600 in gold debentures due Aug. 1, 1962. Neither issue, at the outset, will bear interest at a fixed rate, but will receive a rate of return consistent with the earnings of the property, it was stated.

"The plan has received an exceptionally favorable reception," the committee announcement states. "Since the promulgation of the plan on Jan. 14 of this year only eighteen out of the 4,400 holders of certificates of deposit have dissented from the plan, while, as an offset, there have been deposited 75 per cent more bonds than those represented by the dissenters. Over 90 per cent of the series A bonds are now deposited under the plan."

There have been several changes in the personnel of the bondholders' protective committee since it was formed. At one time Sidney Maestre of St. Louis and Haddon McLean were members. They resigned. Albert H. Wetten and A. Watson Armour became members. They resigned. Henry E. Miller once was a member.

According to yesterday's announcement the committee is now composed of William Roy Carney, president of the Carney Coal company; Francis E. Manierre of Dibblee & Manierre, managers of the building; James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago Board of Education, and Charles F. Clarke, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co.

The original issue of $6,500,000 first mortgage bonds was underwritten by Halsey, Stuart & Co., and the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

ABOLISHING ONE RULE WOULD REDUCE I. C. C. DOCKET 75 PER CENT

BY H. A. LAIRD.

[Chicago Tribune Traffic Manager.]

It will be recalled that the so-called railway coördinator bill, while stressing the necessity for economies in handling the present railway traffic, also charged the coördinator with the duty of developing information and recommendations that would result in the eventual complete overhauling of the interstate commerce act.

Coördinator Eastman should have no difficulty in finding subject matter for recommendation No. 1. The interstate commerce commission should be immediately relieved of its reparation powers.

With this single reform the docket of the commission could be reduced to 25 per cent of its present volume, because 75 per cent of the formal cases filed with it primarily involve reparation.

It could also destroy the method of searching freight bills for technical violations of the act that has developed into a racket in many cases to bedevil the harassed railways—and the commission, for that matter.

U. S. ORDER ENDS SELLING OF OLD HATS FOR NEW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, July 23.—Cease and desist orders directed against the practice of selling made over hats as if they were new ones have been issued to nine companies in New York by the federal trade commission, it was announced today.

In its ruling the commission declared that selling as new hats men's old, worn, used, and discarded fur felt hats which have been cleaned and fitted with new ribbons, sweat bands, and linings is prohibited, unless there is stamped or attached to each hat in a conspicuous place words clearly indicating that it has been cleaned and renovated.

Men's second hand felt hats have been manufactured and sold in the United States for more than twenty years, the commission reported as a result of its investigation, but it has been only during the last six or seven years that their sale has had any substantial effect on the hat industry as a whole. Prior to that time the made over hats were principally sold in second hand stores, and many of them were exported to foreign countries. It was not until an improved method of cleaning the old hat bodies was perfected that it has been possible to remake and refinish the old hats so that they are an important factor in competition with new goods.

SINKING DOLLAR CAUSE OF CRASH, BANKERS ARGUE

Assert Need Is Shown for Stabilizing Money.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23.—The collapse of prices in the speculative markets this week demonstrated the imperative need of stablizing the currency, in the opinion of the majority of Wall street bankers. Most bankers prefer to believe that, painful and dangerous as the break in stocks and commodities was, it was a good thing.

Some of them go even further. They assert that the reaction, coming at this time, saved the country from a possibly disastrous crash later on. While feeling that the fall in stock prices will undoubtedly have a dampening effect upon public confidence and tend to slow down the business recovery, bankers do not think it will permanently impair the recovery. They base this opinion on the belief that there is a genuine basis for recovery, quite apart from the stimulus of currency depreciation.

Blame Cheapening Dollar.

Under the spur of a cheapening dollar, they contend, speculation got out of hand. This danger, the bankers say, is typical of what may be expected when the currency is unstable. The prolonged fall in the dollar had encouraged a movement into speculative markets and given rise to the fallacious belief that so long as the dollar declined the rise of prices would go on indefinitely. It has now been proved once more, bankers assert, that economic laws cannot be suspended.

The majority of bankers is said to have no fear that the present market break will turn into a repetition of the 1929 disaster. The reason for this is that at the present time there is a genuine basis for recovery in business, whereas in 1929 business was definitely deteriorating. The need of the moment, the bankers feel, is measures to guard against a renewed outbreak of unwholesome speculation. This calls for steps to steady the dollar in foreign exchange, many believe.

See Speculation Encouraged.

Bankers reason that so long as the dollar is subject to wild plunges in the foreign exchange market there will be a strong impulse for people to seek to protect themselves against losses by a capital flight into stocks. If the element of uncertainty over the value of the dollar were removed, the bankers argue, the speculative markets would have to be guided by the actual improvement in business.

This does not mean, of course, the bankers say, that speculative excesses would not still occur. Recovery in the stock and commodity markets always goes in a staggered line, composed of alternative advances, carried too far, and reactions to correct the excess. But it does mean, the bankers declare, that the most dangerous spur to speculative excesses would have been curbed.

Fixed Level Not Sought.

Measures designed to steady the dollar in foreign exchange need not be at variance with President Roosevelt's declared policies, in the view of bankers. It would not be necessary, they contend, for the government to commit itself to a specific level. All that would be needed would be for the proper authorities to operate in the foreign exchange market so as to obviate the more violent and disturbing gyrations. If desired, measures might be instituted for a gradual rise or fall in the exchange value of the monetary unit.

It would be necessary, however, to permit the export of gold if management of the currency in the foreign exchange market were contemplated, according to this view. The management would have to have at its disposal a store of foreign currencies with which to operate. Such a fund could only be secured in two ways—either by the export of gold to create foreign exchange or by the sale of dollars in the foreign exchange market in exchange for foreign currencies.

COMMODITY PRICES SLUMP IN LAST WEEK; STILL FAR OVER 1932

Led by grains, commodity prices slumped sharply during the last week. The break of 23 cents in July wheat and more in the more distant futures, caused repercussions in other grains, cotton and lard. Other commodity markets for the most part were less affected.

Despite the break, every one of the major commodities closed the week higher in price than it was a year ago. Prices with comparisons follow:

THE AMERICAN ROLLING MILL CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO

To the Holders of the July 21, 1933

Three-Year 4½% Gold Notes of

THE AMERICAN ROLLING MILL COMPANY:

The 4½% Gold Notes of the Company held by you which aggregate $13,992,000 in principal amount mature November 1, 1933. The failure to pay or refund these Notes would constitute a default which would permit the whole $23,500,000 face amount of 5% Sinking Fund Gold Debentures of the Company, which are not due until 1948, to be declared immediately due and payable. This, as you can readily see, would be injurious to your interests.

Due to general business and financial conditions which have existed for some time your 4½% Notes cannot be refunded in the usual manner and neither can the Company pay this issue on maturity.

After much thought the following Plan has been prepared:

PLAN

Upon consummation of the Plan the Company will exchange, for presently outstanding Notes, new Notes, of the same principal amount, maturing November 1, 1938, bearing interest at the rate of 5% per annum, principal and interest to be payable in dollars of the United States of America. The new Notes will be dated as of November 1, 1933, or in the event that the Plan shall be declared operative prior to that date, then as of the date upon which the Plan is declared operative. In either event interest will accrue from November 1, 1933. The new Notes will be deliverable a reasonable time after the date on which the Plan is declared operative. Such new Notes are to be redeemable by lot in whole or in part at the option of the Company on thirty days' notice at the current redemption rate, plus accrued interest to the date of redemption; any partial redemption to be of not less than $1,000,000 principal amount at any one time. Such current redemption rates will be 103% to and including November 1, 1934 and will be reduced by ½% for each twelve months thereafter. The new Notes will have a conversion privilege beginning immediately upon their issuance and terminating on May 1, 1938, or, in respect of Notes called for redemption, on the date fixed for such redemption, entitling the holders to convert the same into common stock of the Company at the rate of forty shares of common stock for each $1,000 principal amount of new Notes, i. e., $25 per share (the par value). The Notes will be issued under a new Indenture to a bank or trust company located in New York City, as Trustee, which will contain provisions intended to protect the conversion rights in certain contingencies, and will provide in lieu of the dividend restrictions in the present 4½% Note Indenture that while any new Notes are outstanding cash dividends will not be paid on the common stock except out of earnings subsequent to July 1, 1933. The new Notes and Indenture will contain provisions substantially similar to the provisions of the present Notes and Indenture, with such modifications or changes as may be appropriate to give effect to the above features.

To participate in the Plan, the holders of the Three-Year 4½% Gold Notes must deposit their Notes with Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York City, New York; or The Central Trust Company, 4th and Vine Streets, Cincinnati, Ohio; or Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, Fourth Avenue and Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; or Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, 231 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois (or such other Banks or Trust Companies as may be designated in accordance with the Deposit Agreement), which will act as Agents or Sub-Agents for the Company in the receipt of deposits and the custody of the deposited Notes under the terms of a Deposit Agreement dated July 21, 1933. All deposited Notes should be accompanied by coupons maturing November 1, 1933, which coupons will be paid at the time of the deposit of such Notes.

The Company will, by its Agents under the Deposit Agreement, issue transferable receipts for the deposited Notes. The Company, by its Agents authorized to act thereunder, will hold the deposited Notes as custodian for the depositors but under and subject to the provisions of the Deposit Agreement and will in no event take title thereto until the delivery to the Agents of the new Notes to be exchanged for the deposited Notes.

The Company (which may act by its board of directors or executive committee) expressly reserves the right to declare at any time on and after August 21, 1933, that sufficient of the outstanding Notes have been deposited to carry out the Plan, and declare the Plan operative, and the further right to terminate the right of any noteholders thereafter to deposit their Notes under the Plan or Deposit Agreement, in which latter event noteholders who have not deposited under said Plan and Agreement will not be entitled to participate therein, or to receive new Notes bearing the conversion privilege, or to receive their November 1st interest payment until the maturity of the November 1st coupons.

The Company also reserves the right to abandon the Plan and to terminate the Deposit Agreement at any time after August 21, 1933, if in the judgment of its board or executive committee a sufficient number of Notes have not been or will not be deposited to enable the Plan to be carried out.

All expenses in connection with the Plan will be paid by the Company and if the Plan should not be carried out depositors may obtain the return of their deposited Notes, upon surrender of their Deposit Receipts, without any expense to them upon the announcement of the abandonment of the Plan which in any event shall not be later than May 1, 1934 unless the Plan shall have been declared operative prior to such date.

The Plan will not be declared operative without securing such authorizations of the stockholders of the Company as may be required by law including an increase in the authorized common capital stock of the Company.

The Company shall have the sole right to determine any questions of interpretation arising under the Plan or Deposit Agreement. The Plan as herein stated constitutes part of the Agreement, but in case of conflict the provisions of the Agreement will control.

END OF PLAN

There are attached hereto copies of a consolidated balance sheet of the Company and subsidiary companies as of December 31, 1932, and consolidated income account and consolidated surplus accounts for the year 1932, all as audited by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants, and which were previously mailed to stockholders as part of the annual report. This balance sheet and the income and surplus accounts do not, of course, reflect the result of operations from January 1, 1933, to date. Since December 31, 1932 the Company has reduced the amount of $1,417,198.04 appearing on the balance sheet as representing 39,323 8/20th shares of common capital stock of the Company held in its treasury by reducing the figure at which such stock was carried upon its books from the approximate book value as of December 31, 1932 to the par value thereof, resulting in a charge to surplus of $444,113.04. Since July 1, 1933 the Company has sold, upon the exercise of options granted by it, 18,535 shares of such treasury stock, and by direct sale an additional 10,765 shares, for which it has received payment. The average price of the stock so sold is slightly in excess of $25. per share. It has also sold an additional 10,000 shares at a price of $25.75 per share for which it has taken a promissory note payable August 19, 1933, secured by such 10,000 shares. No options by the Company are now outstanding. Employees' accounts receivable, etc., shown on this statement at $1,276,049.38 have been reduced by payments of more than $175,000. 220 shares of the 6% cumulative preferred stock (old issue) have been acquired at a total cost of approximately $23,945.00.

The consolidated net loss for the first quarter of 1933, as shown on the quarterly statement of the Company, amounted to $966,593.89. Such loss for April, 1933, amounted to $218,467.68. For the first month since May, 1931, the month of May, 1933, showed a small profit and since that time profits have been steadily increasing, the estimated profits for June being more than sufficient to offset the loss in April. Within the last few months the increased business of the Company has resulted in a substantial increase of both accounts payable and accounts receivable.

The business of the Company has recently shown substantial improvement and its plants are now running at approximately 78% of their capacity. There are substantial orders on hand and the prospects for future business are excellent.

The Company is not paying any commissions or other remuneration to any bankers or dealers to solicit deposits, but is relying upon the fairness of the Plan to secure your hearty cooperation. The holders of a substantial amount of the Notes now outstanding have been informally approached and have indicated their intention to deposit their Notes under the Plan.

It is expected that application will be made to list the new Notes on the New York Stock Exchange.

A meeting of stockholders has been called for August 21, 1933. As it is expected that the stockholders will give the necessary authorizations, the present offer is being now made, in the interest of saving time.

The directors and officers of the Company urge you in your own personal interests as well as those of the Company to deposit your Notes immediately in order that there may be prompt assurance that the Plan can be carried out and the Company put in position to avoid the prematuring of the $23,500,000 5% Debentures, which in ordinary course are not due until 1948.

Enclosed is a transmittal form which we suggest you use in connection with the prompt deposit of your Notes.

Very truly yours,
GEO. M. VERITY, Chairman.

The above is a letter from The American Rolling Mill Company to all holders of its Three Year 4½% Gold Notes. It is being mailed to the known holders of such notes and published for the benefit of all holders including those whose names and addresses are not known to the Company. The balance sheet, income account and surplus account, and the transmittal form accompanying said letter, are omitted from this advertisement but may be obtained from the Company at its office at Middletown, Ohio, or from the Company at the office of any of its agents named in the above letter.

GRAIN MARKETS MAKE HISTORY; SOAR AND CRASH

Chicago Pit Forced to Halt Trading,

Beginning today the Chicago Board of Trade will open at 10:30 a. m., instead of 9:30, and close at 1:15 p. m., except on Saturday, when the close will be at 12 noon.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wilder markets, with larger volume of business and more sensational developments than those experienced last week have never been known in the grain trade, except possibly during the war period. They were not confined to any one market, but all participated, with price fluctuations that were impossible to follow.

The highest price level since 1930 was reached early in the week, showing net advances on wheat of 56⅛ to 75 cents from the low in March. The bulge culminated on Tuesday and the volume of business became so large and the trade so excited that it necessitated drastic movement by the Chicago Board of Trade directors. It also started liquidating and stop loss selling, which was only ended by the closing of the exchange on Thursday, July 20.

Severe Losses Shown.

Net declines on wheat for the week were 22¼ to 24½ cents, on corn 15⅛ to 19 cents, on oats 12¼ to 13⅜ cents, and on rye 30 to 30¾ cents. At the peak of the advance all wheat futures were selling above one dollar and at the close all were below that figure with the exception of May, which closed at $1.

Action of the wheat market, with its severe break, was due to an overextended long interest on the part of the public. Eastern speculators also were said to be carrying lines ranging from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels.

Directors of the Board of Trade made a move tried only once before in the history of trading. They closed the exchange for the last two days of the week and fixed minimum and maximum prices for daily fluctuations. It is believed these actions will restore confidence and put the market in good shape to function naturally.

Spring Wheat Crop Small.

Spring wheat production in the United States and Canada this year will be the smallest in many years. With a crop of less than 500 million bushels for the United States, and with western Canada's crop, it is not expected there will be any pressure of wheat on the market that will cause serious declines. What the trade would like to know now is, with the big inflation bulge checked, will the general public come in on the buying side in the future as it has in the past.

Closing prices on Thursday, July 20, were 90 cents for July, 91 to 92¾ cents for September, 95½ to 96½

Lake Shipping of Ore 6 Times Rate Last Year

Cleveland, O., July 23.—The ore for steel mills is moving down the great lakes at a rate of nearly six times greater than last year and coal movement is back to a normal rate—a million tons a week.

More than twice as many bulk freighters were in commission this week as there were last year and many more are to be added in the next five weeks.

The pickup in turn is reflected in mining operations at the head of the lakes, at ports where dock hands have been recalled to work and at railroad shops where repair crews have gone to work to avert a suddenly threatened shortage of "hopper" cars.

167 Freighters Running.

Figures announced today by H. M. Griggs, manager of the ore and coal exchange here, showed that up until last Thursday, there were 167 bulk freighters in commission, to which will be added about 45 by the end of next month. This does not include 27 "self-loaders" also in commission.

Last year, on Aug. 1, there were only 76 bulk freighters running out of the total American fleet of 332.

The spurt in lake activity dates from the middle of last month, when only 40 ore boats were in service. A number of companies are now operating their full fleets, fitted out at a cost of $2,000 to $3,000 a ship and bringing employment to 30 or 40 hands for each boat.

Activity Returns to Docks.

A number of docks, where an average of 50 to 80 men are employed, have been put back in activity and many have gone back to work in the iron mines, although no figures were available in this case.

The pickup also meant quickened pace at many railroad shops when it was discovered hopper cars, standing in storage for two years, were in need of repairs before they could be used to haul ore to the interior. Although not actual shortage was reported yet, it was indicated there may be a shortage of cars in condition for immediate use if the present pace continues.

Iron ore movements to July 1 were 2,264,413 gross tons, compared with only 388,45 tons at the same time a year ago. Griggs estimated that from 17,500,000 to 20,000,000 tons would be brought down this season—less than half the 45,000,000 or 50,000,000 tons moved in a normal year but a vast improvement over last year's low since the turn of the century of only 3,567,985 tons.

Coal movement in the week ending July 17 were 1,250,889 net tons, compared with 617,134 for the same week a year ago and 1,000,869 in 1931. For the season until July 17, the total this year was 11,139,317, compared with 7,499,430 for 1932 and 11,514,493 in 1931.

On the present basis, Griggs estimated this year's coal movement would be over 30,000,000 tons, bringing it back to the level of 31,387,405 for two years ago.

UPTURN IN STEEL OUTPUT HALTS; MILLS HOLD 57%

Trade Weighs Effect of U. S. Policies.

The steady rise in steelworks operations since the last week of March, when the industry was at 14 per cent, was checked last week when the rate barely held at 57 per cent, reports the magazine Steel. Last Wednesday the Iron Age had announced that steel ingot output had declined from 59 to 58 per cent of capacity.

However, an easier situation in July and August is not out of the way in the industry, reflects Steel, adding that producers generally are disposed to appraise the present reaction as a "technical one."

"Releases against all contracts have now been largely worked off," it is said, "and where higher prices are quoted—which is frequent—the incentive to commit further is lacking.

Several Factors Halt Rise.

"Automobile manufacturers are anticipating a slight seasonal let down in August; wage and working conditions have become increasingly uncertain in view of codes, and the weak stock and commodity markets and Washington's warnings against overproduction have had a dampening effect."

The magazine notes that "there is growing apprehension in some quarters that the national recovery administration program will interfere with the orderly working of economic laws, but the industry intends to coöperate and is basing certain fundamental policies on a long range view which is conservatively bullish."

For example, says the magazine, the United States Steel corporation will bring down 3 million tons more iron ore this season. The commissioning of 40 additional ore carriers is necessary. This makes 211 out of 330 great lakes ore carriers in service, against 99 on June 15.

More Blast Furnaces Lighted.

Three blast furnaces—one Carnegie at Duquesne, one Hanna at Buffalo, and one National Tube at Lorain—have been lighted. The Brooke stack in eastern Pennsylvania is to be blown in Sept. 1.

There may be difficulties over the price of heavy finished steel in August if producers adopt a one-price base and eliminate concessions for quantity, but "any passive resistance of consumers is expected to yield to requirements stimulated by generally improved demand," according to Steel. However, the magazine envisages large specifications against heavy finished steel contracts this week.

In general prices continue strong. A rise in bars, plates, and shapes is impending, and cold finished bar users are being urged to cover before a probable $5 increase. Some sheet mills are extending their new prices through the third quarter, although one declines to accept orders beyond July.

The magazine reports that semi-finished steel prices, particularly on sheet bars, are expected to rise by Aug. 1.

RENEWS DRIVE TO FREE FROZEN BANK DEPOSITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23.—J. H. Rand Jr., chairman of the committee for the nation, a group of industrialists organized to propose means of rebuilding prices and purchasing power, has addressed a letter to members of the committee urging renewed attention to its campaign to release frozen bank deposits.

The letter states that executives of industrial organizations have discovered that where banks are frozen, business is frozen. The group's special committee to release frozen bank deposits, under the chairmanship of E. I. McClintock, is conducting a nation-wide survey to find the exact amount of deposits in restricted and closed banks.

It is announced that the special committee has "established close contacts with Washington" and that "there is every indication that President Roosevelt's administration will deal in the same forceful and constructive manner with this problem that has characterized its action on other steps of its monetary and recovery program."

General Mills' Earnings for Year in Gain

General Mills, Inc., one of the leading Minneapolis milling companies, reported net income of $4,081,654, or $4.13 per common share, for the year ended May 31, 1933. This compared with net of $3,891,200, or $3.93 per common share, for the May 31, 1932, year and marked the third year during the last four that profits increased over the preceding year.

Current assets, including cash of $5,321,617, amounted to $32,779,927, about 6 times current liabilities of $5,407,428. Inventories totaled $20,310,415.

The management ascribed a large part of the successful results for the year to stability of markets for its products. "Aggressive merchandising," the report reads, "advertising and research activities have been continued to guide the management's sales efforts. Large use of advertising through press and radio campaigns has brought satisfactory results."

American Rolling Mill Gives Refunding Plan

New York, July 23.—The American Rolling Mill company today announced a plan for refunding its 4½ per cent gold notes which mature Nov. 1, 1933. Holders are offered the same principal amount of new 5 per cent notes, maturing Nov. 1, 1938, with a conversion privilege applying to the common stock. The company stated that "due to general business and financial conditions," it is unable to pay this issue on maturity.

CRASH IN STOCK MARKET WIPES OUT BILLIONS

Stormy Days of 1929 Are Recalled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23.—Wall street's hard riding stock market came to the end of the easy going last week. "Average" prices went crashing down 18 to 20 points or more, wiping anywhere from a third to a half of the inflated values pyramided up in the four months of speculation ushered in with the "new deal" administration.

Conservative calculations estimate that a good 7 billion dollars in new made paper fortunes went to smash in the stupendous rout of prices which got under way last Wednesday morning and continued through with unbroken fury until the close of business Friday night.

Accounts Swept Away.

"Shoestring" accounts were swept away by the thousands and the clamor of hard pressed brokers crying out for margins filled the street with a din reminiscent of the big panic days of 1929. It all left the boys with a terrible headache and a fresh vow to listen to reason if anybody ever tries to drag them into another speculative whirlwind such as the one adjudged to have come to an end in the tragic events of the last week.

CRASH IN STOCK MARKET WIPES OUT BILLIONS

Stormy Period of 1929 Is Recalled.

It may be, however, that the vow will be an easy one for many of the penitents to keep for a while, for not since the porters finished sweeping up the litter of 1929 have the most of them been so thoroughly cleaned out. The purging has been one of the most drastic in Wall street history.

Believe Worst Is Over.

There is a disposition among the victims and their sympathizers to believe that the worst is over, now that the selling has pretty well burned itself out. Some are all ready for the rally which they foresee just around the corner, a rally which they insist is immediately inevitable under all the known rules of the game. Here and there may be found an optimist more deeply ingrained with the "new deal" spirit that the rest who can cite precedent to show that the market is now due to recover at least half of the ground lost before putting itself in a way to take another one on the chin.

Certainly the shakeout has been drastic enough, it would seem, to warrant some measure of the hopes so glibly professed. Brokers reported that much of the buying which steadied the list in the late dealings Friday and which bolstered it against the fresh selling waves which swept over it in yesterday's brief but feverish session came from traders who got out in the first day or two of the storm and who had convinced themselves that prices had shrunk to a level that made them once more attractive.

Grain Prices Pegged.

Moreover, with grain prices pegged at Thursday's bottoms and the administration working with might and main to keep prices moving ahead in all directions, it is widely reasoned that the market has blown off enough steam to bring it back in line with the rest of the procession.

The chief anxiety of the self-styled "friends of the market" now is that the collapse, terrific as it was, may have the effect of undermining popular confidence to some extent and thus slow up expenditures which formed the new lifeblood being transfused into reviving business.

See Some Slowing Up.

Trade reviews of the week indicated that industrial activity had already begun to taper off a bit in spite of the surface show of momentum. Thus the steel industry, while increasing its operations a point or so, is experiencing a drop in orders and retail trade reports a slowing up attributed in some measure to a letdown in the rush inspired by fears of inflationary prices. Big producers in various lines are beginning to wonder how their lines will fare, once the dealers' shelves, now beginning to bulge with stock laid in to anticipate a stepup in prices, are filled to capacity. Will the ultimate consumer do his share toward keeping things moving or, more important still, will he be able to carry his end of the load under the increased costs the industrial recovery program of the President entails until his own income makes the grade?

The new week finds the "averages" as gauged by THE TRIBUNE'S index of fifty representative issues back to 79.90 as compared with last Tuesday's high of 98.05 and the low of 46.85 from which the spring advance started. The decline in some of the issues most prominent in the upswing has rivaled some of the breaks of the 1929 collapse.

Some Sharp Declines.

Corn Market a Puzzle.

With the largest stocks of corn known in years in the visible supply, heavy holdings back in the country, and only a limited demand, the cash situation in corn is regarded by traders as bearish. However, the crop outlook is none too good, taken as a whole. There are many good spots throughout the corn belt, also numerous poor ones. Temperatures of 100 to 110 degrees in parts of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, and South Dakota, it is feared, have damaged the corn through burning the tassels, preventing pollination.

Cash corn has sold at unusual discounts, which were taken advantage of by elevator interests. They bought the grain as it arrived and sold futures against it, thus securing probable carrying charges. At the high point prices were the best in several years and at the close July was 46 cents, September 53 to 53¼ cents, December 56½ to 58 cents, and May 64 to 63½ cents. Prices for the week follow:

Oats React from Top.

Heavy liquidation of oats by speculators carried prices up to new high levels, from which a profit taking movement, in sympathy with the break in wheat and corn, carried prices down. The close on September was 34½ to 35 cents; December, 37 to 37⅛ cents, and May, 41 to 41⅛ cents.

Rye furnished plenty of excitement for the trade, with heavy buying by large speculators, but the advance culminated at last, following the break in wheat. The market closed with September at 67 cents, December 73 to 72½ cents, and May 81½ cents.

Action of the barley market was so erratic that it necessitated placing a 5 cent limit either up or down by the Board of Trade directors. The close on September barley was 76¾ cents and December was 80¾ cents.

Lard prices advanced to new high levels on heavy speculative buying, following grain, only to react on realizing sales and close materially lower.

DRUG, INC., ASKS PROXIES ON PLAN FOR DISSOLUTION

Louis K. Liggett, chairman of Drug, Inc.; George M. Gales, vice chairman; A. H. Diebold, president; W. E. Weiss, vice president and general manager, and E. I. McClintock, secretary, have been named to receive and vote the proxies of stockholders at a special meeting called for Aug. 7.

The purpose of the meeting is to take action on the proposed dissolution of Drug, Inc., and the segregation of its properties into five new independent companies. The directors fixed July 10 as the record date for the determination of stockholders entitled to vote. The Bankers Trust company, New York, has been named to receive proxies.

The five constituent companies of Drug, Inc., which it is proposed to make independent concerns are: Sterling Products, Inc., United Drug corporation, Vick Chemical corporation, Bristol-Myers corporation and Life Savers corporation.
